INDEX OF PERSONAL INFORMATION

Foreword

The Privacy Act was proclaimed in 1983, establishing the right of individuals to find out what personal information is kept about them by the federal government in the course of its operations. The Act also ensures that individual privacy is protected, by establishing guidelines to control the way in which such personal information may be used.

First published in 1983, the Index of Personal Information assists individuals who wish to find out whether information about themselves is contained in government records, and to acquire copies of such material if so desired. The Index has been revised twice since 1983 to include new material, and its format has also evolved to simplify locating the information required.

The 1985 Index of Personal Information is composed of alphabetically-organized chapters for each government department or agency subject to the Privacy Act. Each chapter contains descriptions of personal information held by that department, agency, or Crown corporation concerning both private individuals and employees of the institution. The chapter numbers are assigned to correspond to the chapter numbers in the Access Register so the two publications can be used together for cross-reference purposes.

A subject index at the beginning of the book lists the federal government's personal information holdings according to subject matter. It provides an easy way to look up a subject and locate the correct chapter in which the information may be found.

Finally, as the numbering system has been revised in the 1985 Index, a cross-reference table is provided at the back of the book which lists the former bank numbers (1984) and their new identification numbers. Where personal information has not appeared in the Index before, no former identifier is given and the word "New" appears beside the title. Occasionally the letter "B" will be seen after the old identification number; this means that the bank has been described in the Bulletin, published semi-annually to update information about new personal information bank holdings and classes of records.

It is hoped these revisions will make the Index of Personal Information more useful to those seeking information about the federal government's personal information holdings. Other suggestions on ways to improve access to such personal information are invited, and can be sent to

I. INTRODUCTION

General Information

What Information is Available?

The government acquires information from and about individuals on a wide variety of subjects, in the course of carrying out its programs and operations. Some of these programs, such as family allowance and income tax collection, apply to large numbers of people. Other programs relate only to special groups, such as veterans and the unemployed. Personal information collected may include:

- complaint and enquiry information about government programs;
- case information collected through the administration of social benefit programs, law enforcement, assistance programs or grants to individuals;
- surveys where records on individuals are maintained;
- computerized data containing personal information which can be accessed by means of such individual identifiers as name or social insurance number; and
- files on current or former federal employees.

Please see the Privacy Act for a complete description of the meaning of “personal information”.

Individual Rights Concerning Personal Information

The Privacy Act provides all Canadian citizens, permanent residents of Canada and (by Privacy Extension Order Number One) inmates of Canadian penitentiaries with the right:

- (a) to access information about themselves held by the federal government;
- (b) to have this personal information protected from disclosure except in special circumstances; and
- (c) to control the collection and use of such personal information.

Some information, such as items related to national security or law enforcement, cannot be released to the general public. In addition, the disclosure of personal information that may affect the safety of another individual is not permitted. These exemptions are more specifically spelled out in the Privacy Act.

To Whom May this Information be Disclosed?

Personal information about an individual may not be disclosed to another party without the individual's consent, except under one or more of the following circumstances:

- (a) when it is for the purpose for which the information was first collected, or for some use consistent with that purpose;
- (b) in order to comply with an Act of Parliament;
- (c) in order to comply with a legal document such as a warrant or summons;

- (d) for use by the Attorney General of Canada in legal proceedings;
- (e) for use by an investigative body (e.g. RCMP or Military Police) to enforce a law;
- (f) for use by a third party, such as a province, foreign country or international body, for the purpose of administering or enforcing a law, when an agreement to this effect exists between Canada and the third party;
- (g) when it is required by a Member of Parliament to assist the constituent to whom the information relates;
- (h) in order to carry out an audit;
- (i) for Public Archives' archival purposes;
- (j) for statistical or research purposes, if the researcher provides a written undertaking that information provided will not be disclosed further;
- (k) in order to assist native people in the preparation of claims;
- (l) in order to collect a debt owed to the government or to make a payment owed by the Crown to an individual;
- (m) in order to further the public interest; or
- (n) to benefit the individual to whom the information relates.

Classes of Information other than Personal Information.

To obtain information contained in federal government records which is not personal information and is not covered under the Privacy Act, please consult the Access Register.

Both the Index of Personal Information and Access Register may be found in the following locations:

- public libraries,
- federal government libraries, departmental reading rooms, and other government offices open to the public,
- municipal offices or post offices in rural areas,
- university and college libraries,
- offices of each Indian Band, and
- offices serving Métis, non-status Indians, and Inuits.

Locating The Information

If you know the correct department, agency or Crown corporation

Government departments, agencies and Crown corporations usually permit individuals to see most of the information they have collected about them without a formal request. A telephone call or letter to the appropriate branch or division is all that may be needed.

If this is not the case, write to the Privacy Co-ordinator of the appropriate institution at the address given under Access Procedures at the beginning of each chapter.

Federal employees seeking information about their employment records should contact the personnel officer or the Privacy Co-ordinator of their current department, agency or Crown corporation. Former federal employees should in all cases contact the National Personnel Records Centre, Public Archives of Canada, 393 Wellington Street, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0N3.

Before contacting the Privacy Co-ordinator, consult the Index of Personal Information to locate the correct title and number of the personal information bank(s) which contain the information you require.

If you do not know the correct department, agency or Crown corporation

Use the subject index located near the front of the book where the major subjects of each personal information bank are listed alphabetically and are linked to the personal information bank identification number. The first three letters of this number identify the department, agency or Crown corporation. There is a list of these identifiers and the full title of the department, agency or Crown corporation to which they correspond at the beginning of the subject index.

If you still cannot locate the information:

Contact the Access Co-ordinator of the department, agency or Crown corporation you think might have the information and ask for assistance in locating the correct personal information bank(s).

Accessing The Information

At present, there is no fee for processing a request for personal information under the Privacy Act.

First use the Index of Personal Information to find the location of the information you require. Then, fill out the Personal Information Request Form which is contained in the same display box as this book. An example of how to fill out the form has been provided in the following pages to assist you in supplying the necessary information. The Personal Information Request Form must be used when the information required is not available on an informal basis, and it is thought the Privacy Act gives the right of access to this information. The form should be sent to the Privacy Co-ordinator of the correct department, agency or Crown corporation, at the address given under the Access Procedures heading in the appropriate chapter

Under the law, you should receive notice within 30 days either: responding to your request for information; notifying you that access will be given and that your request is being processed; or that access has been denied, either because the information does not exist or because it is exempt under specific provisions of the Privacy Act.

Personal Information Banks — General Public

Two types of personal information banks are found in the Index of Personal Information: "Registered Banks", with a Treasury Board registration number, are banks that have met all the reporting requirements under the Privacy Act; "Unregistered Banks" are those which have not yet met all the reporting requirements and which have not been assigned a Treasury Board registration number. Both types contain a new identification number, a former identification number (1984), a title, and a description of the type of information they contain.

The new identification number begins with a three-letter identifier unique to the department, agency or Crown corporation, followed by a "P" which means the bank contains personal information. If it is a public bank, it is then followed by "PU" and a bank number which distinguishes it from other public information banks of the same institution.

Registered Banks

In addition to the above information, registered bank descriptions also describe the class of individual from whom the information was obtained and to whom it relates; the purpose for which the information was collected; the consistent uses of the information (that is, other uses to which the information may be put); retention and disposal standards, established by Public Archives; if the bank is an exempt bank under the provisions of the Privacy Act; the identifying number of any related classes of records (COR) described in the Access Register; and the Treasury Board registration number which signifies the bank has met all the reporting requirements under the Privacy Act.

Unregistered Banks

Unregistered bank descriptions are less complete than registered bank descriptions but are usually followed by one or more of the following:

IND = the number of individuals included in the bank

ADP (Automated Data Processing) = the way in which the information is stored

m = for manual (paper, microfilm, etc.)

c = computerized

h = hybrid (both manual and computerized)

DATE = when the information was received

ID = the identifier to locate individuals in the bank

LOC = the geographic location of the bank files

TERM = the termination date on which the information will cease to be of operational value.

Classes of Personal Information

A class of personal information refers to personal information that is held by the institution but which is not organized by name or other identifier and is not used for any administrative purpose. Such information might include unsolicited opinions, complaints, or correspondence, scattered through the general subject files. It is not used or intended to be used in a way which would affect individuals. Classes of personal information are described in each chapter after the listing of banks containing information which relates to the general public.

Personal Information Banks — Federal Employees

Federal employee personal information banks contain personal information about current or former employees of the federal government. Information on regular and reserve members of the Canadian Armed Forces, RCMP members, and incumbents of Governor-in-Council positions is also included in these banks.

There are three types of federal employee information banks. They are distinguishable from each other by the use of the letters “SE” (Standard), “CE” (Central) and “PE” (Particular) in their identification numbers. Their bank numbers, 700 series for Central Banks; 800 series for Particular Banks and 900 series for Standard Banks, also distinguish them.

Standard Banks consist of standard information which all government institutions maintain on their own employees. Descriptions of these standard banks are contained in the following pages, and you will be referred to them if the standard banks of a particular institution are unregistered. Descriptions of registered standard banks appear within the institutional chapter.

Complaint Procedures

If personal information has been used other than in accordance with the law; or if access has been refused; or if requested corrections to information have not been made; or, if access was not given in the official language requested, complaints can be addressed to

The Office of the Privacy Commissioner
Place de Ville, Tower B
14th Floor, 112 Kent Street
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 1H3

If the response from the Office of the Privacy Commissioner is not satisfactory, you may take the case to federal court within 45 days of receiving the Commissioner's report.

Personal Information Containing Errors or Omissions

Information on file, which is being used or is available for use for an administrative purpose, can be corrected if it contains omissions or errors; or a notation can be attached to the records showing that a correction was requested but the department, agency or Crown corporation refused to make the correction. Individuals can also require the institution to inform anyone who has used the information in the previous two years that a correction was made, or was requested but not made.

II. FEDERAL EMPLOYEE INFORMATION BANKS

II. Federal Employee Information Banks

Introduction

The provisions for the protection of personal information in the Privacy Act apply to all personal information under the control of the federal government, including personal information about government employees, regular and reserve members of the armed forces, RCMP members and incumbents of Governor-in-Council positions.

Purpose

The purpose of this section is to provide descriptions of personal information banks relating to current and former employees of federal government institutions where the information pertains to their status as employees, along with procedures for access to these employee information banks. The standard descriptions are provided in order to ensure that the Privacy Act is applied in a consistent manner to employee information held by all government institutions. The banks listed in this section encompass information on all storage media relevant to the purposes for which they have been established.

Description

Employee information banks are described under the following headings as applicable for each government institution:

- (a) Standard Banks, consisting of standard information which all government institutions may maintain on their own employees. It should be noted that some government institutions do not maintain for each employee all the records described in the Standard Banks and that the description of the Standard Banks does not in every case reflect the physical organization of the records maintained by federal government institutions.

While government institutions may declare additional employee information banks — where, for example, an institution is not subject to the Public Service Employment Act or the Public Service Staff Relations Act, — institutions are required to conform to all of the standards indicated in the nineteen Standard Banks unless specifically exempted from doing so by the Treasury Board (see Standard Bank Descriptions following.)

- (b) Central Banks, consisting of centralized information on employees in all or several government institutions, maintained by the Privy Council Office, the Public Archives of Canada, the Public Service Commission, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Treasury Board and the Departments of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, External Affairs, Health and Welfare, Labour, Public Works and Supply and Services.
- (c) Particular Banks, consisting of information over and above that in the Standard Banks, which some government institutions maintain on their own employees.

In the case of Standard and Central Banks, the social insurance number (SIN) is specifically identified when it comprises part of the personal information in the bank. This is intended to more clearly indicate the purposes for which the SIN is collected and the main use and consistent uses to which the number may be put.

Access Procedures

(a) Informal Procedures

The informal procedures, in existence prior to the proclamation of the Privacy Act, are maintained to make employee information available to current employees of federal government institutions. Current employees, including employees who have transferred from one federal government institution to another, should seek access to their records by contacting the personnel officers of their current employing institution at headquarters, or in the regions, as appropriate. For access to employee records maintained in Central Banks, current employees should contact the personnel officer of the institution which presently employs them. Current employees are encouraged to provide reasonable identifying information about themselves and the records requested, to assist in prompt and efficient retrieval of their records.

(b) Formal Procedures

The Privacy Act extends the right of government employees to obtain access to information about themselves in their capacity as employees. To exercise their rights under the Act, government employees should complete a Personal Information Request Form and forward it to the Privacy Co-ordinator, or to other specifically designated officers in their institution. Former employees should in all cases contact the National Personnel Records Centre, Public Archives of Canada, 395 Wellington Street, Ottawa, Canada K1A 0N3.

Two-Year Rule

Sub-section 4(1) of the Privacy Regulations requires that personal information, including employee information, be retained by an institution for at least two years following the last time the personal information was used for an administrative purpose, unless the individual concerned consents to its earlier disposal. The only exception to this rule is where an Act of Parliament or a Regulation specifically stipulates a shorter retention period. The reason for the two-year rule is to provide individuals with sufficient time to obtain access to personal information which the federal government may have collected or compiled about them for administrative purposes.

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada.

P-SE-902 Formerly Identified as: S-2

Staffing

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed.

P-SE-903 Formerly Identified as: S-3

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed.

P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force.

P-SE-905 Formerly Identified as: S-5

Training and Development

Description: This bank contains personal data including course applications and evaluations; social insurance number; examination results and certificates; records of fee payments; and correspondence related to participation of employees in training and development

II. Federal Employee Information Banks

Introduction

The provisions for the protection of personal information in the Privacy Act apply to all personal information under the control of the federal government, including personal information about government employees, regular and reserve members of the armed forces, RCMP members and incumbents of Governor-in-Council positions.

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force.

II. Federal Employee Information Banks

Introduction

The provisions for the protection of personal information in the Privacy Act apply to all personal information under the control of the federal government, including personal information about government employees, regular and reserve members of the armed forces, RCMP members and incumbents of Governor-in-Council positions.

Purpose

The purpose of this section is to provide descriptions of personal information banks relating to current and former employees of federal government institutions where the information pertains to their status as employees, along with procedures for access to these employee information banks. The standard descriptions are provided in order to ensure that the Privacy Act is applied in a consistent manner to employee information held by all government institutions. The banks listed in this section encompass information on all storage media relevant to the purposes for which they have been established.

Description

Employee information banks are described under the following headings as applicable for each government institution:

- (a) Standard Banks, consisting of standard information which all government institutions may maintain on their own employees. It should be noted that some government institutions do not maintain for each employee all the records described in the Standard Banks and that the description of the Standard Banks does not in every case reflect the physical organization of the records maintained by federal government institutions.

While government institutions may declare additional employee information banks — where, for example, an institution is not subject to the Public Service Employment Act or the Public Service Staff Relations Act, — institutions are required to conform to all of the standards indicated in the nineteen Standard Banks unless specifically exempted from doing so by the Treasury Board (see Standard Bank Descriptions following.)

- (b) Central Banks, consisting of centralized information on employees in all or several government institutions, maintained by the Privy Council Office, the Public Archives of Canada, the Public Service Commission, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Treasury Board and the Departments of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, External Affairs, Health and Welfare, Labour, Public Works and Supply and Services.
- (c) Particular Banks, consisting of information over and above that in the Standard Banks, which some government institutions maintain on their own employees.

In the case of Standard and Central Banks, the social insurance number (SIN) is specifically identified when it comprises part of the personal information in the bank. This is intended to more clearly indicate the purposes for which the SIN is collected and the main use and consistent uses to which the number may be put.

Access Procedures

(a) Informal Procedures

The informal procedures, in existence prior to the proclamation of the Privacy Act, are maintained to make employee information available to current employees of federal government institutions. Current employees, including employees who have transferred from one federal government institution to another, should seek access to their records by contacting the personnel officers of their current employing institution at headquarters, or in the regions, as appropriate. For access to employee records maintained in Central Banks, current employees should contact the personnel officer of the institution which presently employs them. Current employees are encouraged to provide reasonable identifying information about themselves and the records requested, to assist in prompt and efficient retrieval of their records.

(b) Formal Procedures

The Privacy Act extends the right of government employees to obtain access to information about themselves in their capacity as employees. To exercise their rights under the Act, government employees should complete a Personal Information Request Form and forward it to the Privacy Co-ordinator, or to other specifically designated officers in their institution. Former employees should in all cases contact the National Personnel Records Centre, Public Archives of Canada, 395 Wellington Street, Ottawa, Canada K1A 0N3.

Two-Year Rule

Sub-section 4(1) of the Privacy Regulations requires that personal information, including employee information, be retained by an institution for at least two years following the last time the personal information was used for an administrative purpose, unless the individual concerned consents to its earlier disposal. The only exception to this rule is where an Act of Parliament or a Regulation specifically stipulates a shorter retention period. The reason for the two-year rule is to provide individuals with sufficient time to obtain access to personal information which the federal government may have collected or compiled about them for administrative purposes.

Standard Bank Descriptions

P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada.

Staffing

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed.

P-SE-903 Formerly Identified as: S-3

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed.

P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force.

P-SE-905 Formerly Identified as: S-5

Training and Development

Description: This bank contains personal data including course applications and evaluations; social insurance number; examination results and certificates; records of fee payments; and correspondence related to participation of employees in training and development activities, sponsored both by the government and operated by private organizations. It should be noted that participation and achievement records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record and that information on an employee's needs for individual development related to performance is contained in the Performance Reviews and Employee Appraisals Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of training and development programs within government institutions.

Consistent Uses: To approve and register the participation of employees in training and development activities and to certify the achievements of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after completion of the particular training and development undertaken by an employee.

P-SE-906 Formerly Identified as: S-6

Official Languages

Description: This bank contains course enrollment and attendance information; language training applications containing basic personal data, such as first official language, date of birth, and social insurance number for purposes of identification; language knowledge examination scores; training certificates and correspondence about the official languages qualifications of employees. The bank may also contain duplicate input forms for the Official Languages Information System (OLIS) and the Language Training Module (LTM). Language examination, exemption and training records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Similar data is also held in Particular Banks of the Public Service Commission and Treasury Board Secretariat.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for administration of official languages policies as they pertain to employees of the federal Public Service, to document and support decisions pertaining to official languages qualifications and language testing and to document the language training needs and accomplishments of employees.

Consistent Uses: To support and document decisions concerning individual employees on staffing, entitlement to bilingual bonus, transfers and promotions; and to aid in determining the linguistic status of employees and auditing of the administration of official language programs.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last documentation the records are destroyed.

P-SE-907 Formerly Identified as: S-7

Occupational Health and Safety

Description: The bank contains accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and copies of the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, which are retained by institutions in the appropriate responsibility centre. First Aid Treatment records are also retained by the institution in accordance with Treasury Board policy. Records, including medical documents about individuals; claims for compensation; related correspondence and records of monies paid are held by Labour Canada. Records of occupational health evaluations and all personal medical data are retained by the Medical Services Branch, Health and Welfare Canada under medical confidentiality status. Records concerning the occurrence, investigation and settlement of vehicle accidents are retained in Standard Bank P-SE-908.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of occupational health and safety programs in government institutions, including accident prevention, health protection and authorization of leave and benefits associated with work-related injury or illness. Safety and health details and causes of accidents/ injuries for accident prevention and health protection purposes are also recorded to support the effective administration of each institution's health and safety program.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions relating to worker's compensation and injury-on-duty leave; to act as a means of preventing injuries and illnesses and subsequent disabilities arising out of, or aggravated by, conditions of work; to establish that individuals subject to certain identified occupational risks are able to continue working without detriment to their health or safety or to that of others; and to establish the conditions under which certain individuals with identified illnesses or disabilities are able to continue to work under controlled conditions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years for first aid treatment records; ten years for accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, after which the records are destroyed. Records held by Labour Canada and Health and Welfare Canada are retained for the periods specified in the relevant bank descriptions.

P-SE-908 Formerly Identified as: S-14

Vehicle, Ship, Boat and Aircraft Accidents

Description: This bank contains reports on accidents; claims of damages; legal decisions; settlement transactions and correspondence concerning accidents involving government-owned and leased vehicles, ships, boats and aircraft as well as privately-owned vehicles, ships, boats and aircraft used on official business. Records concerning occupational health and safety, as well as authorization of leave and benefits associated with work-related injury or illness are retained in Standard Bank P-SE-907.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain information regarding vehicle, ship, boat and aircraft accidents involving employees of a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To determine liability for such accidents and to approve damage settlements.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after the settlement of individual claims, after which the records are destroyed.

P-SE-909 Formerly Identified as: S-8

Security Clearances

Description: This bank contains completed personal histories; summaries of Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) (previously, RCMP Security Service) investigations; fingerprint cards; criminal histories; social insurance number; security briefings and correspondence related to the security clearances of employees. Notation of level of clearance may be attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Details of CSIS investigations are maintained in a CSIS bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information pertinent to the determination of the appropriate level of security clearance for government employees whose position requires a security classification; to determine the level of security clearance and to provide information for the administration of government security measures. In making decisions on levels of clearance, institutions may refer only to the information contained in this bank and not to investigative information contained in the CSIS bank.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfers, promotions, discipline and termination of employment.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after an employee leaves the institution for which the clearance was done, after which the records are destroyed.

P-SE-910 Formerly Identified as: S-9

Grievances

Description: This bank contains presentations by employees and bargaining unit representatives; receipt notices and replies by management; testimony by witnesses; legal opinions; investigation and analysis reports; job descriptions in regard to classification grievances, and correspondence about grievances.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information used in the grievance process through all levels up to the Public Service Staff Relations Board.

Consistent Uses: Information contained in this bank is used exclusively to accommodate and, where possible, resolve grievances through all levels in the grievance process, up to referral to the Public Service Staff Relations Board.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Three years following date of resolution or date of decision by the Public Service Staff Relations Board the records are destroyed.

P-SE-911 Formerly Identified as: S-10

Discipline

Description: This bank contains notices of disciplinary action and correspondence about employee misconduct; testimony by witnesses; legal opinions; investigations of possible misconduct and analysis reports of these investigations. It is important to note that notices of disciplinary action may be attached to the Employee Personnel Record.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain information used in disciplinary actions in government institutions and to determine the need for and nature of disciplinary actions.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on pay and benefits; attendance and leave; transfer, demotion and termination of employment.

Retention and Disposal Standards: For correspondence regarding investigations, testimony by witnesses and legal opinions - five years for cases where employee was found guilty of misconduct and three years for cases where employee was found not guilty. For notices of disciplinary action, including notices attached to the Employee Personnel Record, the time limit is that specified in applicable collective agreements or, where no such agreement exists, three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed.

P-SE-912 Formerly Identified as: S-11

Description: This bank contains photographs, identification forms including social insurance number, and correspondence related to the issuance of identification and building-pass cards. Provision of the SIN by individuals is not mandatory.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain information relating to the issuance of identification and building-pass cards.

Consistent Uses: To issue identification and building-pass cards.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of identification and building-pass cards.

PSE-918 Formerly Identified as: NO REFERENCE

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established.

PSE-919 Formerly Identified as: NO REFERENCE

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case.

Personal Information Request Form

For official use only

Individuals are required to use this form to request access to personal information about themselves under the Privacy Act.

STEP 1: Decide whether or not you wish to submit a request under the Privacy Act. You may decide to request the information informally, without using the procedures required by the Act, through the local office of the appropriate government institution or through the Privacy Co-ordinator listed in the Index of Personal Information. Copies of the Index are available in public libraries, post offices in rural areas and government information offices.

STEP 2: Consult the Index of Personal Information. If you have decided to exercise your rights of access under the Privacy Act, review the descriptions of personal information for institutions which are most likely to have the information you are seeking. Decide on the personal information bank or class of personal information likely to contain the information.

STEP 3: Complete this personal information request form. Indicate the personal information bank or class of personal information to which you are requesting access, and include any additional information indicated in the bank description to locate the information you are seeking, or to verify your own identity. Indicate whether you wish to receive copies of the information, examine the original in a government office, or if you are requesting other arrangements for access. There is no application fee for making a request under the Privacy Act.

STEP 4: Send the request to the person identified in the Index as the appropriate officer responsible for the particular personal information bank or class.

STEP 5: Review the information you received in response to your request. Decide if you wish to make further requests under the Privacy Act. You may wish to exercise your rights to request corrections or to require that notations be attached to the information when corrections are not made. You may also decide to complain to the Privacy Commissioner when you believe that you have been denied any of your rights under the Act.

ADVISORY COUNCIL ON THE STATUS OF WOMEN

Chapter 1

ADVISORY COUNCIL ON THE STATUS OF WOMEN

Background

Established in 1973, the Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women (CACSW) is composed of 30 members appointed by the federal government to bring before the government and the public matters of interest and concern to women, and to advise the Minister responsible for the Status of Women on such topics.

The Council has 27 members appointed for specific terms, with representation from all the provinces and territories, plus a full-time President and two vice-presidents. Council meetings are held at least twice a year in Ottawa.

Overall Responsibilities

In addressing itself to the concerns of all Canadian women, the 30 members of the Council bring forward the particular problems of their regions. Research and background material provide the base upon which Council recommendations are made following deliberation by members at general meetings.

Recommendations for change in legislation and for other measures to improve the status of women are presented to the government through the Minister responsible. The Council has the unique right and responsibility to inform the public of its recommendations at the same time as it reports to Parliament. Council activities — briefs, speeches, responses to current events, open communication with the public — maintain an awareness of the inequalities facing women in Canadian society today.

Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women (CACSW) Talent Bank

The talent bank was established in 1979 at the request of the Minister responsible for the Status of Women for the purpose of promoting greater presence of women on federal boards, commissions and councils. The talent bank files contain the curricula vitae of women with expertise in a variety of areas who would be suitable for appointment to federal bodies. The curricula vitae are used to put forward names of qualified women in anticipation of impending appointments. These files are organized by provinces/territories and by areas of expertise.

STANDARD BANKS

ASW/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: ACSW-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

ADVISORY COUNCIL ON THE STATUS OF WOMEN

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Staffing

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 000246

ASW/P-SE-903 Formerly Identified as: ACSW-S-3

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 000247

ASW/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: ACSW-S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed to the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. PAC# = 85-001

Training and Development

Description: This bank contains personal data including course applications and evaluations; social insurance number; examination results and certificates; records of fee payments; and correspondence related to participation of employees in training and development activities, sponsored both by the government and operated by private organizations. It should be noted that participation and achievement records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record and that information on an employee's needs for individual development related to performance is contained in the Performance Reviews and Employee Appraisals Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of training and development programs within government institutions.

Consistent Uses: To approve and register the participation of employees in training and development activities and to certify the achievements of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after completion of the particular training and development undertaken by an employee. PAC# = 85-001

Official Languages

Description: This bank contains course enrollment and attendance information; language training applications containing basic personal data, such as first official language, date of birth, and social insurance number for purposes of identification; language knowledge examination scores; training certificates and correspondence about the official languages qualifications of employees. The bank may also contain duplicate input forms for the Official Languages Information System (OLIS) and the Language Training Module (LTM). Language examination, exemption and training records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Similar data is also held in Particular Banks of the Public Service Commission and Treasury Board Secretariat.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for administration of official languages policies as they pertain to employees of the federal Public Service, to document and support decisions pertaining to official languages qualifications and language testing and to document the language training needs and accomplishments of employees.

Consistent Uses: To support and document decisions concerning individual employees on staffing, entitlement to bilingual bonus, transfers and promotions; and to aid in determining the linguistic status of employees and auditing of the administration of official language programs.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last documentation the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Chapter 2

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Background

The aim of the Department of Agriculture is to develop and assist the Canadian agriculture and food system to provide for the needs of Canadian consumers and export markets in a manner which ensures a dependable supply of safe, nutritious food at reasonable prices; to ensure equitable returns to producers, processors and marketers; and to meet Canadian food and technological aid commitments to international development.

The Minister of Agriculture, the Department and agencies administer 43 Acts concerning food and agriculture industries. The activities of the Department extend from the farmer to the consumer, through all phases of production, processing and marketing of crops and livestock. The Department also assists farmers through crop insurance, price stabilization, and agricultural adjustment programs to alleviate losses caused by the weather, changing markets, and certain other hazards. While the collection and use of personal information is necessary for the performance of most activities, it is especially important for the following activities: research; regulation and licensing of imports and exports of livestock and plant products; control and eradication of animal diseases; and administration of the various loan and subsidy programs.

Classes of Personal Information

Other Programs and Agreements

This class reflects other programs and agreements not specifically covered under the other classes. These other programs and agreements are aimed at resolving specific problems of a limited nature or in specifically defined areas of the country. For example, Federal-Provincial Agreements such as those under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA) are concerned with rural problems of unemployment and social disadvantages. Special ARDA agreements have been used as a vehicle to improve the economic circumstances of native people by providing financial and other assistance to create job opportunities. A 15-year development agreement, the Prince Edward Island Comprehensive Development Plan, was signed by Canada and the Island in 1969, under the authority of the Fund for Rural Economic Development Act. The Plan has allowed for the design and implementation of a broad range of programs to stimulate economic growth, create jobs and raise per-capita income. Special areas have been designated in Canada, such as the Magdalen Islands, in order to deal with special problems of economic expansion and social adjustment. In addition, under the Federal Development Strategy for Prince Edward Island, the Department delivers the Small Business Assistance Program which provides financial assistance for capital projects.

Personal information may be stored in administering programs falling within this class. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the name of the program concerned and the name of the specific project.

General Correspondence and Enquiries

Personal information in this class relates to routine correspondence concerning the regulatory and licensing activities associated with meat inspection, pesticides, feeds and fertilizers, veterinary biologics, and the humane treatment of animals. It also relates to general enquiries concerning agricultural research, market intelligence, food advisory information and financial assistance to marketing boards and cooperatives. The personal information contained in this class normally includes the name and address of the enquirer, but is neither arranged nor retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files controlled by the Department and is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject and the date of the correspondence. The retention period for this class of personal

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at both headquarters and the regions.

DOA/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: AGR-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

ATLANTIC PILOTAGE AUTHORITY

Chapter 3

ATLANTIC PILOTAGE AUTHORITY

Background

As a result of recommendations made by the Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four pilotage authorities — Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes, and Pacific — are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Atlantic Pilotage Authority, Ltd. was incorporated in carrying out the Pilotage Act in 1972, and pursuant to the Financial Administration Act, (Schedule SC 1983-84, 31) was designated a Schedule C Parent Crown corporation.

Overall Responsibilities

The role of the Authority is to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries — all coastal waters in the Atlantic region. As a further goal, the authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

ATOMIC ENERGY CONTROL BOARD

Chapter 4

ATOMIC ENERGY CONTROL BOARD

Background

The Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB) was established in 1946 by the Atomic Energy Control Act (RSC 1970 c. A-19). In addition to this Act and its related Regulations, the AECB administers the Nuclear Liability Act. The head office is in Ottawa.

Overall Responsibilities

The AECB is empowered by the Atomic Energy Control Act to control the development, application and use of atomic energy. This is done by a comprehensive licensing system covering all dealings in prescribed atomic energy substances and items.

The objective of the AECB is to protect the health and safety of workers and the public, and to ensure the physical security and safeguarding of nuclear materials in the Canadian industry. In the occupational health and safety area, the AECB requires verification that workers in the industry are protected against radiation in excess of the limits set out in the Regulations. To this end all workers wear dosimeters, supplied by an approved dosimetry service, to record their exposures, and the AECB appoints inspectors both from its own staff and, by arrangement, from provincial governments and institutions, to assure compliance with AECB licence and Regulations requirements. The AECB also invites federal and provincial health authorities to name experts to act as medical advisers in the field of occupational radiological health and safety. These actions lead to the development of files in which personal histories and occupational data may be stored.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the AECB, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specified banks described above. Such information relates to the occupational exposure of atomic radiation workers to radiation near or beyond the limits permitted by the Atomic Energy Control Regulations. Such exposure may occur in the mining, refining, fabricating, power generating and waste management sectors of the nuclear industry, and in the fields of use of radioisotopes in industry and medicine. For all these areas there are active files in which events of high exposure to individuals and groups may on occasion be discussed, particularly with respect to accurate determination of the dose value to be recorded in the National Dose Registry (of National Health and Welfare), and to decisions on the hazard presented by such doses to individuals and their continued working in similar environments.

Such records are retained in the subject files in which they arise. The information is retrievable given (particularly) the identification of the AECB licensee in whose facilities or under whose responsibility the event occurred, with additional specifics concerning an individual's name, the nature and date of the event, the location in Canada, and the sector of the industry involved.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters.

OAG/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: AG-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

OFFICE OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

OAG/P-SE-903 Formerly Identified as: AG-S-3

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 001247

OAG/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: AG-S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Official Languages

Description: This bank contains course enrollment and attendance information; language training applications containing basic personal data, such as first official language, date of birth, and social insurance number for purposes of identification; language knowledge examination scores; training certificates and correspondence about the official languages qualifications of employees. The bank may also contain duplicate input forms for the Official Languages Information System (OLIS) and the Language Training Module (LTM). Language examination, exemption and training records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Similar data is also held in Particular Banks of the Public Service Commission and Treasury Board Secretariat.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for administration of official languages policies as they pertain to employees of the federal Public Service, to document and support decisions pertaining to official languages qualifications and language testing and to document the language training needs and accomplishments of employees.

Consistent Uses: To support and document decisions concerning individual employees on staffing, entitlement to bilingual bonus, transfers and promotions; and to aid in determining the linguistic status of employees and auditing of the administration of official language programs.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last documentation the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

OAG/P-SE-907 Formerly Identified as: AG-S-7

Occupational Health and Safety

Description: The bank contains accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and copies of the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, which are retained by institutions in the appropriate responsibility centre. First Aid Treatment records are also retained by the institution in accordance with Treasury Board policy. Records, including medical documents about individuals; claims for compensation; related correspondence and records of monies paid are held by Labour Canada. Records of occupational health evaluations and all personal medical data are retained by the Medical Services Branch, Health and Welfare Canada under medical confidential status. Records concerning the occurrence, investigation and settlement of vehicle accidents are retained in Standard Bank P-SE-908.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of occupational health and safety programs in government institutions, including accident prevention, health protection and authorization of leave and benefits associated with work-related injury or illness. Safety and health details and causes of accidents/ injuries for accident prevention and health protection purposes are also recorded to support the effective administration of each institution's health and safety program.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions relating to worker's compensation and injury-on-duty leave; to act as a means of preventing injuries and illnesses and subsequent disabilities arising out of, or aggravated by, conditions of work; to establish that individuals subject to certain identified occupational risks are able to continue working without detriment to their health or safety or to that of others; and to establish the conditions under which certain individuals with identified illnesses or disabilities are able to continue to work under controlled conditions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years for first aid treatment records; ten years for accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, after which the records are destroyed. Records held by Labour Canada and Health and Welfare Canada are retained for the periods specified in the relevant bank descriptions. PAC# = 85-001

BANK OF CANADA

Background

The Bank of Canada is Canada's central bank. It was incorporated in 1934 under the Bank of Canada Act which charges it with the responsibility to regulate "credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit and to mitigate by its influence fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices and employment, so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action, and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of the Dominion."

Responsibility for the affairs of the Bank rests with a board of directors composed of the Governor, the senior deputy governor and 12 directors, appointed by the government for three-year terms. The deputy minister of Finance sits on the board but does not have the right to vote. The Governor is the chief executive officer of the Bank and handles the direction and control of the Bank's affairs.

CANADA COUNCIL

Chapter 7

Background

The Canada Council was created by the Parliament of Canada in 1957 (Canada Council Act, 1957, RSC 1970 c-2, as amended). The mandate of the Canada Council (Section 8(1)) is "to foster and promote the study and enjoyment of, and the production of works, in the arts."

Overall Responsibilities

In particular, but without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Council may, to further its objectives:

- assist, co-operate with and enlist the aid of organizations, the objectives of which are similar to any of the objectives of the Council;
- provide, through appropriate organizations or otherwise, for grants, scholarships or loans to persons in Canada for study or research in the arts in Canada or elsewhere, or to persons in other countries for study or research in the arts in Canada;
- make awards to persons in Canada for outstanding accomplishment in the arts;
- arrange for and sponsor exhibitions, performances and publications of works in the arts;
- exchange with other countries or organizations or persons therein knowledge and information respecting the arts; and
- arrange for representation and interpretation of Canadian arts in other countries.

The arts are defined (Section 2) as "architecture, the arts of the theatre, literature, music, painting, sculpture, the graphic arts, and other similar creative and interpretative activities." Council's concerns include not only existing but also emerging new artists, audiences, arts organizations and works in the arts.

The Canada Council has adopted as its general policy objective to recognize, foster, and promote excellence in the arts. Most grants are awarded through an extensive system of competitions, juried by practising artists and other independent specialists in the disciplines involved. The principles of advertised competition and peer evaluation are integral to the decision-making process of the Council.

The Canadian Commission for UNESCO

In addition to its mandate to foster and promote the arts, the Canada Council has been assigned responsibility for the Canadian commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) (Section 8(2), Order-in-Council PC 1957-831), in conformity with the constitution of UNESCO.

Assessors Book

This information bank contains lists of names of individuals who are recognized as experts in the various arts disciplines. It is compiled by the advisory arts panel secretariat, which reports to the associate director. Each disciplinary section, together with the Arts Awards Service, draws up a list of experts in its particular field. After the lists are approved by the disciplinary subcommittees of the advisory arts panel, the secretariat compiles them into the Assessors Book. For each individual, the lists give a name, address, phone number and discipline. This information is organized alphabetically by name, within discipline. It is used exclusively by Council officers when selecting juries and individual assessors to adjudicate or advise on grant applications. The lists are used for no other purpose. They are updated periodically (once a year, or once every second year) and are maintained indefinitely.

CANADA DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

Chapter 8

CANADA DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

Background

The Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation was established in 1967 by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act to provide, for persons having deposits with a member institution of the Corporation, insurance against the loss of deposits up to a maximum of $60,000 for any one depositor. Membership in the Corporation is obligatory for chartered banks, a bank to which the Québec Savings Bank Act applies and federally incorporated loan and trust companies that accept deposits from the public. Provincially incorporated loan and trust companies that accept deposits from the public are eligible to apply for membership if they have the consent of the province of incorporation. The definition of "deposit", set out in a schedule of the Act, may be summarized as money received by a member institution that is repayable on demand or on a fixed or determinable date that is within five years from the date of the deposit. Deposits not payable in Canada or payable in foreign currency are not insured.

Organization

The Board of Directors of the Corporation comprises a Chairman, appointed by the Governor-in-Council, and four other directors who hold the positions of Governor of the Bank of Canada, deputy minister of Finance, Superintendent of Insurance and Inspector General of Banks. It reports to Parliament through the Minister of Finance.

CANADA LABOUR RELATIONS BOARD

Chapter 9

CANADA LABOUR RELATIONS BOARD

Background

The original Canada Labour Relations Board (organized in 1948) was composed of members representing both management and labour appointed by the federal government to deal, on a part-time basis, with the orderly resolution of trade union representation disputes under the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act.

The Canada Labour Relations Board was established in its present form in 1972 by the amended Canada Labour Code (R.S.C. 1970, CL-1 as amended by S.C. 1972, C.18) and became effective March 1, 1973. The Board is a quasi-judicial body with statutory and regulatory powers pertaining to the administration of Part V of the Canada Labour Code dealing with industrial relations. The members of the Board are non-representational full-time appointees with experience and knowledge of industrial relations and labour law. As members of a non-partisan board they are prohibited from holding any other remunerated office or employment.

In general, Part V of the Canada Labour Code charges the Board with a two-fold responsibility; that of granting, modifying and terminating bargaining rights, and that of resolving, through mediation or adjudication, complaints of unfair labour practice concerning violations of the Code by trade unions or employers.

The Board, under Part IV of the Code, hears appeals against safety rulings in cases where imminent danger has been alleged. It also rules on complaints by employees that they have been discriminated against or punished for exercising their rights in relation to safety.

Violations of the Canada Labour Code

Description: This bank contains case files concerning complaints by individuals that a section, or sections, of the Canada Labour Code, Parts IV and V have been violated by their employer, their union, or another individual. Files may contain information on grievances, work records, or letters from unions or employers containing opinions or comments about individuals.

Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code.

Purpose: Information about individuals is obtained solely for the purpose of bringing about a settlement to the dispute or, failing settlement, for the purpose of adjudication by the Board on the merits of the complaint.

Consistent Uses: Information contained in case files, along with testimony given at public hearings may be published in written judgements which set out the Board's reasons for rejecting or upholding a complaint. Personal information is used solely for the purpose of settling or deciding on the merits of each case and is published solely for the purpose of explaining the Board's reasons for its decision and its policy in like cases.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Case files are kept for five years if successful and three years if unsuccessful, and are then transferred to the Public Archives of Canada for selective retention. Settled cases are kept for the minimum two years required and then destroyed. PAC# = 84-015

Termination of Bargaining Rights

Description: This bank contains case files concerning applications for revocation of certifications which grant bargaining agents (unions) the right to represent employees in collective bargaining with employers in the federal jurisdiction.

Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code.

Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an individual is a member of the bargaining unit and therefore entitled to express his support for or against his bargaining agent.

Consistent Uses: Applications for revocation may occasionally require a public hearing in order to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision and may result in the publication of a written judgement which will contain the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting or rejecting it.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for five years for successful applications and three years for unsuccessful applications, then transferred to the Public Archives of Canada for selective retention. Cases which are withdrawn are destroyed after two years. PAC# = 84-015

Other case files and subject files held by operational services may contain personal information such as names of individuals, addresses, position titles, job descriptions, salaries, and membership in a trade union. The information is not retrievable by personal identifiers and is collected solely for the purpose of administering the Canada Labour Code. All files are organized by file number and are maintained by operational services at headquarters in Ottawa. Regional offices retain duplicate files for the purposes of investigation until the settlement of a case.

No case files have been destroyed since 1973. A schedule for the retention and disposal of these files has not yet been approved.

Some personal information such as job descriptions and salaries may be published in written judgements where it is pertinent to the background of a case in which the Canada Labour Relations Board decides its decision requires formal elaboration. Such information is usually the result of testimony given at public hearings.

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employees files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Chapter 11

CANADA MORTGAGE AND HOUSING CORPORATION

Background

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) was incorporated as a Crown corporation in January, 1946, by an Act of Parliament. CMHC has authority to act for the Government of Canada in all matters prescribed under the Housing Acts, principally the National Housing Act (NHA).

CMHC reports to Parliament through a designated Minister. Its affairs are managed by a board of directors consisting of the chairman of the board, the President, a designated vice-president, five members from the public at large and two members from the public service, all appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

Overall Responsibilities

The functions of CMHC, as stated in the National Housing Act, are to promote the construction of new houses, the repair and modernization of existing housing, and the improvement of housing and living conditions. Some of these programs have been used to further government objectives such as economic growth, job creation and energy conservation.

CHMC activities are grouped into three components: Government Programs, Administered Funds, and Asset Administration.

CMH/P-PU-010 Formerly Identified as: CMHC-P20 Federal Housing Action Program System (FHAP)

The main purpose of this Investment Portfolio Accounting Division bank is to prepare automatic Assisted Home Ownership Program (AHOP) and Assisted Rental Program (ARP) monthly cheques for borrowers eligible to receive assistance under the Federal Housing Action Program (FHAP) announced by the government in December, 1975. It also serves to maintain information on the current status of each FHAP account, and facilitate operational reporting and analytical requirements arising from the FHAP. The data include information on the mortgage borrower such as name and address, income, age, and number of dependants; details such as lender, principal, interest, and first payment date of the loan; information concerning any non-repayable subsidies which are issued in conjunction with the FHAP loan, such as Department of Veterans Affairs, and federal or provincial contributions; and details of previous transactions and current balance for financial control purposes. All applicants under the Assisted Home Ownership Program (AHOP) and Assisted Rental Program (ARP) are included in the bank. The bank is also used for analytical and reporting purposes, such as subsidy by income group, regional participation in the programs, default rates, etc. Records are retained for two years after repayment of the mortgage loan.

CMH/P-PU-015 Formerly Identified as: CMHC-P30 National Housing Act (NHA) Mortgage Loan Administration Files

National Housing Act (NHA) loan application files and administration files provide the loan history of every borrower. The NHA loan files include the following types of information: personal and business characteristics provided to establish credit and financial worthiness, such as employment, salary, dependants, financial statements and management capabilities; and copies of correspondence relating to the repayment and ongoing administration of the mortgage loan. This information is used to create and maintain files on individual, incorporated and unincorporated mortgage borrowers. The bank is used to administer the repayment of all types of loans under administration. The bank is also used for program evaluation, analytical reporting and research purposes such as program activity by region or province, evaluation of building materials and planning standards in force at the time of construction. The NHA loan files are maintained during the repayment term of the mortgage and subsequently destroyed two years following maturity or other termination of the mortgage loan. Reports of arrears files (uninsured loans) are destroyed two years after the report date. Individuals requesting access to this bank will need to provide the approximate date of the application, the city where the loan was requested, and the address of the property. Files are retained in local branch offices which are charged with the administration of the loan or assistance. Reasonable proof of identification or authorization from the borrower/applicant must be shown to the officially delegated CMHC representative at the bank access point to obtain such information.

CMH/P-PU-025 Formerly Identified as: CMHC-P50 National Housing Act (NHA) Mortgage Assistance

The Canadian Homeownership Stimulation Plan (CHSP) files include personal identifiers and information provided by the applicant, as well as information on the property, the builder, the lender, the applicant's solicitor, the property loan financing details and milestone dates related to the acquisition of the property, such as construction start date, construction completion date, the closing date of sale and occupancy date, and details of the issuance of contribution or reasons for the rejection. Canada Mortgage Renewal Program (CMRP) applicant files include personal information provided by the applicant for interest deferral assistance or, if eligible, for a grant, lender/loan details, housing value, debt and charges, household income, amount of interest deferral guaranteed, amount of grant assistance, commencement and termination dates, claims, notice assistance, monthly payment distribution, application and financial changes. This information is used to create and maintain files on applicants for the above-mentioned programs, and to administer them. Personal identifiers are used to control and restrict the Canadian Homeownership Stimulation Plan (CHSP) to only one contribution payable to a purchaser. The bank is also used for analytical reporting and research purposes (number of applications reviewed, approved or rejected, dwelling types, form of land ownership, program activity by region or province, assistance by income group, evaluation of building materials and planning standards in force at the time of construction, the number of new and existing properties which are the subject of applications). The CMRP files are maintained for two years following maturity or other termination of the grant and interest guarantee at the Mortgage Assistance Centre at CMHC national office. The CHSP files are retained by the branch office which is charged with the administration of the assistance for two years following the issuance of the grant or the rejection notice being sent to the applicant. Computer files are kept for 10 years after date of entry to the system. Individuals requesting access to this bank will need to provide the approximate date of application, the city where the assistance was requested, and the address of the property. Reasonable proof of identification or authorization from the applicant must be shown to the officially delegated CMHC representative at the bank access point to obtain such information. CMH/P-PU-030 Formerly Identified as: CMHC-P60 Rural and Native Housing — Program/Client Information

This Rural and Native Housing Division bank is used to create and maintain files on clients of CMHC's Rural and Native Housing Program. The purpose of the bank is to monitor and to administer the program and its delivery. The bank contains personal and financial information on clients, including client characteristics and repayment patterns. These files are retained for the life of the loan and destroyed two years after maturity or on termination of the loan. The bank is comprised of administrative files of a continuous nature supplemented by one-only survey data on segment(s) of the rural and native population. The bank is also used for statistical purposes, to monitor patterns in the program. The survey data allows population estimates, description of characteristics of native populations and analysis of the correlations among variables, such as educational attainment, housing conditions, migration history, sex, and employment or income levels. It also provides basic demographic information about the native populations' age and sex, as well as native sub-group data (status Indian, non-status Indian, Métis and Inuit). This information is maintained in CMHC branch offices charged with the administration of this program, and at CMHC's national office in Ottawa.

This bank serves to maintain data on potential candidates suitable for consideration to conduct CMHC directed research in housing and the housing environment. The data are also used to monitor research projects and to administer funds to contractors of solicited or unsolicited research proposals. The bank may contain the following types of information for each candidate: curriculum vitae; address; details on experience; type of business; names of principals; staff; publications; projects completed; references; letters of evaluation; project plan and budget; review and evaluation comments; correspondence on contract negotiations; the contract; progress claims; and other correspondence. The information is also used to compile information and statistics of interest to CMHC with respect to the program as a whole, such as contractors, mailing lists, the number of contracts placed by region, type of services rendered, length of contracts and amount of money spent. This bank is maintained by the Policy Development and Research Sector in

Ottawa. Files are retained for two years after completion of the contract, then reviewed for disposal.

CMH/P-PU-095 Formerly Identified as: CMHC-P220 Board of Directors

The purpose of this bank is to record information on members of the board of directors and recommended nominees. The bank contains correspondence relating to recommended nominees, the Order-in-Council appointing the member, a brief biography, statement of qualifications, declaration of acceptance, oath of fidelity and secrecy, statement of conflict of interest, director's fees and expenses, and director's correspondence. Once a director has taken up his/her duties, the annual conflict of interest statement is used for administrative purposes and information on age is used to ensure that the limitation imposed by the CMHC Act is met. Information on director's fees is used for payment administration. No information in the bank is exempt from access, and directors may request access to their files in writing or in person. Records are maintained by the Office of the Corporate Secretary for two years after a director ceases to hold office.

CMH/P-PU-115 Formerly Identified as: NO REFERENCE External Research (New)

This Research Division bank was created for the administration of the review of applications for funds from CMHC under Part V of the National Housing Act (NHA) and the administration of funds to those approved for external research grants for research related to housing policies and programs, the conditions and adequacy of the housing stock, the cost of housing and use of land, the planning of residential communities or the impact of technology on the residential environment. This bank may contain the following types of information for each applicant: curriculum vitae; address; citizenship; marital status; type of business and its particulars; employment and academic record; publications; study, research or work proposals; references; letters of evaluation; and information for administrative purposes under the programs, including a budget and the review committee members' comments on each proposal. The information is also used to compile general statistics of interest to CMHC with respect to the program as a whole, and not in relation to individual applicants. This bank is located at CMHC's national office. Individual files are kept for two years following the cessation of the term of the project. The names of successful applicants are made public. Study and/or research results are available in document or publication format from the Canadian Housing Information Centre at CMHC national office. Research which generates surveys or data collection is registered in a CMHC information bank. This information relates to persons interested in undertaking independent research on housing and related topics. The information was obtained from applications made to CMHC by applicants seeking financial support for independent research undertakings. Consistent uses are to determine eligibility, select best proposals and provide financial support, announce successful applicants, maintain statistics on program activities, and disburse funds according to contract terms. Records are retained for two years after cessation of the project.

Building Materials Evaluation Reports (New)

This bank contains evaluation reports on building products, equipment and systems used in residential construction. The reports include a description of the product, with its trade name, the name and address of the manufacturer, list of appropriate uses and limitations of the products, statement on the conformity to codes and standards, assessment of performance and longevity, summary of installation instructions and filed identification correspondence, application form and test reports. This information relates to manufacturers of products, equipment and systems. The purpose is to obtain an evaluation report on the performance of building materials, equipment and systems; to determine conformance to the requirements of codes and standards; and to permit their use in residential construction financed or insured under the provisions of the National Housing Act. The consistent use is that the information is collected and compiled for purposes of preparing an evaluation report on the performance of building materials, equipment and systems. The evaluation reports are collated and published in a Manual of Building Materials Evaluation Reports for use by the public. The evaluation reports indicate the acceptability of the products for use in residential construction. Records are retained for five years following deletion, after which they are transferred to the Public Archives of Canada for indefinite retention.

Mortgage Backed Securities Program (New)

This bank contains the files for the Mortgage Backed Securities Program. Legislation was passed in 1984 and proclaimed in early 1985 to allow CMHC to guarantee timely payment of principal and interest relating to securities backed by mortgage loans it has insured. The files are maintained by the administrators of the program for a period of five years. This information relates to investors and lenders involved in the mortgage pool. The information was obtained to collect reference information on mortgages, mortgage backed securities, and monthly reports from CPTA (central payor and transfer agents). Files will be used to monitor the system. Consistent uses are the ongoing monitoring of the program, providing assistance as necessary, and approval of issuers application status. Records will be retained for a period of at least five years.

Classes of Personal Information

The National Housing Study

Formerly entitled the General Occupant Survey, the National Housing Study is a survey of homeowners, landlords and tenants in single detached and low rise multiple residential structures. The questionnaire will be personally dropped off for completion by the respondent. Information on physical condition, renovation history and plans, and socioeconomic characteristics of households will be collected. Follow-up physical inspections will be conducted by CMHC inspectors, for a subset of respondents who authorize such a visit. All name and address information will be separated from the dwelling unit data. It will be kept on computer tape files stored in the tape library at CMHC and kept for a maximum of two years. The substantive data on renovation activity, etc., from the questionnaires will also be stored and kept for an indefinite period to allow for future research by CMHC and other research establishments. The questionnaires will be kept for one year after the research report is written, and will then be destroyed.

The CHOSP Survey

The survey of Canadian Home Ownership Stimulation Plan (CHOSP) clients is entitled "Purchasing a Home: A Survey of Home Buyers". It is being conducted by the Program Evaluation Division in order to gather information about the success of the program, from the client's point of view. A mailout questionnaire will be distributed for completion by the respondent. It will request information on how the CHOSP money was spent, and whether the program made any difference to the client when deciding about buying a home. One version of the questionnaire is for new home buyers, while a second is for existing home buyers. All information will be stored and retained in the same manner as for the National Housing Study.

The CHRP Survey

The survey of Canada Home Renovation Plan (CHRP) recipients is entitled "Renovating a Home: A Survey of Home Renovators". It is intended to provide the Program Evaluation Division with information on how the CHRP forgivable loan was employed, experiences with contractors, house conditions, and socioeconomic characteristics of the recipient household. All information will be stored and retained in the same manner as for the National Housing Study.

Program Evaluation

This class of personal information contains data collected specifically for CMHC program evaluation studies. The data are used to support program evaluation, policy analysis and program development. Included in this bank are data related to client surveys and data collected to measure the impact of programs. This bank is located at CMHC national office. Routine files are destroyed two years following completion of evaluation. Files are retrievable by program evaluation study.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions.

CMH/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: CMHC-S-I Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

CANADA MORTGAGE AND HOUSING CORPORATION

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

CANADA PORTS CORPORATION

Chapter 12

CANADA PORTS CORPORATION

Background

The Canada Ports Corporation was established by the Canada Ports Corporation Act of 1982. This Act amended the National Harbour Board Act of 1936, the Government Harbours and Piers Act, and the Harbours Commission Act. Reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Transport, Ports Canada is a Schedule C2 Crown Corporation.

Overall Responsibilities

Ports Canada is responsible for administering its ports under a common objective, ensuring they meet the federal government's responsibilities for national ports policy and the optimum deployment of resources. The Corporation shares with other marine bodies the broad objective of attending to the development and operation of a safe and efficient national marine transportation system.

Ports Canada is also responsible for ensuring that the ongoing maintenance, upgrading and major expansions to port facilities and organizational framework will provide enhanced services on a competitive and cost-effective basis for both domestic and international port users.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Corporation, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described above. Such personal information includes; requests for information, expressions of public support, offers of services, and complaints. This information is stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other identifier.

This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter, related program activity, as well as the date on which the information was received by the Corporation and the name of the person to whom it was addressed. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the records disposal schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

PERSONAL INFORMATION BANKS — FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

STANDARD BANKS

CPO/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: NO REFERENCE

Employee Personnel Record (New)

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above. Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

CANADA POST CORPORATION

Chapter 13

CANADA POST CORPORATION

Background

Canada Post Corporation, a Crown corporation, was established by the Canada Post Corporation Act on October 16, 1981. It collects, sorts and delivers over seven billion pieces of mail yearly within Canada, and between Canada and more than 165 other countries around the world.

Canada Post, with approximately 63,000 employees and $2.5 billion in revenue, is a large and important part of the transportation and communications sector of the Canadian economy. The Corporation delivers mail to eight million homes and businesses across Canada, involving 8,125 retail outlets located in more than 6,000 communities.

In the course of doing business, Canada Post maintains and uses records on employees, contractors, customers and others. The Corporation places a high value on the protection and propriety of such personal information; employee access to their records and customer confidentiality are longstanding traditions.

Access Procedures

Individuals may seek formal access to their records under the Privacy Act by completing and sending a personal information request form (one per information bank) to the

Corporate Privacy Co-ordinator
Corporate Policy Planning
Canada Post Corporation
Sir Alexander Campbell Building
Confederation Heights
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 0B1
Telephone: (613) 998-9742

Please note:

- There is one main file per Canada Post employee, the Employee Personal File (CPC/P-PE-802). It is a cumulative record of an individual's employment with Canada Post, including summaries and notations concerning more detailed records described in other information banks. While certain of these categories of records may be stored in part or in whole in the Employee Personnel File, separate bank descriptions allow for distinct records systems, where necessary, as well as selective access by employees.
- Records contained within information banks are limited to relevant data subjects. For example, if an individual has never bid on nor been awarded a contract with Canada Post, no record of that individual would exist in the applicable contract bank.
- To facilitate access and record retrieval, specific details should be provided, such as those outlined at the end of each bank description.
- If Canada Post exempts any information, the individual refused access is provided with the precise reasons for the exemption and the applicable appeal procedures.
- Records are routinely destroyed when their useful life expires; thus, access requests for older records may prove unsuccessful.
- Certain retention and disposal schedules are under review as a result of the new requirements of both the Privacy Act and the Canada Post Corporation Act.

Individuals are encouraged to seek informal access to their records — employees via their supervisors, and customers, contractors and others via the Canada Post officials with whom they have been dealing.

Post Office Boxes

Description: This bank contains post office box applications, which include service particulars (such as rental periods and the redirection of mail), the names of agents or others authorized to receive mail and whether the post office box service is for private or commercial use. Other records include general enquiries, installation details, receipts and other payment records, audits and accounts of terminating services. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide post office box location and number and rental dates.

Class of Individuals: There are records on Canada Post customers who have applied for or expressed interest in Post Office Box services.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the rental of post office boxes.

Consistent Uses: The records are used to facilitate the collection and refund of rent for post office boxes (receipts are forwarded to corporate head office to reconcile accounts); to provide the services requested; and for periodic audits and for market research. Certain information may be disclosed to law enforcement and other federal or provincial agencies, pursuant to lawful investigations.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Post office box applications and copies of statements of collection and refund of rent provided to customers are retained for two years after the termination of service and then destroyed. Waiting lists are updated continuously, as boxes become available. PAC# = TB-633137

Philatelic Customers

Description: This bank contains such information as customer enquiries and mailing lists, coded to include special areas of interest, as well as invoices, funds on deposit, order history and other sales records. A list of former customers who have issued bad cheques is also retained. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide as many details as possible, such as name, address, subject matter, dates and account numbers. Individuals seeking access to computerized records that may exist on them must so specify.

Class of Individuals: The bank contains records on Canada Post's national and international customers of philatelic products, on sponsors of stamp clubs and on those who have expressed an interest.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the sale and distribution of philatelic products and related promotional material.

Consistent Uses: The records are used to support philatelic sales and subscription services; to assist in the presentation of philatelic exhibits; to generate particular lists of customers/subscribers (for example, by area of interest); to control inventory; and for market research purposes, such as the identification of promotional needs and opportunities. Limited mailing list data is exchanged with the Royal Canadian Mint and other reputable mailers, to facilitate the promotion of similar products.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Financial records are retained for six years after last administrative use, which is usually payment for and mailing of philatelic products. Mailing lists are updated continuously, verified annually and retained until superseded or obsolete (for example, when customers submit change-of-address cards or requests to be deleted from the list; or move, leaving no Description: This bank contains such records as personal history forms, fingerprint cards and, if applicable, criminal histories, security briefings, summaries of RCMP and Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) investigations and related correspondence. Limited information exists in automated form, in the Security Clearance Reporting System (which is a module of the Personnel Database, CPC/P-PE-803. Data elements include name, social insurance number, clearance level granted versus level required for the position and whether it is due for renewal. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify employment location and dates. Individuals seeking access to any computerized security clearance records that may exist on them must so specify.

Security Clearances

Class of Individuals: The bank contains records on those Canada Post employees and contractors who occupy or are about to occupy positions involving access to financial and other assets and sensitive information and systems.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to help determine the suitability of employees and contractors being considered for or in security-risk positions.

Consistent Uses: The records in it are used to determine the level of security clearance; and to support decisions on transfers, promotions and termination of employment. Monthly computer printouts are used to ensure the security clearance level of individuals is adequate for the positions they occupy. A notation of level of clearance may be attached to the Employee Personal File, CPC/P-PE-802. Details of RCMP and CSIS investigations that may have taken place are stored in those agencies' security clearance banks.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Paper records are retained for two years after termination of employment or contract and then destroyed. If notified that a pardon has been granted, the criminal records in question are destroyed immediately. Monthly computer printouts are destroyed when superseded, while the automated data is retained in accordance with the schedules described in Personnel Database, CPC/P-PE-803. PAC# = 85-001

Postal Related Crimes/Offences

Description: This bank contains information gathered during investigations and contains details of the crime(s) committed. For example, information on employees involves such offences as theft of mail or embezzlement. Information on members of the general public involves national or international crimes, burglary of post offices and street box equipment, forgery of money orders, theft of mail, the illegal transportation of explosives and other dangerous substances and mail vehicle robberies. In addition, intelligence is collected regarding individuals or firms suspected of using the mails for an illegal purpose. This bank is exempt pursuant to subsection 18(1) of the Privacy Act.

Class of Individuals: The bank contains information on those Canada Post employees, contractors and members of the general public who are suspected or known to be involved in the above-noted postal related crimes/offences as defined by the Canada Post

Corporation Act and Regulations, as well as Criminal Code offences involving the mail.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to help solve and reduce postal related crimes and offences.

Consistent Uses: The records in it are used to support investigative and intelligence activities designed to solve or reduce crimes against Canada Post Corporation. Certain information may be shared with other federal investigative bodies and police agencies and, where warranted, with the Department of Justice for possible prosecution.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for ten years after completion of the investigation or judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings, and then destroyed. Classes of Personal Information

Marketing and Sales

This class includes marketing information such as market research studies, various coded mailing lists, market surveys and tests reports concerning householders and other Canada Post customers (for example, large volume mailers). The records include correspondence, reports, accounts of sales calls and other meetings with customers, which may contain the names, titles and business addresses of company representatives, as well as profiles of key executives. These records are used for business purposes only, namely to identify customer needs and perceptions and to help make marketing decisions related to product and service mix, price and promotion. Canada Post also temporarily retains certain records which may contain personal information under arrangements with customers and business partners. Such records are not under the Corporation's sole control and may not be accessed without the prior consent of the customer or business partner involved. Certain records are held in electronic form in the following systems — Cash Receipts, Canadian Wildlife Service, Major Account Sales and Marketing Mailing List.

Collection and Delivery of Mail

This class includes receipts, redirection cards, registers and directories used to ensure the proper delivery of mail and related services, for example, Letter Carrier Delivery, Street Mail Box Delivery, Group Mail Box Delivery, Courtesy Bag Service, Cash on Delivery (COD), Certified Mail, Insurance with Proof of Delivery, Priority Post, Registered Mail, IntelPost and Postage Meter Services. These records facilitate signature mail services, the redirection and holding of mail, address corrections and the delivery of mail in rural areas or where address changes are frequent. Note that address information may be disclosed to certain federal government and other institutions, where authorized for specific purposes, such as to facilitate the collection of Crown debts and the making of Crown payments. Note also that claims and enquiries related to collection and delivery services have been indexed and described as a Canada Post information bank (see Customer Service, CPC/P-PU-030.) Certain records are held in electronic form in the following systems - Accounts Receivable, Lock and Key, Money Order Information, Priority Post Information, and Mail Shipment Reporting.

Administrative Records

Certain information provided by or about individuals may also be found in administrative records, such as general correspondence files, minutes of committee meetings, library loan and distribution lists, fixed asset inventory control reports, audit reports and evaluations, video recordings and records relating to visits and conferences involving officials of other postal authorities.

Security and Investigation Services

This class includes information detailing complaints received by Security and Investigation Services (S&IS) and the remedial action undertaken. The records are chronologically ordered and thus not retrievable by individual identifier. They include occurrence reports, which contain the name, address and phone number of the complainant, the names of the other parties involved, the name of the investigating officer and details concerning causes and remedial action. Should the enquiry result in a suspicion of a postal related crime or offence, or a Criminal Code offence involving the mail, a file number is added to the occurrence report which is transferred to personal information bank Postal Related Crimes/Offences (see CPC/P-PU-085, or CPC/P-PE-824). Otherwise, the occurrence reports are retained for two years, at which time they are destroyed. The purpose of such retention is to allow for statistical analyses and quality control.

CPC/P-PE-802 Formerly Identified as: CP-P-220(B); CP-S-1 Employee Personal File

Description: This bank contains legal documents and summaries and notations regarding more detailed records described in certain other information banks, namely: Staffing and Employment, CPC/P-PE-801; Compensation and Benefits, CPC/P-PE-806; Payroll and Attendance, CPC/P-PE-815; the Human Resource Information System, CPC/P-PE-804; and where applicable, Training, CPC/P-PE-805; Relocation, CPC/P-PE-816; Honours and Awards, CPC/P-PE-807; Automotive Service, CPC/P-PE-825; Security Clearances, CPC/P-PE-821; Occupational Health and Safety, CPC/P-PE-808; and Discipline, CPC/P-PE-814. (Where applicable, the Employee Personal File also includes disclosure statements and other conflict of interest documents.) Depending on the size and functions of the Canada Post office or facility, certain of the above categories of records may be stored in distinct records systems. Separate bank descriptions allow for distinct records systems, where necessary, and also facilitate selective access by employees to their files. The records are combined when the administrative need arises (for example, upon transfer or termination). Note that certain records on Canada Post employees are stored apart from the Employee Personal File as a matter of policy, for example, detailed occupational health and safety or security clearance information (see CPC/P-PE-808 and CPC/P-PE-821, as well as Grievances, Employee Assistance, Human Rights, Affirmative Action and Special Services CPC/P-PE-813, 811, 809, 810 and 812, respectively); and that managers may retain indices, internal distribution lists and duplicate administrative records concerning staff over which they exercise line or functional control. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify position title and employment location and dates. Note that the above-identified bank descriptions covering specific categories of records facilitate more selective access.

Class of Individuals: The bank contains records on all existing and recently terminated Canada Post employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support and facilitate co-ordination among a variety of personnel functions, and to retain records of enduring value related to each.

Consistent Uses: The records are used to support and authenticate decisions relating to appointments, transfers, awards, promotions, demotions and termination of employment; to facilitate and co-ordinate among certain personnel functions, namely compensation and benefits (including superannuation), payroll and attendance, human resource planning and development, executive development, training, relocation, honours and awards, automotive services, occupational health and safety, security clearances and discipline; for research purposes, e.g., succession planning, organization improvement applied personnel research; and to verify employment. Certain information is disclosed to third parties, as detailed in the above-referenced personal information descriptions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Paper records are selectively retained for the duration of employment with Canada Post. (For example, notices of disciplinary action are retained in accordance with collective agreements). One year after termination of employment, records are transferred to Public Archives Canada for retention until the employee reaches the age of seventy and are then destroyed; or until one year after death (provided two years have elapsed since last administrative use); or permanently, if the records are judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical/archival value. Description: This bank contains tombstone data and such compensation and benefits records as letters of offer and staffing transaction reports (regarding recruitment, promotion, transfer and demotion), rates of pay and entitlements, terms and conditions of employment for Management Professional Specialist (MPS) employees, year-to-date earnings statements and supporting documentation (for example, concerning income tax, unemployment and health insurance and Canada Pension Plan deductions, group surgical-medical, public service management and disability insurance, union dues, maternity and displacement allowances, performance and acting pay, savings plan and deposit instructions, incentives, perquisites, bilingual bonuses, rebates, overpayments, records of fines and suspensions, garnishment and termination). Other supporting documentation includes copies of birth certificates, previous employment history, physicians' certificates associated with sick leave, marriage/separation/divorce papers, next of kin in case of emergency, powers of attorney and estate records such as the names of beneficiaries. (Note that payroll, travel, relocation and certain other employee payment and expense records may be stored in other information banks; see Payroll and Attendance, CPC/P-PE-815; Accounts Payable, CPC/P-PE-820; and Relocation, CPC/P-PE-816.) Certain compensation information exists in automated form, for example, as a module of the Personnel Database and in the MPS Compensation System. Employees seeking access to this bank should specify social insurance number, as well as employment location and dates. Individuals seeking access to computerized compensation and benefits or garnishment records that may exist on them must so specify.

Class of Individuals: This bank contains records on all existing and recently terminated Canada Post employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the payment of salaries and the administration of benefits.

Consistent Uses: The records in it are used to provide information necessary for all salary administration and payroll functions for Canada Post Corporation (see also Payroll and Attendance, CPC/P-PE-815); to provide benefits counselling, to ensure appropriate deductions and contributions (by employees and Canada Post) for authorized benefits and to provide employees with those benefits (in the case of MPS employees, in accordance with their terms and conditions); to assist supervisors in performing managerial duties (for example, verifying reliability when staffing positions); and to enable salary and benefit level comparisons with other firms in the industry. To facilitate compensation and benefits administration, information is shared with Supply and Services Canada (re: superannuation, medical insurance), with Health and Welfare Canada (re: retirements for health reasons), with Revenue Canada (re: income tax) and with provincial health insurance agencies, group medical insurers and, if applicable, unions (re: new members or change of employment status). The records are also used to assist in the processing of complaints and grievances (see CPC/P-PE-813), disability and workers' compensation board claims (see CPC/P-PE-808), as well as in garnishment proceedings under federal garnishment legislation.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Paper records are retained for the duration of employment with Canada Post. One year after

Honours and Awards

Description: This bank contains such records as job descriptions, career résumés, reports on cost-saving measures, community services or other noteworthy achievements, the opinions of relevant third parties and recognition granted (including cash awards). Limited personal information also exists in the Suggestion Award Information System. Data elements include name, SIN, suggestion number and subject. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the award in question, the location where it was earned and, if applicable, the suggestion award number. Individuals seeking access to computerized records that may exist on them must so specify.

Class of Individuals: These are records on Canada Post employees who have submitted applications for or been nominated for Corporation awards, such as suggestion awards, long service awards, merit awards, good citizenship awards and awards of excellence. (Note that safe driving awards are stored in Automotive Services, CPC/P-PE-825, and that payment records regarding awards also are stored in Accounts Payable, CPC/P-PE-820.)

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the honours and awards functions.

Consistent Uses: The bank is used to promote, help identify and recognize the outstanding job performances or community services of Canada Post employees. (Notices regarding awards may be permanently attached to the Employee Personal File, CPC/P-PE-802, and/or to Executive Development and Human Resource Development, CPC/P-PE-804.) Lists of suggestions are distributed to managers for possible application in their respective areas of responsibility. The Suggestion Award Information System is used to track the processing of the awards. Limited personal information about award winners may be disclosed to the general public via poster displays, the news media and the Corporation's publications.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Individual awards, including both accepted and rejected suggestion awards, are retained for three years and then destroyed, except for suggestion awards judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical/archival value, which are retained permanently by Public Archives Canada. Computerized records are retained for three years after last administrative use. PAC# = 78-001

This bank contains such records as first aid treatment and certification documents; physicians' certificates associated with sick leave; accident and work injury or illness investigation reports; workers' compensation board claims and associated correspondence and forms; occasional legal opinions; periodic medical reports for designated jobs and situations such as isolated postings and absenteeism; fitness and life style evaluations; special records concerning exposure to noise, radiation and dangerous substances; records and correspondence regarding referrals and results of work related immunizations and health evaluations. Certain non-occupational medical information may also exist on file, for example, regarding preplacement diseases or injuries, or those occurring since employment with Canada Post began that are unrelated to work. Certain records also exist in automated form, in the Accident Information Reporting System (AIRS). AIRS contains background data on injured employees (age, sex, etc.), as well as the location, nature, cause and severity of the accidents and their associated direct and indirect costs. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify employment location as well as date, location and details of injury or illness. Individuals seeking access to any computerized occupational health and safety records that may exist on them must so specify. This bank contains confidential information on those Canada Post employees who have had injuries and accidents on duty; who have made accident or workers' compensation board claims; who have used the Occupational Health Service; or whose physicians have sent information to the Service. (Note that accident information involving Corporate vehicles or claims by or against the Corporation unrelated to workers' compensation boards is stored in Automotive Services, CPC/P-PE-825, and Risk Management Claims, CPC/P-PU-050; P-PE-819, respectively.) The purpose of this bank is to support the management and the Occupational Health and Safety program. Consistent uses are that the records are used to assist employees in dealing with medical problems and to avoid aggravating given conditions via meaningful intervention, medical education and counselling; to authorize leave and benefits related to work-related injuries and illnesses (physician's certificates are attached to Compensation and Benefits, CPC/P-PE-806); to facilitate the processing of provincial workers' compensation board claims and the administration of injury-on-duty leave and disability benefits (AIRS supports the resolution of claims and the reconciliation of accounts); to establish conditions under which employees subject to certain occupational risks or with identified illnesses or disabilities are able to continue to work; to provide health and safety details for accident prevention and health protection purposes; and to process grievances and appeals related to Occupational Health and Safety (see Grievances, CPC/P-PE-813). The records also facilitate the study and correction of workplace conditions that contribute to illness or injury, such as the development of preventative programs based on the incidence of certain illness and injuries. Composite information may be used in epidemiological studies. Certain information may be disclosed to provincial workers' compensation boards, Labour Canada, medical practitioners and bargaining unit representatives, to facilitate claims administration. Limited information is disclosed to Transport Canada, regarding, for example, chemical spills involving Canada Post employees. Paper records are retained for the duration of employment with Canada Post. One year after termination, they are transferred to Public Archives Canada for retention until the employee reaches the age of 70, and are then destroyed; or until one year after death (provided two years have elapsed since last administrative use); or permanently, if the records are deemed by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical/archival value. Human Rights

Description: This bank contains confidential letters of complaint and interview notes with complainants, those alleged to have discriminated against the complainant and witnesses, as well as investigation and analysis reports and records of decisions taken. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify position title and employment location and dates.

Class of Individuals: There are records on individuals submitting discrimination complaints and on those alleged to have discriminated against complainants.

CANADA POST CORPORATION

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the resolution of the allegations of discrimination based on prescribed grounds set out in the Canada Human Rights Act.

Consistent Uses: The records in it are used to help determine whether or not discrimination has occurred. (Note that records of complaints are not stored on the complainant's Employee Personal File, CPC/P-PE-802); and to recommend and support management decisions on the transfer and discipline of employees. Individuals found to have discriminated may have a notice to that effect placed on their Employee Personal File. Information may be disclosed in confidence to the Canadian Human Rights Commission, to facilitate resolution of complaint.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after last administrative use, which is usually resolution of the complaint. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action (New)

Description: This bank contains survey data about employees which will focus on such characteristics as sex, national origin, disability and education. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide name or social insurance number.

Class of Individuals: There are records on those employees who have responded to the special groups survey questionnaire. (The questionnaire is answered on a voluntary basis; target groups include women, visible minorities, disabled persons and indigenous peoples.)

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to develop a database to support the Corporation's affirmative action program, to help ensure the equitable representation of target groups in Canada Post.

Consistent Uses: The records in it are used to compile personal profiles of employees and to compare the situation of special group members with non-target group members within the Corporation and counterparts in the general labour market. The statistical data is used to determine special groups' representation by division and occupational group within Canada Post and, where underrepresented, to identify appropriate policy and programs to rectify the situation.

Retention and Disposal Standards: A retention and disposal schedule for these records is under development. PAC#-85-001

Employee Assistance

Description: This bank contains a very limited amount of information as, due to the confidential nature of the program, cases are handled through personal counselling, without records. Where information is retained (with the full knowledge of the employee concerned), it is strictly factual, such as a statement of the problem as identified by the employee concerned and, if applicable, the name of the community resource which the employee selects for assistance. Note that, as a matter of policy, records on medical problems, performance deficiencies, absenteeism and disciplinary matters are not stored in the Employee Assistance bank (see CPC/P-PE-808, 804, 815 and 814, respectively). Similarly, employee assistance information is not stored in any other personal information bank. Individuals seeking access to records that may exist on them in this bank are encouraged to deal directly with the person consulted for assistance. Individuals seeking formal access under the Privacy Act should specify position title, employment location and dates, as well as the referral agent used.

Class of Individuals: A case is initiated when an employee requests assistance from, or is referred to an employee assistance referral agent.

Purpose: Employee Assistance is a voluntary program for Canada

Post employees experiencing personal problems that may be resolved through professional care.

Consistent Uses: Where information exists, it is used to support meaningful assistance and follow-up, such as counselling and, where the employee agrees, medical evaluations, professional help and rehabilitation programs; to assist in the development of preventative education and training programs, based on the incidence of certain problems; and for program evaluation purposes (for example, referral agents keep statistical summaries; all personal information is rendered anonymous). Note that referral agents do not diagnose cases and that no personal information is disclosed by referral agents to third parties without the expressed consent of the individual to whom it relates.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for two years following the date of the most recent referral to employee assistance and then destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Grievances

Description: This bank contains such information as presentations by employees and bargaining unit representatives, receipt notices and replies by management, testimony by witnesses, legal opinions, investigation and analysis reports, job descriptions (for classification grievances) and decisions and statements by arbitrators, the Canada Labour Relations Board and the Federal Court and related correspondence. Certain information exists in automated form, in the Labour Relations Grievance and Jurisprudence Information Systems (LRGIS and LRJIS, respectively). LRGIS contains such data as grievor name, the location, level and subject of the grievance, dates, organizational details and other information relating to its processing. LRJIS contains summaries of arbitration and adjudication cases, such as grievor name and type of grievance, decision grounds and arbitrator's comments. Individuals seeking access to records in this bank should specify the name of the bargaining unit and the grievance/arbitration number or other particulars, such as date, location and subject matter. Individuals seeking access to any computerized grievance records that may exist on them must specify the system.

Class of Individuals: There are records on individuals involved in issues submitted by certified bargaining units who have alleged a violation of a collective agreement.

CANADA POST CORPORATION

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the resolution of grievances related to the interpretation of collective agreements.

Consistent Uses: The records in it are used to process and resolve collective agreement interpretation grievances through all levels in the grievance process, including referrals to divisional headquarters, corporate head office, arbitration, the Canada Labour Relations Board, or the Federal Court; for research purposes, such as trend and subject analyses; to inform senior management of landmark cases and of growing or recurring labour relations problems; and to train and educate Labour Relations officers. LRGIS facilitates the processing of grievances and generates reports used in collective bargaining. LRJIS provides management with ready access to arbitration/adjudication summaries (which are largely a matter of public record).

Retention and Disposal Standards: Paper records are retained for three years after last administrative use (which is usually the resolution of the grievance or arbitration case) and then destroyed, unless an earlier disposal schedule is negotiated by collective bargaining. The electronic records are retained for three years after last administrative use, unless they are judged to have jurisprudential value, in which case publicly available summaries are retained (in LRJIS) until superseded or obsolete (e.g., newer decisions) or for 15 years, whichever occurs first. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify employment location, the name of their bargaining unit (if applicable) and other details relating to the disciplinary action.

Class of Individuals: It contains records on Canada Post employees who have been disciplined, or who are being considered for disciplinary action.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the taking of disciplinary action.

Consistent Uses: The records in it are used to determine the need for and nature of disciplinary actions (notices of actual or impending disciplinary action may be attached to the Employee Personal File, CPC/P-PE-802; to support decisions on compensation and benefits, attendance and leave, transfer, demotion and termination of employment; and to defend decisions taken, when disciplinary measures are the subject of grievances or arbitration (see Grievances, CPC/P-PE-813).

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records of investigation, testimony by witnesses and related correspondence are retained for three years and then destroyed. Notices of disciplinary action are removed from Employee Personal Files in accordance with the time limits specified in collective agreements. In other cases, disciplinary records are retained for three years, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. Risk Management Claims

Description: This bank contains records regarding claims for damages involving property, liability and automobile accidents, legal opinions, settlement transactions and other correspondence related to motor vehicles, and other accidents involving third parties. The records contain information on the parties involved, their insurers (if applicable) and the nature of the injury or loss (e.g., lost employment or salary). The records also concern losses due to fire and such crimes as robbery, break and enter and vandalism. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify details such as accident location and date.

Class of Individuals: The bank contains records on Canada Post employees involved in claims, such as drivers of Corporation vehicles and letter carriers, as well as on third parties making claims or from whom the Corporation is seeking damages. Note that payment records are also stored in Accounts Payable, CPC/P-PE-820; that vehicle driver records (including records of accidents not involving third party claims) are stored in Automotive Services (CPC/P-PE-825); that workers' compensation board claims are stored in Occupational Health and Safety (CPC/P-PE-808); and that claims involving delayed, lost or damaged mail are stored in Customer Service (CPC/P-PU-030).

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the resolution of Corporation and third party claims.

Consistent Uses: Records in it are used to determine liability for motor vehicle, fire and other accidents involving third parties; to approve damage settlements, such as payments by and to the Corporation (as postal vehicles are insured, claims are handled by outside adjusters); to support claims by Canada Post against insurance policies in force; and to facilitate loss control and other measures to prevent recurrences. Note that certain information may be provided to insurance companies, lawyers acting on behalf of either party and the police, to facilitate resolution of the claim.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained for six years after the claim by or against the Corporation has been settled, unless a minor was involved, in which case the records are retained for six years after the minor's age of majority (varies from province to province). Automotive Services

This bank contains such records as vehicle operator declarations, factual statements regarding medical restrictions on driving vehicles, safe driving awards, accident histories and reports, preventability assessments, training undertaken and copies of claims for damages, legal decisions, settlement transactions and other correspondence about accidents involving Corporation-owned and leased motor vehicles. (Note that the greater proportion of records on motor vehicle accidents involving claims are stored in Risk Management Claims, CPC/P-PE-819). Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify employment location and, if applicable, such accident details as location and date. The bank contains records on all drivers of Canada Post vehicles. The purpose of this bank is to support the efficient and safe use of vehicles. Consistent uses for the records are to validate provincial permits; to help determine liability for and the preventability of motor vehicle accidents and to help reach damage settlements with third parties; to grant safe driver awards; and to identify and provide for training needs and other preventative measures. (Notations concerning training undertaken and preventability assessments may be attached to the Employee Personal File, CPC/P-PE-802.) Identifying information is provided to provincial transportation departments with the full knowledge of the individual concerned, to obtain driving records (for example, demerit points, license suspensions). Vehicle operator history cards (which include a summary of training taken) are retained for two years after an individual ceases to be an operator and then destroyed. Test scores are retained in accordance with the requirements of various collective agreements. Accident reports, preventability assessments and copies of claims settlement records are retained for six years after last administrative use.

Ministerial/Presidential Correspondence

This bank contains such records as letters addressed to the Minister and President, background material compiled in the preparation of responses and the eventual responses. Certain information, such as draft replies and an index, exists in automated form in the Correspondence Unit System. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the date and subject matter of the previous enquiry. The bank contains records of enquiries by customers, employees, Members of Parliament and the general public. The records may contain personal information on other individuals, where they are the subject of the enquiry (e.g., regarding Canada Post employees and contractors). The purpose of this bank is to support the preparation of responses to Ministerial and Presidential enquiries pertaining to the operations and administration of Canada Post. Consistent uses for the records are to support the correspondence system; to monitor the preparation of responses; and for reference purposes when subsequent or similar enquiries are received. Draft replies stored in automated form are destroyed when the correspondence is signed. Paper records and the automated index are retained for seven years after last administrative use and then the former are transferred to Public Archives Canada. Information judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of archival/historical value is retained permanently by Public Archives Canada. The remainder is destroyed. Disposal of records retained in the subject files of organizational units drafting responses is governed by the retention schedules for those files.

STANDARD BANKS

OHS/P-SE-001 Formerly Identified as: NO REFERENCE
Employee Personnel Record (New)

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Staffing (New)

bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave (New)

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

OHS/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: NO REFERENCE

Pay and Benefits (New)

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

PERSONAL INFORMATION BANKS — FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

Please direct enquiries concerning the following banks to the address given under Access Procedures.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters.

CCC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: CCC-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 001203

CCC/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: CCC-S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Training and Development

Description: This bank contains personal data including course applications and evaluations; social insurance number; examination results and certificates; records of fee payments; and correspondence related to participation of employees in training and development activities, sponsored both by the government and operated by private organizations. It should be noted that participation and achievement records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record and that information on an employee's needs for individual development related to performance is contained in the Performance Reviews and Employee Appraisals Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of training and development programs within government institutions.

Consistent Uses: To approve and register the participation of employees in training and development activities and to certify the achievements of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after completion of the particular training and development undertaken by an employee. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 001205

CCC/P-SE-906 Formerly Identified as: CCC-S-6

Official Languages

Description: This bank contains course enrollment and attendance information; language training applications containing basic personal data, such as first official language, date of birth, and social insurance number for purposes of identification; language knowledge examination scores; training certificates and correspondence about the official languages qualifications of employees. The bank may also contain duplicate input forms for the Official Languages Information System (OLIS) and the Language Training Module (LTM). Language examination, exemption and training records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Similar data is also held in Particular Banks of the Public Service Commission and Treasury Board Secretariat.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for administration of official languages policies as they pertain to employees of the federal Public Service, to document and support decisions pertaining to official languages qualifications and language testing and to document the language training needs and accomplishments of employees.

Consistent Uses: To support and document decisions concerning individual employees on staffing, entitlement to bilingual bonus, transfers and promotions; and to aid in determining the linguistic status of employees and auditing of the administration of official language programs.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last documentation the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

CANADIAN CULTURAL PROPERTY EXPORT REVIEW BOARD

Chapter 17

CANADIAN CULTURAL PROPERTY EXPORT REVIEW BOARD

Background

The Cultural Property Export Review Board was established through the Cultural Property Export and Import Act on September 6, 1977. The duties of the Review Board as set out in Section 17 of the Act are:

- pursuant to Section 23, to review applications for export permits;
- pursuant to Section 24, to make determinations respecting fair cash offers to purchase; and
- pursuant to Section 26, to make determinations for the purpose of subparagraph 39(1)(a)(i.1) or 110(1)(b.1) of the Income Tax Act.

Administrative services to the Review Board are provided through the Department of Communications by the Movable Cultural Property Secretariat. All Review Board files are housed with the secretariat. The personal information they contain pertains to appeals against the refusal of cultural property export permits and to applications on behalf of donors or vendors. These are filed by application number but can be accessed through a manual cross-indexing system containing the name of the appellant (in the case of an appeal) or the donor/vendor (in the case of certification).

CANADIAN DAIRY COMMISSION

Chapter 18

CANADIAN DAIRY COMMISSION

Overall Responsibilities

The Canadian Dairy Commission (CDC) was established by the Canadian Dairy Commission Act, 1966-67. The Commission consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and one other member appointed by the Governor-in-Council; it is accountable to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture. To assist the Commission with advice on production and marketing matters, there is a consultative committee of nine members, appointed by the Minister, who represent a variety of interests.

The objectives of the Commission are to provide efficient producers of milk and cream with the opportunity of obtaining a fair return for their labour and investment, and to provide consumers with a continuous and adequate supply of dairy products of high quality.

The Commission, under its authority to purchase and sell dairy products, supports the market price of major processed products, principally butter and skim milk powder. The prices that producers receive for industrial milk and cream are related to these product support prices.

The Commission operates a major export marketing program for skim milk powder and whole milk products such as evaporated milk, cheese, whole milk powder and other specialty products.

The Commission makes direct payments to producers from funds provided by the government, to supplement returns from the market. These payments are made on qualifying milk and cream shipments produced within a market share quota system to meet domestic market requirements, and a special export program.

The supply of industrial milk and cream is managed nationally through a market share quota program administered under the federal-provincial Comprehensive Milk Marketing Plan. The Commission, as chairman of the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee (CMSMC), directs the development of policy and co-ordinates the administration of the national quota and provincial market shares, which are determined by the CMSMC, and individual producer market shares which are determined and administered by the provincial milk marketing agencies.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Canadian Dairy Commission, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described in this entry. Such personal information includes, for example, candidates for appointment to advisory bodies such as the Consultative Committee to the Commission, which are stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by names of individual or other personal identifier.

This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if requests include general background on the circumstances under which an individual contacted the Commission, and an approximate time-frame. The retention period for these classes of personal information is controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

CANADIAN FILM DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION

Chapter 19

CANADIAN FILM DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION

Background

The Canadian Film Development Corporation, now called Telefilm Canada, was established by the Canadian government in 1967 to "foster and promote the development of a feature film industry in Canada."

The Corporation, under the jurisdiction of the Minister of Communications, is headed by a Board of Directors and a Chairman appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The Governor-in-Council, on the recommendation of the Corporation's board, also appoints an executive director who acts as the chief executive officer and is responsible for day-to-day operations. Headquarters is located in Montréal, with offices in Toronto, Vancouver, Halifax, Los Angeles, Paris, London and New York.

The Corporation, which does not produce or distribute films or television programs itself, carries out its mandate by providing advice and financial assistance to individual production and distribution companies and various industry organizations. The Corporation works with federal and provincial government ministries and cultural agencies towards the formulation of film and video policy and programs.

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are

CANADIAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION

Chapter 20

CANADIAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION

Background

The Canadian Human Rights Commission was given its mandate with the passage in July 1977 of the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Act became operative on March 1, 1978 and was amended July 1, 1983.

Overall Responsibilities

The Commission's mandate is to foster the principle that every individual should have an equal opportunity to participate in all spheres of Canadian life, consistent with his or her duties and obligations as a member of society.

This mandate is carried out in two ways. First, it deals with complaints of discrimination in employment or in the provision of goods, services, facilities or accommodation based on ten prohibited grounds of discrimination: race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sex, marital status, family status, disability, or conviction of an offence for which a pardon has been granted. Its jurisdiction includes federal government departments and agencies, Crown corporations and institutions such as chartered banks, airlines, interprovincial transportation systems, as well as the federally regulated portions of the private sector. In order to deal with complaints of discrimination, the Commission must collect personal information about the complainant, employees of the respondent, and third parties. The information could include race, age, marital status, medical or educational history, and is used in order to determine whether there has been a violation of the Canadian Human Rights Act.

Secondly, the Commission conducts information programs in the field of human rights, provides advice, issues guidelines, conducts research, reviews regulations and other instruments, maintains close liaison with the provinces and endeavours to reduce discriminatory practices.

Classes of Personal Information

Complaints and Compliance Branch Files

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Complaints and Compliance Branch, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described in this entry. Such personal information may include an individual's race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age or marital status, views or opinions of another individual about the individual, etc., which are stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier.

This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning personnel/employment policies and practices of, or special programs, plans or arrangements undertaken by federally regulated employers or service providers, or concerning Commission policies about the application of the Canadian Human Rights Act to employment policies, practices and special programs/arrangements.

The retention period for these classes of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Research and Policy Branch Files

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Research and Policy Branch, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described in this entry. Such personal information may include an individual's race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age or marital status, views or opinions of another individual about the individual, etc., which are stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier.

This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning research related to the duties and responsibilities of the Commission, including policy analysis and development, surveys to monitor current public opinion, socioeconomic studies of human rights problems, preparation and analysis of statistics, bibliographies, and other data.

The retention period of these classes of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Enquiries Received Under the Canadian Human Rights Act, Part III

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Complaints and Compliance Branch, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. Such personal information is accumulated in the course of responding to complaints of discriminatory practices and policies on various grounds which may or may not be prohibited by the Act. This form of personal information is retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the nature of the complaint, the date, and the office to which it was addressed. The files are retained for one year from date of correspondence and then destroyed.

STANDARD BANKS

HRC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: CHRC-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks.

CANADIAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION

The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. CANADIAN IMPORT TRIBUNAL

Background

The Canadian Import Tribunal derives its authority from the Special Import Measures Act, which replaced the 1969 Anti-dumping Act. The new Act came into force on December 1, 1984. It was designed to modernize and streamline Canada's previous anti-dumping and countervailing legislation, and to bring it into conformity with its international obligations. In the case of dumping, we refer to the Agreement on Implementation of Article VI of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (the Anti-dumping Code), and in the case of subsidization, to Article 6 of the Subsidies and Countervailing Duties Agreement (the Subsidies and Countervailing Duties Code). These agreements were negotiated under the auspices of the GATT "Tokyo Round" of multilateral trade negotiations and signed by Canada in 1979. With respect to the Anti-dumping Code, this had been initially negotiated during the 1960s "Kennedy Round" of multilateral tariff negotiations.

The Canadian Import Tribunal is an independent, quasi-judicial tribunal whose mandate is to enquire as to whether the importation of goods is causing material injury to Canadian industry or is retarding the establishment of production in Canada, and to determine appropriate action. These enquiries result in the issuance of findings or reports by the Tribunal. Findings establish the basis under which National Revenue, Customs and Excise, levy anti-dumping or countervailing duties, whereas reports assist the government in determining whether safeguard action should be taken respecting other imports.

Because the Canadian Import Tribunal replaced the Anti-dumping Tribunal on December 1, 1984, much of this chapter relates to activities carried out by the former Anti-dumping Tribunal under Section 16 of the Anti-dumping Act. Similar enquiries are now conducted pursuant to Section 42 of the current Special Import Measures Act by the Canadian Import Tribunal. These enquiries have been broadened to include the determination of the impact of subsidized as well as dumped imports. The Act also contains provisions for representations to be heard on the public interest issue during the proceedings. This means that interested persons may make representations on the issue of whether the imposition of duties on dumped or subsidized goods would be in the public interest.

Under Section 31 of the former Act, the Anti-dumping Tribunal, at any time after the date of any order or finding made by it, was empowered to review, rescind, change, alter or vary the said order or finding or to re-hear any matter before deciding it.

The Canadian Import Tribunal, under Section 76 of the Act, can also review its own findings. The new Act now puts a limitation of five years during which a finding is in effect, if not continued by the Tribunal as a result of a review.

All orders or findings of material injury made under the old Act and which are still in effect on December 1, 1984, are deemed to have been made on the date of proclamation of the Special Import Measures Act, because of a transitional provision. Such findings, therefore, may continue in effect for five years unless reviewed and rescinded by the Tribunal at an earlier date.

Under Section 13 of the old Act, the Tribunal was required, if requested to do so, to advise the deputy minister of National Revenue, Customs and Excise, whether there was evidence that imports which were determined or alleged to be dumped were the cause of material injury to the production in Canada of like goods.

The Canadian Import Tribunal is also required to advise the deputy minister on reference questions, under Section 33 of the new Act. The new Act extends the right of referring the question of evidence of injury to the Tribunal to exporters, importers and governments affected by the deputy minister's investigation. Under the old Act, only the deputy minister and the complainant had this right of reference.

Section 16.1 of the Anti-dumping Act provided that upon a reference by the Governor-in-Council "the Tribunal shall enquire into and report to the Governor-in-Council on any other matter or thing in relation to the importation of goods into Canada that may cause or threaten injury to the production of any goods in Canada". This section had both general and specific applications. In general, it was invoked in relation to any problem involving alleged injury caused by imports. Specifically, it was invoked to assist the Governor-in-Council in dealing with situations in which it had been determined that allegedly injurious imports had benefited from foreign government subsidization.

Section 48 of the Special Import Measures Act extends the purview of the former Section 16.1 Anti-dumping Act as it includes the provision of imported services as a subject of possible enquiry.

As was the case with the former Act under Section 16.1, enquiries carried out pursuant to Section 48 of the Special Import Measures Act are advisory rather than adjudicative, and any action which may follow is decided by the Governor-in-Council who is not bound by the Tribunal's reports.

The Canadian Import Tribunal has two further statutory responsibilities that it is mandated to fulfill under the new Act. Section 89 provides that the Tribunal may be asked to rule on the question as to which of two or more persons is the importer of goods on which duty is payable. Also, the Tribunal has a duty to reconsider any finding that it has made, when its ruling as to who is the importer identifies a person other than the one specified by the deputy minister of National Revenue.

The Special Import Measures Act, the Regulations and the rules should be consulted for the purpose of interpreting and applying the law.

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employees files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups

The following banks are located at headquarters.

IDA/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: CIDA-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion,

CANADIAN INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT AGENCY

including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Employee Personnel Record occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

CANADIAN PENITENTIARY SERVICE

Chapter 25

CANADIAN PENITENTIARY SERVICE

Background

The Canadian Penitentiary Service (formerly the Penitentiary Service and the National Parole Service) is responsible for administering sentences imposed by the courts, for the custody and health care of federal offenders and their preparation for re-entry to society. The Canadian Penitentiary Service, commonly referred to as the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC), exercises responsibility for the management of five regions, each of which includes: regional headquarters (RHQ); correctional staff colleges; maximum, medium and minimum security penal institutions; specialized penal institutions; community correctional centres; district parole offices and parole offices.

Personal information held by the Correctional Service of Canada is divided into four major categories identified as Administrative Files — Personal Information, Offender Information, Information on General Public, and Employee Information.

Each category may contain information acquired from or provided by a third party.

Access Procedures

Requests for access to information banks CPS/P-PU-035 and CPS/P-PU-040 should be submitted to the appropriate institutional director. All access requests to any other CSC personal information bank should be addressed to

Access to Information and Privacy Co-ordinator Correctional Service Canada
340 Laurier Avenue West
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 0P9

While CSC employees may also pursue this route to gain access to their records, they are encouraged to request access from their local personnel offices.

Access requests must be accompanied by name, birth date, and where an offender bank is being accessed, the most recent offender number (i.e. institutional or Finger Print System) and expected location of the requested record, (e.g. the name of the penal institution or the parole office). If only a specific medical docket or some other specific subject matter is being sought, the requestor should note this on the Record Access Request form. Any additional access requirements for specific banks or classes of records are included in their descriptions.

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. CANADIAN RADIO-TELEVISION AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

Background

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) is an independent public authority established by Parliament in 1968 as a successor to the Board of Broadcast Governors, an earlier regulatory agency. Its mandate was to regulate and supervise all aspects of the Canadian broadcasting system. These responsibilities were enlarged in 1976 by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Act, under which the Commission assumed responsibility for regulating telecommunications carriers within federal jurisdiction.

Overall Responsibilities

In broadcasting matters, the CRTC regulates both the public and the private broadcasters. It has the power to issue, renew, amend, suspend or revoke licences and to set any conditions of licence it feels necessary. With respect to federally-regulated telecommunications carriers, the CRTC has the power to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers are just and reasonable, and that rates and tariffs are not unjustly discriminatory. The Commission's approval is also required for traffic agreements and capital stock issues.

In order to fulfill its mandate, the CRTC collects a variety of information on applicants and existing licensees operating broadcasting undertakings (cable, radio and television) across the country. Financial and operating information is collected on a yearly basis in Annual Returns filed under the Statistics Canada Act. Programming on radio and television is monitored, and operating stations submit detailed program logs every year. In the course of the public hearing process, information concerning the applications being heard is made available for public examination, as outlined in the CRTC Rules of Procedure. These public files include the text of any intervention made by anyone wishing to express their views with respect to particular applications or issues raised in public hearings. In telecommunications hearings, interrogatories and other more formal practices may be carried out, as outlined in the CRTC Telecommunications Rules of Procedure.

On both the broadcasting and telecommunications sides, the Commission receives complaints and enquiries from specific individuals or corporations. Grants and contributions are occasionally made through the Commission's research branch.

General Information

General information can be obtained either in person, by telephone, or by writing to CRTC headquarters at: Central Building, Les Terrasses de la Chaudière, 1, Promenade du Portage, Hull, Québec, specifying the appropriate service and floor.

Regional Offices

The CRTC maintains four regional offices to establish the Commission's presence in the community. These offices provide a link between the head office and the licensees, provincial and municipal governments, local groups, and the public.

In addition to searching out areas needing new broadcasting services, and assessing existing services, the regional offices are available to provide general information and assistance to the public, applicants, interveners and licensees in the regions.

CANADIAN SECURITY INTELLIGENCE SERVICE

Chapter 27

CANADIAN SECURITY INTELLIGENCE SERVICE

Background

The Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) operates pursuant to the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act. It collects, analyzes and retains information and intelligence respecting activities that may on reasonable grounds be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada, and reports to and advises the Government of Canada in relation to these matters.

The Service also plays a role in providing security assessments to departments of the Government of Canada (as described in Cabinet Directive 35, dated December 18, 1963) and may provide security assessments to the government of a province or any department thereof, any police force in a province, and to the government of a foreign state or institution thereof or an international organization of states or institutions thereof. As well, CSIS may advise any Minister of the Crown on matters relating to the security of Canada, or provide any Minister of the Crown with information relating to security matters or criminal activities that is relevant to the exercise of any power or the performance of any duty or function by that Minister under the Citizenship Act or the Immigration Act, 1976. It may also conduct such investigations as are necessary in order to provide security assessments or advice to Ministers.

Further, CSIS may, in relation to the defence of Canada or the conduct of international affairs, assist the Minister of National Defence or the Secretary of State for External Affairs, within Canada, in the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of any foreign state or group of foreign states or any person other than a Canadian citizen or permanent resident, or corporation.

Security Assessments

Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals who are or have been the subject of security screening procedures in relation to pre-employment/employment with federal departments and the private sector working under federal government contracts. Similar records are held in respect to clearances required by the government of a province, a foreign state, or an international organization of states. This bank may also contain personal data, criminal records, security analysis, security assessments and investigative reports, related correspondence and a notation of the level of security clearance granted. The bank also contains personal information collected through the process of security clearances on individuals who are not themselves the subject of the clearance process.

Class of Individuals: Persons for whom CSIS was asked to provide a security assessment, including CSIS employees. By virtue of the screening process, personal information may be held on individuals who are not themselves the subject of the security assessment.

Purpose: To provide security assessments in accordance with Section 13 of the CSIS Act.

Consistent Uses: To support the decision taken in determining the suitability for a domestic or foreign security clearance. It may also be used in matters which may on reasonable grounds be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada and in other lawful investigations. Information may be provided to the Inspector General and the Security Intelligence Review Committee.

Canadian Security Intelligence Service Records

Description: This bank contains information on individuals whose activities may, on reasonable grounds, be suspected of directly relating to espionage or sabotage that is against or is detrimental to the interests of Canada; or, activities directed toward or in support of such activity; foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that are detrimental to the interests of Canada, and are clandestine or deceptive, or involve a threat to any person; activities within or relating to Canada directed toward or in support of the threat or use of acts of serious violence against persons or property for the purpose of achieving a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; and, activities directed toward undermining by covert unlawful acts, or directed toward or intended ultimately to lead to the destruction or overthrow by violence of the constitutionally established system of government in Canada. This bank may also contain personal information that, in relation to the defence of Canada or to the conduct of the international affairs of Canada, pertains to the capabilities, intentions; or activities of any foreign state or group of foreign states; of any person other than a Canadian citizen or permanent resident; or, any corporation except one incorporated pursuant to the laws of Canada or of any province. Information is also held in respect to CSIS providing advice relating the Citizenship or Immigration Acts.

Class of Individuals: Individuals suspected of espionage or sabotage against Canada or to the interests of Canada; foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that are clandestine or deceptive or involve a threat to any person; activities within Canada directed toward the use of serious acts of violence to achieve a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; or, activities of a covert unlawful act to destroy or overthrow the constitutionally established system in Canada.

Purpose: Collected and obtained under Section 12 of the CSIS Act with respect to threats to the security of Canada; under Section 15 pertaining to the requirement to provide security assessments, and under Section 16 concerning the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions; or, activities of foreign states and certain persons.

Consistent Uses: CSIS may only disclose information it obtains if it does so in accordance with the controls of subsection 19(2) of the CSIS Act. First, it may disclose information for the purposes of the performance of its duties and functions under the CSIS Act or the administration or enforcement of that Act, or as required by any other law. The Service may thus disclose personal information to the

CANADIAN TRANSPORT COMMISSION

Chapter 28

Background

The Canadian Transport Commission (CTC) regulates transportation in Canada that is under federal jurisdiction. Established by the National Transportation Act on September 19, 1976, it succeeded and absorbed the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada, the Air Transport Board, and the Canadian Maritime Commission. In accordance with an earlier cabinet decision, the Western Division was established in May 1979 in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, to enable the Canadian Transport Commission to have a more visible presence in western Canada and to provide more direct access to and develop easier, more effective communication with the total western community.

Overall Responsibilities

The CTC's objective is to promote the co-ordination and harmonization of all operations by carriers engaged in transport under federal jurisdiction, through effective economic regulation, research and participation in policy development and, with respect to rail, to foster optimum development of safety regulations consistent with the public interest. In the course of fulfilling these responsibilities, personal information may be collected and retained concerning individuals participating in some of the activities, or from whom the Commission was required to obtain personal information.

The CTC performs all the functions vested in it by the National Transportation Act, the Railway Act, the Aeronautics Act, the Transport Act and other statutes. It is a court of record and its decisions, though binding, are subject to appeals to the Federal Court of Canada on questions of law or jurisdiction, and, in other cases, to its own Review Committee, the Minister of Transport, or the Governor-in-Council.

The Commission consists of a maximum of 17 commissioners including a President, one vice-president responsible for law and the superintendence of the work of the committees, and one vice-president responsible for study and research programs. All are appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

The powers and duties of the Commission are assigned on the basis of committees and branches. There are seven committees, five of which regulate each of the different transport modes - air, rail, water, motor vehicle, and commodity pipeline. The sixth committee deals with review and appeals, while the seventh is concerned with international transport policy matters. The branches specialize in traffic and tariffs, research, and departmental administration.

Access Procedures

Any Canadian citizen or permanent resident, as defined by the Immigration Act, 1976, who believes the Commission holds information of a personal nature about them, may request access to that information by writing to

PERSONAL INFORMATION BANKS — GENERAL PUBLIC

Railway Transport Committee

CTC/P-PU-005 Formerly Identified as: CTC-P10

Rail Accident Investigations

Description: The purpose of this bank is to maintain records concerning rail accidents. These comprise reports on occurrence of accidents and information reports on the more serious categories — derailments, collisions, crossing accidents and trespass resulting in injury. Reports may contain names of railway employees, passengers, highway users or other injured, and names of employees disciplined. Reports of derailments or collisions contain both circumstantial and causal information, whereas other reports usually contain only circumstantial information. Since files are maintained by accident date and location, access requests should specify them.

Class of Individuals: Individuals involved in railway accidents.

Purpose: To enhance existing safety programs by identifying actual causes of accidents and action that can be taken by the Committee to remove or reduce these causes. To provide information for members of Parliament and provincial legislative assemblies, and to parties involved in the accidents or their legal representatives.

Consistent Uses:

Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for 20 years.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters.

CTC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: CTC-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Staffing

Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employees files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

THE CANADIAN WHEAT BOARD

Chapter 29

THE CANADIAN WHEAT BOARD

Background

The Canadian Wheat Board was established by the Canadian Wheat Board Act in 1935 to provide for the orderly marketing of wheat, and since 1949, oats and barley, produced in the area designated by the Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The Board is obliged by law to purchase wheat, oats and barley offered to it for sale by producers at an elevator or railway car and to pay an initial payment for same in accordance with the Act. The Board is then obliged to market this grain in interprovincial and international markets. The surplus proceeds received upon sale and available for distribution, are divided equitably among the producers delivering grain to the Board after the initial payment made to the producers and the Board's operation costs are deducted. The Board is also responsible for administering a delivery quota system which is designed to ensure equality of delivery opportunity among producers wishing to deliver grain for sale in interprovincial and international markets to elevators and railway cars. The Board also administers the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act pursuant to which advance payments are made to producers undertaking to deliver wheat, oats and barley as quotas permit.

STANDARD BANKS

CWB/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: CWP-P-P10
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

THE CANADIAN WHEAT BOARD

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Election Operations

This information bank contains the names of candidates and their official agents as recorded in the candidates' nomination papers, as well as the names of the electors who sign the candidates' nomination papers; preliminary lists of electors; revision officers' record sheets; record of decisions in cases involving a person's eligibility to vote; complaints with respect to the manner in which election officers discharge their duties; personal data on individuals who are deprived of their right to vote and/or be a candidate because of a conviction under the Canada Elections Act. This information relates to the Canadian electorate and candidates at federal elections. It has been compiled in the preparation of voters' lists and the completion of nomination papers as required by the Act. Candidates use voters' lists during their election campaign and at polling stations to check on the right to vote of citizens. Nomination papers are public documents which can be inspected at the office of the returning officer during the election; after the election the Chief Electoral Officer retains these documents. All the election documents are retained by the Chief Electoral Officer for a period of one year following the election as required by the Act. After that year, most of those documents are sent to Public Archives; voter's lists are microfilmed.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF OFFICIAL LANGUAGES

Chapter 31

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF OFFICIAL LANGUAGES

Overall Responsibilities

The terms of reference of the Office of the Commissioner of Official Languages (OCOL) are set out in the Official Languages Act. This legislation was passed in July 1969 and came into effect in September of that year. The terms of reference consist of ensuring recognition of the status of each of the official languages and compliance with the spirit and intent of the Act in the administration of the affairs of the institutions of Parliament and the Government of Canada. The first Commissioner took office on April 1, 1970.

The Commissioner fulfils his or her duties in three ways: he/she investigates complaints regarding matters governed by the Official Languages Act; he/she carries out studies, research, analyses and audits with respect to the equal status of and rights and privileges connected with the official languages; and, lastly, he/she encourages application of the Act by providing information and advice, and by working with the public as well as with federal organizations. The Commissioner's mandate encompasses the entire federal apparatus — departments, agencies, Crown corporations, and so on.

Commissioner of Official Languages Information Distribution

Description: Files kept are on individuals and organizations to whom information produced by the Office of the Commissioner of Official Languages (OCOL) and pertaining to official languages issues is distributed. The specific information filed comprises: name, address, occupation, telephone number and official language preference of the individual or organization, and the information requested.

Class of Individuals: The information pertains to individuals who have requested information and to persons in positions of official language significance designated by the OCOL for receipt of information. Subcategories include: federal and provincial political representatives; public servants; official language minorities; media; libraries; educators; and interested citizens.

Purpose: For distribution, analytical and statistical purposes, files are kept on individuals and organizations who receive information produced by the OCOL, and other information pertaining to official languages in Canada in general.

Consistent Uses: This bank is used mainly for the purpose of distributing information related to official languages, with the occasional analysis and statistics being produced to support this purpose. Third party access to this bank is limited to the purposes stated herein. In the future this bank may be linked to a multiple OCOL BIN for more extensive evaluations.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Nine thousand names and records are stored electronically on a permanent distribution list which is updated annually. In addition, 90,000 names of persons who have made a one-time request for information are stored on paper or electronically, and held for a three-year period. PAC# = 78-001

Policy and Liaison Program

In order to keep abreast of trends, and with a view to ensuring recognition of the status of Canada's official languages in co-operation with individuals and organizations, the branch keeps some information on those organizations and individuals with whom it is necessary for the Commissioner's office to communicate on a regular basis, to obtain or verify information having to do with minority official language rights: languages and education; federal official languages programs; and private sector initiatives in the area of official languages. At this point these files are mainly in the form of lists of names and addresses; they do not contain any personal information beyond that which is necessary to identify the person and/or organization. They are located in Ottawa and in the five regional offices — Edmonton, Winnipeg, Sudbury, Montréal and Moncton.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATIONS

Background

The role of the Department of Communications is to encourage the growth of national and international telecommunications, broadcasting networks and facilities, and to anticipate and plan for change by conducting research into communications and space technology. It manages and regulates the airwaves, ensuring the efficient use of the radio spectrum. In recognition of the increasingly close link between culture and communications, the Department was given responsibility in 1980 for the federal government's arts and culture program, and for a number of cultural agencies.

This bank contains non-broadcasting radio station licensing information, derived from applications submitted by applicants for radio station licences. It contains information such as radio frequencies, call signs, emissions, station location and personal data of applicants. This information relates to holders of radio licences. Information was obtained in order to licence and control the use of all non-broadcasting radio station systems in Canada for the planning and management of the radio frequency spectrum. In particular, this bank is used in the frequency selection process for new or existing stations and in associated electromagnetic compatibility studies. It also provides information needed for the identification of sources of interstation interference, policy formulation, and frequency utilization study purposes. The licensee and licence fee accounting information is used as a basis for the collection of annual licence renewal fees. Information such as names and addresses of licensees, assigned radio frequencies, call signs, emissions, bandwidth and power is provided to selected government bodies, persons or companies in connection with frequency co-ordination procedures for station or system planning, for reference or for similar purposes. Part of this information is shared with the following organizations, agencies and government departments: the Department of Transport for licensing information on the invoicing of ship board radio traffic; the Canadian Coast Guard, to ascertain whether a vessel has a valid radio equipment licence prior to placing telephone calls or passing traffic; a call sign and or name is provided to the Search and Rescue Co-ordination Centre so that vessel/aircraft routes may be established to facilitate the location of lost vessels or aircraft; various agencies and organizations in Canada and the U.S. for co-ordination of frequencies and system parameters; Amateur and General Radio Service (GRS) organizations for membership surveys and drives; publishers of the Radio Amateur Call Book (Canada and the U.S.) for the name, address, level of certificate and call sign for the purpose of pursuing activities related to amateur radio; law enforcement agencies for investigations relating to offences under the Radio Act; organizations providing radio services to the public in order to establish that their clientele is licensed; equipment suppliers to facilitate the commissioning of their clients' communications systems; and the Department of Transport, National Defence and other organizations to provide information on privately operated non-directional navigation beacons in the interest of safety. Broadcasting licences are retained for 30 years (active for five and dormant for 25) while commercial private and commercial public licences are retained for two years after they become invalid. The microwave relay system is retained for 22 years (five active and 17 dormant), the system database is retained for 10 years (five active and five dormant years) and experimental licences are disposed of two years after they have become invalid.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions.

DOC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: DOC-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

OFFICE OF THE COMPTROLLER GENERAL

Chapter 33

OFFICE OF THE COMPTROLLER GENERAL

Background

The position of Comptroller General of Canada was created by Bill C-10, an amendment to the Financial Administration Act on June 30, 1978. The Comptroller General reports to the President of the Treasury Board. The role of the Office of the Comptroller General (OCG) is to see to the establishment of sound management practices in the federal government.

OCG officials work with program managers and functional specialists in departments to establish policy and to give advice on management practices, particularly in such areas as financial administration, operational planning and control, internal audit, and program evaluation.

The Office of the Comptroller General has three branches and a small planning and co-ordinating staff support unit.

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part I, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

DEPARTMENT OF CONSUMER AND CORPORATE AFFAIRS

Chapter 34

DEPARTMENT OF CONSUMER AND CORPORATE AFFAIRS

Overall Responsibilities

The Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs was created in 1967 to bring together, as much as was practical, federal law governing the marketplace.

The Department is organized into four bureaus: Consumer Affairs, Competition Policy, Policy Co-ordination and Corporate Affairs. The Department is also responsible for the administration of the Metric Conversion Program and the UFFI Assistance Program.

The Bureau of Consumer Affairs promotes and protects the consumer interest in the marketplace, thus contributing to the viability and integrity of the market economy. The bureau also promotes and protects the consumer interest through consumer information, advocacy within government and with industry, and by financial and technical support of consumer groups.

The Bureau of Competition Policy administers the Combines Investigation Act, which is intended to maintain a competitive market system, promoting increased efficiency in the economy and fairness in the marketplace.

The Bureau of Policy Co-ordination is responsible for conducting research, policy analysis, evaluation and communication activities as well as liaison with external organizations in the area of consumer and corporate affairs. It also incorporates the metric office.

The Bureau of Corporate Affairs seeks to provide a legal framework for the orderly conduct of business. It develops federal commercial institutions through incorporation, regulates bankruptcy proceedings for insolvent companies and individuals, and licences and supervises trustees in bankruptcy. It also encourages invention, innovation and creativity in Canada through granting exclusive property rights for inventions (patents), trademarks, industrial designs and copyright of original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic works.

The Metric Commission of Canada, established in 1971 for the purpose of advising the Minister on plans for conversion to the metric system in Canada, was abolished as of March 31, 1985. The metric office of the Bureau of Policy Co-ordination was created to follow up on the work of the commission and to assume the various tasks involved in completing metric conversion in Canada.

The Urea Formaldehyde Foam Insulation (UFFI) Information and Co-ordination Centre was created in June, 1981, to administer the technical and financial assistance program for homeowners with UFFI.

CCA/P-PU-125 Formerly Identified as: NO REFERENCE Survey — Consumers (New)

This bank was created to obtain information on the relevance and the extent of achievement of objectives of CCA's programs as perceived by their various target clientele, of which consumers in general are one. Consumers are surveyed to obtain information on the degree of relevance of CCA's programs in relation to their needs and the extent to which their behaviour and attitude are affected by the existence of CCA's programs. The results of the data collection projects will be used to provide statistics which will assist the branch in assessing the relevance and impact of CCA's programs and the extent to which these have succeeded in achieving their objectives. The period of retention for each individual data collection project undertaken will vary according to the timeframe planned for each particular evaluation. It is intended that data be retained on departmental dormant files or be given to Public Archives in order to serve as reference for future evaluations to be conducted over a seven-year period.

Survey — Business Representatives (New)

This bank was created to obtain information on the relevance and the extent of achievement of objectives of CCA's programs as perceived by their various target clientele, of which all types of businesses, in all sectors of the economy constitute one. Business representatives are surveyed on their perception of the need for activities falling under CCA's mandate. In addition, the surveys provide information on the extent to which CCA's operations affect the conduct of business in Canada and promote the existence of a competitive economy and the integrity of the marketplace. The surveys also provide data on the costs and benefits to be derived from CCA's different programs. The period of retention for each individual data collection project undertaken will vary according to the timeframe planned for each particular evaluation. It is intended that data be retained on departmental dormant files or given to Public Archives in order to serve as reference for future evaluations to be conducted over a seven-year period.

Classes of Personal Information

Bureau of Consumer Affairs

Consumer Complaints and Enquiry Assistance Classes

These classes contain individual complaints and enquiries about goods and services, the results of mediation, solutions, and replies. Please note that files in this bank may be identified by means of the name of the company concerned rather than the complainant. Some complaints are handled by telephone and filed by subject matter or referred to the appropriate regional office. Few complaints and enquiries are recorded or retained in the database. These files are kept active for one year after which time they are considered to be obsolete.

Enquiries Regarding Acts Administered in Whole or in Part by the Department

- Canada Agricultural Products Standards Act
- Consumer Packaging and Labelling Act
- Electricity Inspection Act
- Fish Inspection Act
- Food and Drugs Act
- Gas Inspection Act
- Hazardous Products Act
- National Trade Mark and True Labelling Act
- Precious Metals Marking Act
- Tax Rebate Discounting Act
- Textile Labelling Act
- Weights and Measures Act

This class contains records on establishments that have been inspected with respect to the requirements or the legislation listed above. It contains inspection reports, complaints, warning letters and other correspondence, and reports of prosecution. The names of individuals who are sole owners of companies appear in the files. These files are kept for several years in order to plan inspection visits and monitor the compliance level in relation to the regulatory requirements of the legislation administered by the Department.

With respect to the Tax Rebate Discounting Act, the bank also contains the statements of discounting transaction submitted by discounters, and information relative to their processing and verification. It contains names, addresses and amounts of refunds for persons using tax discounting services. Retention periods vary according to the subject.

ADP = h/DATE = 84-04-01

Bureau of Competition Policy Enquiries Class

The purpose of this class is to maintain in a secure place all material relating to the conduct of private enquiries under the Combines Investigation Act. The records may relate to any category of product or service. Most of the filing is done according to standard industrial classification coding. There is some cross-indexing, but in most cases only the companies associated with a given enquiry can be identified, although the names of individuals who are sole proprietors may also be available. Except in cases of misleading advertising, it would normally not be possible to locate the names of individuals who happen to be mentioned in information assembled during the course of enquiries under the Combines Investigation Act. These records are retained for periods of five to 10 years.

Bankruptcy Branch

Unclaimed Dividends/Undistributed Assets — This class contains records relating to Section 125 of the Bankruptcy Act, under which the superintendent is the depository for all funds that are distributed to creditors but which, for whatever reason, remain unclaimed by the creditors. Under the same section of the Act, the superintendent receives all funds from trustees that cannot be distributed to creditors in an economically feasible manner. This particular fund also includes trust funds in the possession of the estate that are not estate and are available to the particular creditors providing appropriate identification.

Departmental Secretariat

Ministerial Correspondence — This class of information contains correspondence received from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other similar submissions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to Consumer and Corporate Affairs activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondent. This form of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject were to be provided; it is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are held at headquarters and in the regions. Current employees seeking access to their records should consult their supervisor or their local personnel unit.

CCA/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: CCA-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed to the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's Affirmative Action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

OFFICE OF THE CORRECTIONAL INVESTIGATOR

Chapter 35

OFFICE OF THE CORRECTIONAL INVESTIGATOR

Background

The Office of the Correctional Investigator was established by Part II of the Inquiries Act. The office investigates complaints from inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act and reports upon problems of inmates that come within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada and meet the following conditions:

- (1) The subject matter of the complaint concerns an incident occurring within twelve months of the lodging of the complaint;
- (2) The complainant has taken, in the opinion of the Commissioner, all reasonable steps to exhaust legal or administrative remedies;
- (3) The subject matter of the complaint does not involve the preparation of material for consideration by the National Parole Board.

The Commissioner need not investigate if the subject matter of a complaint has previously been investigated, or in the opinion of the Commissioner, a person complaining has no valid interest in the matter.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters.

DCL/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: DCL-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

ECONOMIC COUNCIL OF CANADA

Chapter 37

Background

The Economic Council of Canada is an independent research and advisory body established by Parliament in 1963 with broad terms of reference to study and report on a wide range of matters relating to Canada's economic development.

The Act stipulates that the Council is to advise the government on "how Canada can achieve the highest possible levels of employment and efficient production in order that the country may enjoy a high and consistent rate of economic growth and that all Canadians may share in rising living standards."

By mid-1966 the Council had developed a staff of about 100, including some 40 research officers drawn from federal and provincial departments and agencies, business firms, labour organizations, universities and international institutions. The Council itself was comprised of 28 members representing all regions of Canada and most socioeconomic interest groups, with three acting in a full-time capacity — the Chairman and two directors. The size of staff has varied over the years, with the introduction and termination of special references to the Council playing a major influence. As well, the in-house capacity of the Council to model, monitor and analyse the workings of the economy has been built up over time. The net result has been to increase the size of staff to about 133 individuals at present. Council membership currently numbers 23, including the three full-time members.

The Council has three principal functions, namely

- to conduct economic analyses and undertake studies with a view to providing a greater understanding of the workings of the Canadian economy and its prospects for the future;
- to make recommendations to government and the private sector on economic policy measures to improve Canada's economic performance;
- to educate and inform the Canadian public on economic problems and to stimulate, through the media and other forums, public discussion of policy solutions and economic strategies.

AND DEPARTMENT OF EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION

Chapter 38

CANADA EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION COMMISSION AND DEPARTMENT OF EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION

Background

The Employment and Immigration Reorganization Act, passed in 1977, created the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission by integrating the former Unemployment Insurance Commission and the former Department of Manpower and Immigration. The legislation also created the Department of Employment and Immigration, which provides services to the Commission and the Minister.

Overall Responsibilities

The specific federal mandate assigned to the Minister of Employment and Immigration under this Act encompasses all matters not assigned by law to other departments, branches or agencies of government, relating to:

- development and utilization of labour market resources in Canada;
- employment services;
- unemployment insurance; and
- immigration.

Two major objectives dominate the work of the Commission/Department: to realize the full productive potential of Canada's human resources, while supporting the initiatives of individuals to pursue their economic needs and, more generally, their self-fulfilment through work; and to administer the admission of immigrants and non-immigrants in accordance with the economic, social and cultural interests of Canada.

Organization

The Commission/Department's National Headquarters is made up of nine major groups. Of these, four are directly concerned with services to the public, and collect, generate and use the bulk of personal information on clients.

Employment Services Group

This group develops and disperses policies, guidelines and procedures for the delivery of employment services directly to clients of the Commission via regional and field offices, including services for particular client groups such as women, native people, youth and other individuals who are considered employment-disadvantaged. These services include job referrals; employment and career counselling; industrial and institutional training programs; and mobility assistance. The group also monitors and analyzes all such services offered by the Commission.

Insurance Group

This group develops and executes legislation, policies, programs and systems with respect to benefit payments and control of payments according to the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971, administered by the Commission, including regular unemployment insurance benefits, benefits paid to claimants referred to approved training, benefits paid to claimants in approved work sharing and job creation projects, and labour adjustment benefits. It also administers the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction Program for employers with qualified wage loss replacement plans. The group represents the Commission in submitting or contesting appeals with respect to decisions concerning such benefits.

Labour Market Development group

The Labour Market Development Group is responsible for the development of policies, priorities, guidelines and programs designed to maintain or enhance employment opportunities or employment training opportunities in Canada by providing technical and/or financial assistance to private employers, community organizations and government institutions. These programs include: The National Institutional Training Program; the National Industrial Training Program; Skills Growth Fund; Interprovincial Standards Program; Industry and Labour Adjustment Program; Canadian Industrial Renewal Program; Canada Farm Labour Pools; Seasonal Agricultural Workers Programs; Canada Works; Local Employment and Development Program; Career Access; Job Corps; Manpower Consultative Services; the Work Sharing Program; Unemployment Insurance Job Creation; and Confirmation of Offers of Employment to Foreign Workers. The group also assesses the impact of the Immigration Program on the labour market.

Immigration Group

This group is responsible for the development, implementation and assessment of immigration policies and services. Its activities include the recruitment and selection of immigrants and the regulation of the entry of refugees, temporary workers, foreign students and visitors to Canada. (Responsibility for processing applications from prospective immigrants and for issuing various types of visas resides with employees of External Affairs posts abroad when the request is initiated outside Canada.) Other responsibilities include assisting Canadian residents on their return to Canada and assisting with the adaptation of recently arrived immigrants. The work of the group also encompasses the exclusion, control or expulsion of persons whose admission or stay in Canada is prohibited by law.

The activities of the above groups are supported by the five remaining groups.

Public Affairs Group

This group is responsible for all information activities to promote the Commission's objectives, and for all media relations.

Strategic Policy and Planning Group

This group has broad responsibility for developing and maintaining statistical information banks which may be used for research, evaluation, policy and program analysis, and development in support of the various Commission programs and services. The data are frequently extracted from the personal information banks described in the previous sections and they may be supplemented by questionnaires, surveys or other research tools. These data may be of interest to several groups within the Commission.

Systems and Procedures Group

This group is responsible for the development and operation of the manual and electronic data processing systems required to execute the Commission's programs.

National Services Group

This group is responsible for the administration of the Social Insurance Number Program, Canadian Government Annuities Programs, and the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction Program. In addition, an Executive Secretariat co-ordinates and provides direction and support for a wide range of corporate activities which cross organizational lines, including the administration of human rights, Privacy and Access to Information legislation, federal-provincial and international relations, emergency planning and security.

CANADA EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION COMMISSION AND DEPARTMENT OF EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION

Regional Organization

The Department maintains an extensive field organization, comprising some 900 local and district offices across Canada, which is divided into 10 regions, corresponding to the provinces (with the Yukon and Northwest Territories included in the British Columbia and Alberta regions, respectively). Canada Immigration Centres deliver the programs of the Immigration Group, and Canada Employment Centres deliver the programs of the Employment Services, Insurance, and Labour Market Development Groups. Local activities are directed by a regional office in each province.

Access Procedures

A formal request for access to personal information under the Privacy Act must be made by completing a Personal Information Request Form and forwarding it, along with any other information specified in the description for the personal information bank to which access is desired, to the contact given in the bank description. These forms are available at local and district offices of the Commission.

Since the bulk of personal information collected by the Commission is held locally, access has been decentralized to the extent possible. The full addresses for regional access are identified in bank descriptions given in the preceding pages under Key Contacts, with the exception of local and district office addresses, which are listed in telephone directories. Access requests should be directed to the address for the regional, district or local office in which the file is held.

Records in this bank may contain demographic data, the individual's employment preference, education and qualifications, disabilities, employment history, Unemployment Insurance, Welfare, Veteran and citizenship status and general comments on the client. These comments include employment barriers, reason for not being able to work, income tax exemptions, gross earnings in last week worked and other monies received from employer on termination of last employment as well as information relative to farming. The application for unemployment insurance benefits becomes part of the Unemployment Insurance Claim File (EIC/P-PU-150). This personal information relates to persons applying for Unemployment Insurance Benefits or registering for employment. The purpose of this bank is to assist workers in applying for unemployment insurance (UI) benefits and in finding suitable employment, and to assist employers to find suitable workers. It can also be used in the administration of other employment related services such as counselling, testing, training and mobility and may also assist in establishing entitlement to UI benefits. It may also be used in the administration of Immigration programs within the Commission. The bank is a source of information used by Employment and Immigration Canada for purposes of research, planning, statistics, evaluation and internal audit. Other uses of this information include sharing with federal, provincial and municipal departments and social agencies (such as Health and Welfare, Revenue Canada/Taxation, Veterans Affairs, Indian Affairs, Workers' Compensation Boards, social welfare, and education departments) for the co-ordination of services to clients. Information may also be shared with employers for assistance in selection and placement, and with the RCMP for investigation of offences against the Unemployment Insurance Act. Records are destroyed two years after last action.

Records in this bank contain application data on project sponsors and those representing sponsoring organizations, and details of all project proposals. It contains correspondence relating to the programs, the various projects and individuals involved. It also contains curricula vitae of directors and board members of LEDA corporations. Participant Record Forms, if used, contain personal data such as the name, address, social insurance number, income, employment status, salary, etc. Individuals seeking access to personal information on this file must supply the project name, number and location and if possible, the name of the sponsor or sponsoring organizations. This personal information relates to project sponsors, those representing sponsoring organizations, directors and board members of LEDA corporations, and project participants. This bank was used for the administration of funding for the Local Employment Assistance Program (LEAP), the Local Economic Development Assistance Program (LEDA) and the Canada Community Services Projects (CCSP). The Local Employment Assistance Program created employment opportunities for those who, despite normal opportunities in the labour market, remained unemployed. The Local Economic Development Assistance Program was introduced in 1980 to assist in the development of continuing private sector jobs in rural and semi-rural areas with populations of less than 50,000 and with potential for increased business activity. Canada Community Services Projects were introduced in the fall of 1980 to create long-term jobs for unemployed persons through non-profit organizations, with a potential funding capacity of up to three years. The main use of this bank is to determine whether projects were eligible for funds and whether they were approved. Consistent uses are that information on project participants is supplied voluntarily by employees and may be used by Employment and Immigration Canada for administrative and statistical program evaluation purposes. Other uses may include sharing selected information from this bank with federal, provincial and municipal social agencies (such as Health and Welfare, Veterans Affairs, Indian Affairs, Workers' Compensation Boards and welfare and educational departments) for co-ordination of services to clients; with other provincial departments for comments on project proposals; with RCMP in cases of fraud investigation and with Revenue Canada/Taxation for cross-audit purposes. Information may be used for internal audit purposes. Information on approved projects is kept for six fiscal years after the projects terminate. Information on rejected projects is kept for two fiscal years.

Refugee Claim Tracking System (New)

Chief

Monitoring and Analysis Division, Operations Branch

This bank contains information from three sources: initial input to the system is obtained from the Enforcement Data Systems (EDS) and consists of all reports under subsection 20(1) of the Immigration Act, all reports under Section 27 of the Immigration Act, and all notices of arrest under Section 104 of the Immigration Act which lead to an enquiry. The Enforcement Data System will also be used to supply trailing information on deportation orders, departure notices and confirmation of departure. Records may include names, dates of birth, countries of citizenship, countries of last permanent residence, sex, type of enforcement action undertaken, dates for the enforcement action and offices issuing the documents. Subsequent input to the system will occur via the Refugee Claim Tracking Document (IMM 1413). This document will be completed in every case where an enquiry has been adjourned due to a claim for refugee status being made pursuant to Section 45(1) of the Immigration Act, 1976. The Refugee Claim Tracking Document will update any information already on file from the Enforcement Data System. In the event that the claimant is "in-status" and no information is available through EDS, the Refugee Claim Tracking Document will be used as an initial input and will contain additional information. This document is completed at CICs across Canada. Records may include names, dates of birth, actual and claimed countries of citizenship, countries issuing passports/travel documents, marital status, countries of last permanent residence, sex, dates for the various stages of the process and dates for detention (if applicable); and final input to the system will occur via the Refugee Status Advisory Committee (RSAC) Refugee Claim Update Document (IMM 1414). This document is completed only by the RSAC and is used to record the decisions of the Minister's delegate and the special review committee. Records may include names, dates of birth, the decisions of the Minister's delegate and the special review committee on the case, and the dates the decisions took place. Persons seeking access to this information must supply their name, date of birth, and relationship to claimant. This system records information on persons who during the course of the enquiry stage of the enforcement process, have made claims that they are Convention Refugees. The system also records information on those persons who are in Canada with valid visitor status but who have requested that they be considered as Convention Refugees. The short-term purpose of this bank is to reduce the refugee claims backlog to an acceptable level by April 1, 1986. The long-range purposes are to maintain a record of the processing stages where backlogs are likely to occur in the future and to provide information on persons who make refugee claims and their progress through the refugee claim process. The information in this bank may be used by headquarters staff of EIC, the Refugee Status Advisory Committee, Canada Immigration Centres, the special review committee, the Immigration Appeal Board, and the federal courts. It also may be used for internal audit purposes. Manual records are retained at Canada Immigration Centres for up to five years. Magnetic tape and microfilm records are maintained indefinitely at headquarters in Ottawa.

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

The Immigration Group uses an integrated clerical, manual and EDP system to deliver its programs and services. The following sub-systems support the various immigration programs and services. These sub-systems may support several of the information banks already described; the numbers of the corresponding banks are given in all instances. All sub-systems are linked to each other, either by a full computer connection (interface), or by information enabling a physical check of the systems. Therefore, actions in one sub-system can and do effect the smooth running of others. Approximately 25 separate immigration forms, with a total volume of 1,000,000 documents, are processed through these sub-systems each year.

- Immigration Data System Overseas (IDSO) (EDP-1); Immigration Data System Canada (IDSC) (EDP-2): IDSO and IDSC maintain a record of all applications for permanent resident status either at an overseas office or from within Canada. The systems produce information in support of the recruitment and selection function. The data is case-oriented and can only be accessed by providing the case serial number recorded on the landing record. Files, including microfiche records, date back to 1975. Records are kept indefinitely. There are approximately 1,000,000 records on file. (EIC/P-PU-225)
- Landed Immigrant Data System (EDP-3): the Landed Immigrant Data System retains a permanent record of the granting of permanent residence to individuals. Its main purpose is to create an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada and abroad to verify an individual's status in Canada as well as legal proof of residence for citizenship, Old Age Security, Family Allowance, welfare, etc. In addition, information from the system is the sole source for all Commission reports on permanent residents. (EIC/P-PU-230)
- Visitor Data System (EDP-4): the Visitor Data System retains a permanent record of all persons who have been granted permission to enter or remain in Canada for a temporary period either as a visitor, student, temporary worker or permit holder. Its main purpose is to create an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada to verify an individual's status in Canada. In addition, information from this system is the sole source for all Commission reports on visitors and Minister's permit holders. Data to produce the annual report to Parliament on Minister's permits is retained in this system. (EIC/P-PU-285; 290; 295; 300)
- Enforcement Information Index (EII) (EDP-5): (See EIC/P-PU-265 for details.)
- Enforcement Data System (EDS) (EDP-6): (See EIC/P-PU-270 for details.)
- Field Operational Support System (FOSS) (EDP-7): FOSS is designed to extract relevant information from other Immigration sub-systems in order to allow status checks by field offices via computer terminal or microfiche. It is the basic support of the enforcement function. The feeder systems are: Enforcement Information Index (EII); Enforcement Data System (EDS) and Visitor Data System (VIDS). The integrity of FOSS is dependent upon the other sub-systems. FOSS output is available through an on-line terminal system in Canada. A set of microfiche containing EDS and EII cases is also distributed in Canada and abroad. (EIC/P-PU-270)

Immigration and Demographic Analysis
Strategic Policy and Planning

The information collected by telephone includes the following subjects: the place of permanent residence; the size and type of household; the relation with the sponsor; the main help received from the sponsor; the status of the sponsor's permanent residency in Canada; the number of persons sponsored; school attendance and training; the type and length of the course; the results obtained at end of course; knowledge of French and English; present activities; professional status; the relation with employer; the number of simultaneous jobs; type of work (full-time, part-time) and the main reason; profession; economic activity; work status and usual profession in last country of permanent residency; activity in work market during last year; the level of income from work and total income; geographical mobility and main reason; and uses of Canada Employment Centres and of settlement services proposed by immigrant. The data collected on the above subjects will be matched against corresponding administrative data (date of landing in Canada, age, sex, country of birth, citizenship, country of last permanent residency, marital status, family situation; mother tongue, destination in Canada, proposed profession in Canada, education and knowledge of official languages) taken from the "Immigration Visa and Record of Landing" and files kept on landed immigrants by Employment and Immigration Canada. This personal information relates to family class immigrants, aged 18 to 64 years, landed in Canada during the period of April 1981 to March 1984 who had the intention of settling in the metropolitan areas of Montréal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver. The survey is carried out to establish a better data source and, at the same time, prepare a statement of certain aspects of the settlement and integration of family class immigrants in Canada. The data on the number of immigrants sponsored by family class immigrants could be part of the information used to estimate the number of such immigrants expected during a certain period and be included in the "Annual Report on Future Immigration Levels" presented to Parliament. This improved data bank will serve existing administration policies by identifying priority areas where a policy or a program could be beneficial. The information may be used for internal audit purposes. The data will be kept on the files for use during the years following fiscal year 1985-86.

Information in the individual records includes the applicant's first, middle, and surname, date of birth, surname at birth, other surnames formerly used, sex, whether the applicant is a twin, place of birth, father's full name, mother's maiden name; it also shows the social insurance number (SIN) issued or re-issued, marital status, status in Canada, telephone number, mailing address, and may include the name and address of the employer. The microfilm image also shows the date of application and witnesses, when required. All requests for access by individuals must include place and date of birth of the individual and mother's maiden name and be accompanied by the same documentary proof of identity required in submitting an original application for a social insurance number. Particulars of the documentary evidence required can be obtained by contacting any local office of the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission. The SIN program provides for the control and issuance of SINs to Canadian citizens, permanent residents, individuals who are neither Canadian citizens nor permanent residents, and for the confirmation of SIN information for certain government departments. This bank contains a microfilm image of each approved application for issuance of a social insurance number, for issuance of a replacement social insurance number card, or for amendment of social insurance register records. This information is collected for use in the administration of the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Canada Pension Plan Act and the Old Age Security Act. Therefore it is accessible to the federal government officials whose responsibilities lie in those program areas. Its consistent uses may also include internal audit purposes. Exchange of information with Revenue Canada/Taxation and other federal departments is also provided for, both through the Canada Pension

CANADA EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION COMMISSION AND DEPARTMENT OF EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION

Plan Act, (under the Health and Welfare's Family Allowance Act), and the Unemployment Insurance Act. Similarly, special social insurance numbers are issued for immigration and other purposes to persons who are neither Canadian citizens nor permanent residents pursuant to the Unemployment Insurance Regulations in conjunction with the Immigration Act. Therefore, information on the social insurance number register is exchangeable with EIC officials administering the immigration program. Section 126(4) of the Unemployment Insurance Act provides for the use of social insurance register data for the accurate identification of individuals and for the effective use by such individuals of their social insurance cards and numbers. If an authorized enquirer presents data about a SIN holder sufficient to identify that holder on the social insurance registers, on this basis, the Central Index will divulge the holder's SIN to the enquirer. This is known as 'give the SIN' and is extended to employers including some federal and provincial departments. This service is also extended to other government departments, and to organizations in other levels of governments, where the Commission has approved such an exchange with the enquiring organization. Examples are: Department of National Defence (the social insurance number is used as a service number by armed services personnel), Department of Veterans Affairs, Prince Edward Island Medical Care Plan (administration of Health Insurance Plan), Régie des rentes du Québec (administration of the Québec Pension Plan), and Régie de l'assurance-maladie du Québec (administration of the Québec Health Insurance Plan). Moreover, an employer or former employer who has lost contact with an employee and who needs his/her SIN to meet legal requirements, can obtain it through the Central Index. The RCMP may request data from the bank when they are required for the purposes of investigations under the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Canada Pension Plan Act, Family Allowance Act, and the Income Tax Act. Data may also be released to the RCMP to assist it in identifying deceased persons and to inform their next of kin, where the circumstances of death would otherwise make such identification and notification difficult. Finally, the RCMP may request the identity of the person whose social insurance number appears inscribed upon an item of property believed stolen, where it appears that the owner intended his/her SIN to be used this way. The RCMP may also request information from the social insurance registers for the purposes of accurate identification of individuals. Other police forces may request similar information, but only through the RCMP. Data are retained for an indefinite period.

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

National Services uses integrated clerical, manual and electronic data processing systems to deliver EIC's services. The following systems support the administration of the social insurance number program and the Canadian Government Annuities program, which are administered by the group, as well as the Record of Employment (third copy) program.

- Information Systems — Social Insurance Number Registration (EDP-1): these systems support the administration of the social insurance number (SIN) program by maintaining a database of all SINs issued in Canada which is used to validate SIN data, produce reports and micrographics. Information is held on magnetic tape. (EIC/P-PU-390)
- Information Systems — Annuities (EDP-2): these systems support the administration of the Canadian Government Annuities Program, and are used to produce payments; T4 slips for annuity contracts in payment; related financial, actuarial and administrative reports; and a database for contracts not yet in payment. Information is held on magnetic tape. (EIC/P-PU-395)
- Insurance Systems — Control (EDP-3): these systems support the insurance control activities, by using information from the Record of Employment, Report on Hirings, Wage Loss Insurance Program and other EIC control systems to identify fraud and abuse of insurance programs. (EIC/P-PU-385)

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY, MINES AND RESOURCES

Chapter 39

Background

Although the history of the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources is comparatively short, some branches have been in existence for more than a century. The Geological Survey of Canada, founded in 1842 by Sir William Logan, is the oldest scientific organization in Canada. Earth Physics, formerly the Dominion Observatory, dates from 1871 and parts of the Surveys and Mapping Branch were established in 1872.

The Department of Energy, Mines and Resources (EMR) was created in 1966 by the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources Act. Previously known as the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, it took on a new and important role as policy maker in energy development. Since then, the Department has been given a stronger mandate to fulfill its role as the principal federal agency responsible for the discovery, investigation, development and conservation of Canada's mineral and energy resources.

Overall Responsibilities

The department administers three programs: the Energy Program, the Minerals and Earth Sciences Program and the Administration Program. Collectively, the programs of the Department provide a continuum of initiatives directed towards national economic development issues.

The objective of the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources is to promote the discovery, development and efficient use of the country's mineral and energy resources and to broaden the knowledge of Canada's landmass for the benefit of all Canadians. To attain this objective, the Department devises and fosters national policies based on research and data collection in the earth, mineral, and metal sciences; and on policy, economic and social analyses. The Department also carries out an earth sciences program directed toward the conservation and use of the Canadian landmass, and it provides, as a national service, the scientific and technical information generated in this program (such as topographic and geological maps, atlases and remote sensing data) to a wide span of customers across the country.

Access Procedures

Formal requests for personal information under the Privacy Act and complaints and enquiries concerning the administration of the Act within the department should be addressed to

Co-ordinator

Access to Information and Privacy

At the corporate level, the assistant deputy minister of Finance and Administration, through the Access to Information and Privacy Secretariat, directs the implementation of policies and administrative procedures concerning the application of the Act throughout the Department, and will investigate all complaints on issues relative to applications and service to the public. The deputy minister oversees final resolution of any complaints or legal actions concerning the disclosure of information held by the Department.

Classes of Personal Information

Personal information concerning departmental employees and individuals employed under contract is held for personnel and other administrative functions as described under Employee Personal Information Banks.

Most of the personal information held by the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources results from the energy conservation and oil substitution components of the National Energy Program. This information is used to administer and control grants and other financial incentives provided to eligible individuals under the Canadian Home Insulation Program (CHIP) and the Canada Oil Substitution Program (COSP).

Voluntary responses to telephone surveys and written questionnaires received from individuals for the purpose of evaluating the progress and effectiveness of the above and other departmental programs, is also held by the department as indicated in this index.

The Department also holds other personal information voluntarily submitted by individuals in response to surveys and questionnaires relating to departmental scientific, statistical and other publications, as indicated in this index. These responses are used to identify the needs of clients in terms of the adequacy of the contents of the publications, to determine if publications meet the client needs and to ascertain how the information content should be changed or modified to better suit the needs of the clientele.

Some departmental programs and activities result in the accumulation of personal information which is not contained in the personal information banks (PIBs) described in this index. This personal information is stored within subject files where records are not normally retrieved by the name of the individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information consists of: personal opinions and attitudes about a variety of subjects; requests for publications, reports, etc.; enquiries for information of a general nature, enquiries concerning energy, minerals and earth sciences technology. It is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. Retention of this form of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the subject files in which the information is stored. Personal Information Classes (PICs) to identify this type of information have been included.

Explosives Branch

Explosives Safety and Accident Statistics

The purpose of this class is to provide a record of statistics on safety measures in the explosives industry as well as on all accidents related to explosives. The files contain information on the nature of the accident as well as the victim's name, age and address, if applicable. Records are retained for varying periods depending on the accident. Records containing information on serious incidents are retained permanently.

Surveys and Mapping Branch

Crown Canada Lands Survey Contracts

This class contains information related to contracted surveys on Crown Canada Lands, such as Indian reserves, national parks and territorial lands. The data consists of names and addresses of surveyors interested in performing survey work, their proposals based on specifications, cost estimates, technical information on surveys, relevant correspondence, evaluations of surveyors' performance and reports on the quality of the survey. The information is used to enable the execution of necessary surveys to the required standards at the most economical price. The information is also used to compile lists of acceptable surveyors for performing required surveys. Routine records are retained for three years and technical records are assigned a permanent retention period.

Gazetteer of Canada Users' Survey

This class contains information provided to the Department by users of the "Gazetteer of Canada". The data includes the frequency of use of the Gazetteer listings of Canada's geographical names, the preferred format of the Gazetteer, and the content of the Gazetteer, etc. The users' responses are used in tailoring future publications to suit users' needs. Information will be retained for five years.

Energy Conservation and Oil Substitution Branch

Car Mileage Questionnaire

This class contains information provided to the Department by readers of the "Car Mileage Book" who complete its questionnaire. The answers provide data on the number of cars owned by households, the occupation of the chief wage earner in the household, vehicle data such as year of manufacture, make, model, number of cylinders, engine size, serial number and odometer reading. The respondent may also provide information on the number of kilometres driven in the past year, kilometres per litre attained (overall, city and highway driving), whether any cars are used for commuting to work and the commuting distance and time. The information is used to assess the impact of the publication, acquire perceived fuel economy information and compare trends compiled with those of other comparable surveys such as the "Journey to Work" survey compiled by Statistics Canada for Labour Canada. Questionnaires are retained for a period of five years.

Enersave for Home Insulation

This class consists of data obtained from homeowners who submit data to the Enersave for Home Insulation information service in order to know what changes to upgrade the quality of their home's insulation will be effective and worthwhile. The homeowner completes and returns a questionnaire and in return, receives a "personalized" analysis of his/her home, recommendations for improvements, estimates of improvement costs and estimates of potential energy and dollar savings. Data include the date when the house was built, the style, measurements of the perimeters of the house, as well as type of insulation, number of windows and doors, the type of fuel used, the cost of the fuel, and the type of hot water heater used. The questionnaires are retained for two fiscal years and the computer data is retained for five years.

The Garbage Book Questionnaire

This class contains information provided to the Department by readers of the "Garbage Book", who complete its questionnaire. The answers provide data on the comprehension and usefulness of the book, on the application of ways to conserve energy and reduce garbage at home, what results were obtained in applying certain measures and if the book has changed the reader's perception regarding energy, garbage, home and society. Space is provided for personal comments and respondents' ideas on ways of cutting down waste. Questionnaires are retained for a period of five years.

Keeping the Heat In Questionnaire

This class contains information provided to the Department by readers of the book "Keeping the Heat In" who complete its feedback forms. The answers provide data on the comprehension and usefulness of the book. Feedback form 1 provides general comments about the book, and the simplicity and comprehension of the diagrams and instructions provided in the book. Feedback form 2 (to be completed after re-insulation) provides details on where insulation was done, the size and type of dwelling, the amount and type of insulation put in, R-value added, if the work was done by the homeowner or a contractor and the costs. Respondents may provide the name and address of the contractor and a rating of the work performed. Feedback form 3 (to be completed the year following re-insulation) provides data on where and how much insulation was installed, amount and type of insulation before re-insulation, R-value added, whether it was installed by the owner or contractor and the costs, as well as data concerning the type of heating fuel used, the costs before and after re-insulation, the comfort of the house, thermostat setting and any changes that might affect fuel consumption. The information is used to assess the impact of the publication. Questionnaires are retained for a period of five years.

100 Ways to Save Energy and Money at Home Questionnaire

This class contains information provided to the Department by readers of the book "100 Ways to Save Energy and Money at Home" who complete its feedback forms. The answers provide comments about the book such as its usefulness, if it was easy to read and understand, if it was too technical or too simple and if the reader received adequate information on ways to save energy. Readers are asked if they have taken steps to save energy in the home and with what results, whether the book has changed their perception of energy conservation in relation to home and society, how many people read the book and which sections were read. Space is provided for other comments. The information is used to assess the impact of the publication. Questionnaires are retained for a period of five years.

The Billpayers' Guide to Furnace Servicing

This class contains information provided by readers of the book "The Billpayer's Guide to Furnace Servicing", who complete its feedback form. The answers give comments about the book such as its usefulness, if it was easy to read and understand, if it was too technical or too simple, and whether or not the book was used when the service mechanic serviced the furnace, etc. May also contain comments regarding servicing of the furnace — whether any extra services not described in the book were completed, whether the customer was satisfied with the service provided and what the efficiency of the furnace was after servicing. The information is used to assess the impact of the publication. Questionnaires are retained for a period of five years.

Communications Branch

Ongoing Surveys of Public Attitudes Towards the Canadian Energy Situation

This class contains information on Canadian public knowledge, attitudes and behaviour patterns towards the Canadian energy situation. The data is collected under contract using various survey methodologies and is used to support the energy communications programs of the Department. The collection and use of any personal information is confined solely to internal verification and validation of the information by the contractor and all personal information is subsequently destroyed. The Department receives only aggregated statistical data from the contractor. The statistical information is retained for seven years and then transferred to Public Archives for selective retention.

Coal and Alternative Energy Branch

Household Survey of Consumer Attitudes about Solar Water Heating

The main purpose of this survey is to determine solar energy knowledge, attitudes, perceptions about cost, willingness to purchase a solar system, and reasons for and against the use of solar water heating. The data collected is used to decide whether and how the federal government should design policies to encourage Canadian homeowners to invest in, or otherwise acquire, solar water heating systems, and also provides feedback to existing policies and programs in solar energy. The contents include information collected by questionnaire from a nationally representative sample of households in the Atlantic provinces, Québec, Ontario, the Prairie provinces and British Columbia, concerning the present method of space and water heating, the total home energy costs in 1981, the estimated cost of water heating, perceptions of future energy costs and new energy sources, energy conservation and substitution practices and purchases, and house buying intentions.

Management Practices Sector

Survey of Users of Energy, Mines and Resources Scientific and Statistical Output

This class contains information provided by clients using information which is produced by the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources. The data relates to the use, quality, accuracy, timeliness, format, ease of availability of the departmental output and also the impact this output has on the clients' work. The information is used to identify the needs of clients in terms of scientific and statistical information that can be provided by EMR, to determine if these needs are being adequately served by the output and to ascertain how the output should be changed or modified to better suit the needs of the clients. Retention of records is in accordance with the specific components under this class title.

Survey of Users of the Geological Survey of Canada

This class contains information provided by clients of the Geological Survey of Canada (GSC). The data relates to the use, quality, accuracy, timeliness, format, ease of availability of the GSC's output and also the impact this output has on the clients' work. The information is used to identify the needs of clients in terms of geoscientific information that can be provided by the GSC, to determine if these needs are being adequately served by the GSC output and to ascertain how the output should be changed or modified to better suit the needs of the clients. The completed questionnaires are retained for ten years.

Survey of Users of Mineral Development Activity's Scientific and Statistical Publications

This class contains information provided by clients using scientific and statistical publications resulting from the Mineral Development Activity (MDA) of the Minerals Program. The data relates to the use, quality, accuracy, timeliness, format, and ease of availability of this published output and also the impact this output has on the clients' work. The information is used to identify the needs of clients in terms of published scientific and statistical information that can be provided by MDA, to determine if these needs are being adequately served by the output and to ascertain how the output should be changed or modified to better suit the needs of the clients. The completed questionnaires are retained for ten years.

Earth Sciences Sector

Research Agreements Program

This class contains applications for grants submitted to the Department from candidates affiliated with Canadian research institutions. Applications contain information on the description and budget for the proposed project and the applicant's curriculum vitae. The information is used to select and award grants in the natural, physical and social sciences and engineering which can contribute to the department's purpose. The information is also used to compile general statistics of interest to the department with respect to the program as a whole, and not in relation to individual applicants. Accepted applications are destroyed after a period of six fiscal years and those not accepted are destroyed after two fiscal years.

Research and Technology Sector

Federal Energy Research and Development

This class contains data on various federal energy research and development projects. The information consists of details of the research projects, names of companies, consultants and individual university researchers working under contract or receiving grants in the particular research area and the amounts paid. The information is used by the Interdepartmental Panel on Energy Research and Development in the review, planning and allocation of energy research and development priorities and expenditures within the federal government. The data is also used in the preparation of the publication titled "An Inventory of Energy Research and Development Supported by the Government of Canada". The information is stored according to research area.

Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology (CANMET)

Technical Enquiries

This class includes technical enquiries, comments and opinions of individuals corresponding with the Department regarding issues related to energy (coal and alternative energy sources), mining and mineral technology. The information is used for reference purposes regarding any subsequent enquiry by an individual. Correspondence is retained for a minimum of two years.

Enquiries and Comments from the Public

This class covers enquiries, comments and the opinions of individuals corresponding with the Department about various departmental and national issues relating to energy, minerals and earth sciences subjects. The information is used for reference purposes regarding any subsequent enquiry by an individual. Correspondence is retained for a minimum of two years.

Mailing Lists

This class includes correspondence and request cards from individuals regarding departmental mailing lists for publications, maps and charts, reports, catalogues, and indexes. The information is used for amending addresses and to add or delete individual names on mailing lists which are retained permanently. The correspondence and request cards are retained until the mailing list has been amended.

Requests for Publications and General Information

This class covers correspondence from individuals requesting publications and information of a general nature. Requests cover a variety of subjects related to energy, minerals and earth sciences publications, reports, pamphlets, maps, speeches, statements and news releases produced by the Department and available to the public. The information is used for reference purposes concerning any subsequent enquiry concerning lack of receipt of the publication requested and is retained for two years.

STANDARD BANKS

EMR/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: EMR-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Chapter 40

DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT

Background

The Department of the Environment was established by the Government Reorganization Act, 1970-71-72, ch. 42 on June 10, 1971. The Department, also known as Environment Canada, has as its primary duties renewable resources management and the protection of Canada's air, water and land resources. The departmental organization has four principal components: Atmospheric Environment Service; Environmental Conservation Service (inland waters, wildlife and lands); Environmental Protection Service; and the Parks Canada Program. In addition to these four, there is a combined Finance and Administration Service.

The National Battlefields Commission, a separate agency, also reports to the Minister of the Department.

Park Visitor Surveys (New)

This bank contains information on visitors to National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites and Heritage Canals. The information is collected by means of questionnaires or interviews administered to visitors at the time of their entry to or exit from the site. The survey population is made up of visitors to National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites and Heritage Canals during the survey period. The purpose of the bank is to compile a representative sample of visitors to heritage sites. The sample is used to identify a population from which to elicit more detailed profile information on visitors. The profiles of actual visitors are compared with those of target groups within the Canadian public for whom Parks Canada's facilities and programs are designed. The information gathered will be used to contribute to formulating policy, planning and operation decisions related to the development and management of the government's National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites and Heritage Canals. The address of the visitors may be used to link information in this bank with another containing detailed visitor activity and experience information, where the securing of the information is consistent with the purpose for which this information was collected. STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions.

DOE/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: EC-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. EXPORT DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION

EXPORT DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION

Background

The Export Development Corporation was established on October 1, 1969, by the Export Development Act. The Export Development Corporation is an agent of Her Majesty in right of Canada and is a Crown corporation whose shares may be owned only by Canada. It is accountable for its affairs to Parliament through the Secretary of State for External Affairs. Both the Export Development Corporation and its predecessor, the Export Credits Insurance Corporation which commenced operations in 1944, were created to facilitate and develop trade between Canada and other countries.

The Corporation achieves this through a wide range of insurance, guarantee and financing services not normally provided by the public sector.

The Export Development Corporation's services are provided to help Canadian exporters who offer products competitive in price, quality, delivery and service, to compete internationally.

DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Chapter 42

DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Background

The Department of External Affairs was established by an Act of Parliament in 1909 to deal with Canada's relations with other governments within the British Empire and with foreign states. It was placed under the Secretary of State, with an Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs ranking as the permanent deputy head of the Department. In 1912, amending legislation placed External Affairs under the jurisdiction of the Prime Minister where it remained until 1946 when a separate Secretary of State for External Affairs was appointed. In 1981, the foreign operations of the immigration service were brought into the Department. In January 1982, there was a fundamental reorganization to include the foreign trade operation. Since then, two additional cabinet ministers, a Minister for International Trade and a Minister for External Relations have been appointed. The new Department of External Affairs Act came into force on December 7, 1983.

Overall Responsibilities

The Department of External Affairs has the primary responsibility for the promotion and protection of Canada's interests abroad and the conduct of Canada's relations with other countries. Its main functions are (a) to ensure the effective representation of Canada in other countries and to international organizations including close contact, communications and negotiation with other governments and organizations through Canada's extensive network of representatives abroad; (b) to evaluate information about political, economic and other developments likely to affect Canada's interest; (c) to give advice to the government, often in consultation with other departments, on the formulation and implementation of policies and programs with international dimensions; (d) to ensure the co-ordination of the external aspects and application of national policies for export trade promotion, defence and security, development assistance, immigration, and cultural and scientific exchanges; (e) to reflect to peoples abroad the bilingual and multi-cultural character of Canadian society; and (f) to provide protection and assistance to Canadian citizens abroad.

Organization

Department headquarters in Ottawa supervises regional passport offices in Canada and missions abroad bearing different names and performing varying functions. Within Canada, the regional offices of the Department of Regional Industrial Expansion (DRIE) support the export promotion program of the Department.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Department of External Affairs, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific information banks described in this entry. This information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files of the Department, which are described in the Access Register. This information is stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of information is retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter, related departmental activity, the date on which the information was received by the Department and to whom it was addressed.

The personal information contained in these subject files is retained for the same period of time as the related subject information and is disposed of according to the appropriate subject record schedules.

The classes of personal information listed below describe particular classes of records which, because of their nature, are more likely to contain personal information.

Legal Affairs Bureau

The three divisions of the Legal Affairs Bureau handle a number of important functions including multi-lateral legal issues, peace and security law, humanitarian law, economic law, trade agreements, treaties, international law and individual legal and legal-protocol cases. Personal information held by the bureau may include enquiries from Canadian residents seeking advice about international and foreign legal systems, and claims by Canadian citizens for possible support by the Canadian government. Other personal information would relate to specific issues handled by the bureau. Persons seeking access must specify the subject of the enquiry, as well as country and/or city, legal firm, contacts, incidents, dates and circumstances which may have led to the development of a record.

Office of Protocol

The Office of Protocol is responsible for the administration of protocol-related programs of the Department and for the development of policies and procedures which direct the administration of protocol programs. Personal information in this class would pertain to individuals who have participated in, or have been the subject of protocol-related activities within programs such as accreditation and ceremonies, privileges and immunities, government hospitality, protection of foreign representatives and foreign decorations, and awards and honours to Canadians. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident, visits, conference, delegation, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

International Security and Arms Control Bureau

The two divisions in this bureau, the Arms Control and Disarmament Division and the Defence Relations Division, are responsible for the preparation and implementation of departmental policies concerning defence, arms control and disarmament. Personal information may be held by the bureau concerning individuals who have been involved in defence activities with NATO, NORAD, or other international defence or arms control organizations, or in conferences or visits. Personal information might include personal biographies, tours of defence colleges, military travel and training, and nominations of Canadians for positions in international defence organizations concerned with defence or arms control. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident, conference/organization, visits, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in missions abroad.

DEA/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: EA-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employees' files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

FEDERAL BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT BANK

Chapter 44

FEDERAL BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT BANK

Background

The Federal Business Development Bank (FBDB), a Crown corporation, was established by the Federal Business Development Act of 1974 to succeed the Industrial Development Bank (IDB), which was formed in 1944.

While the IDB was primarily concerned with the provision of financial assistance, the Federal Business Development Bank was created to promote and assist in the establishment and development of business enterprises in Canada by providing financial assistance, management counselling, management training, information and advice, with particular consideration to the needs of small businesses. The Bank provides small business enterprises with a single source from which both financing and information suited to their unique requirements may be obtained.

A network of branches across Canada provide the full range of the Bank's services to small businesses located in each branch territory.

STANDARD BANKS

BDB/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: FBDB-P-P10
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

Chapter 45

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

Overall Responsibilities

The Department of Finance is the policy agency primarily responsible for advice to the government on the economic and financial affairs of Canada.

The Department deals with the performance of the Canadian economy in all important aspects — the growth and the sharing of output, employment and income, the stability of prices and the long-term development of the country. It is concerned with the harmony of all initiatives of federal departments or agencies which have important impacts on the economy. The Department of Finance is vitally concerned with trade and monetary affairs and other international forces bearing on Canada's domestic performance. The Department works constantly toward improved co-ordination of economic action between provincial governments and the Government of Canada.

This broad horizon of interest finds expression in the budget speech by the Minister of Finance. This core document of government policy plays a traditional role in reviewing the government's accounts and in making proposals with respect to both expenditures and revenues. In recent years, it has also provided an authoritative review of past, present and future economic factors affecting business and the nation's finances.

The Department analyzes and appraises the economic situation and prospects in Canada, and in other countries of interest to Canada; advises on fiscal and other economic policies and measures; recommends measures to meet the requirements of the government within appropriate fiscal policies, by action in expenditure, lending, taxation, borrowing and cash management; advises on matters concerning the balance of payments, exchange reserves, international monetary and financial arrangements, coinage and related matters; participates in international negotiations and other meetings related to trade, finance, taxation, economic development and other subjects, and makes contributions to international financial institutions; advises on policies relating to federal-provincial fiscal and economic relations, carries on discussions with provincial authorities and administers the various statutory payments to provincial governments; administers statutes relating to guaranteed loans, the capital budgets and financing of Crown corporations and agencies.

Organization

The Department has eight branches: Fiscal Policy and Economic Analysis; Tax Policy and Legislation; Federal-Provincial Relations and Social Policy; International Trade and Finance; Economic Programs and Government Finance; Consultations and Communications Branch; Financial Sector Policy and Administration. Each of the first seven has divisions responsible for specific policy subjects.

The Minister of Finance also reports to Parliament on the activities of the Bank of Canada, the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board, the Department of Insurance, the Inspector General of Banks and the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation.

As well, the Minister has charge of the management and direction of the Consolidated Revenue Fund and the direction of all financial affairs of Canada not assigned by law to any other minister.

STANDARD BANKS

FIN/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: FIN-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above. Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Chapter 46

DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES AND OCEANS

Overall Responsibilities

The Department of Fisheries and Oceans has as its primary duty the promotion and undertaking of programs designed to improve the management and sustained economic utilization of the marine and aquatic renewable resources of the nation. The departmental organization has two principal components: Fisheries Management, and Ocean Science and Surveys.

Fisheries Management is responsible for the conservation and development of the fisheries and their associated economic implications; for the promotion, assistance and conduct of research relating to the environmental, economic and social aspects of commercial and recreational fisheries and fishermen; for the operation of small craft harbours; and for the negotiation of international arrangements governing fisheries operations.

Ocean Science and Surveys is responsible for the conduct of a research program in physical, chemical and biological oceanography and limnology; for the provision of adequate, related data services to meet national and international requirements; for the promotion and support of international co-operation on the study and use of the ocean seabed and resources thereof; for the conduct of hydrographic surveys directed towards the production of navigation, resource and recreational charts; and for the systematic development and provision of knowledge of the marine environment.

Prices Support Programs

The Fisheries Prices Support Board is authorized from time to time to make deficiency payments to fishermen on specific species. When programs are approved, fishermen are invited to complete an application form requesting deficiency payments on the approved species. Application forms include: name, address, social insurance number, sealing licence number of each applicant and the volume and value of the approved species sold during a given period. Currently there are no approved programs for species other than seal. This information is compiled to make deficiency payments on seal pelts because of depressed market prices for seal skins. The retention and disposal standards are to be established.

Fish Health Officials

The bank contains personal files with information submitted in support of applications for recognition as Fish Health Officials under the Fish Health Protection Regulations. Applicants include federal and provincial government employees as well as persons in the private sector in Canada, and from other countries. The bank also contains lists with names, addresses, and specimen signatures of Fish Health Officials. Based on the information provided by individuals, and personal references obtained from third parties, decisions are made whether to accept or reject applicants requesting recognition as Fish Health Officials. Lists of recognized Fish Health Officials are prepared, with specimen signatures. Lists with individual specimen signatures of Fish Health Officials are sent to Local Fish Health Officers (LFHO's) who administer the Fish Health Protection Regulations in each province/region of Canada. LFHO's use the lists to verify signatures on Fish Health Certificates that are required before import permits can be issued for importation or transfer between provinces of cultured salmonid fish. The bank relates to professionals with specific education and experience in fish disease diagnostics.

Personal files of Fish Health Officials (FHO's) and master copies of lists of FHO's will be held in a central registry in the Fisheries Research Directorate. FHO files will be destroyed five years after cancellation as an FHO.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions:

DFO/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: F&O-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employees files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

FOREIGN INVESTMENT REVIEW AGENCY

Chapter 47

FOREIGN INVESTMENT REVIEW AGENCY

Background

The Foreign Investment Review Agency (FIRA) was established in 1974 to advise and assist the Minister responsible for the administration of the Foreign Investment Review Act. The Act came into force in two phases: Phase I in 1974 and Phase II in 1975. Phase I covered the acquisition of control of Canadian business enterprises by foreign individuals, corporations, governments or groups containing foreign members; Phase II extended the application of the Act to the establishment of new businesses in Canada, either by foreign persons who do not already have a business in Canada, or by foreign persons who already have an established business in Canada, if the new business is unrelated to established business. The Agency advises and assists the Minister responsible for FIRA who recommends final decisions to the Governor-in-Council, who then decides whether proposed foreign investments will be allowed or disallowed.

PERSONAL INFORMATION BANKS — FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

STANDARD BANKS

FIR/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: FIRA-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Agency employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Agency employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Agency employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Agency employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

GREAT LAKES PILOTAGE AUTHORITY, LIMITED

Chapter 48

GREAT LAKES PILOTAGE AUTHORITY, LIMITED

Background

As a result of recommendations made by a Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed in force February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four Pilotage Authorities — Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific — are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Limited was established and incorporated in 1972 as a subsidiary of The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. It is Schedule "C", Part I Crown corporation within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The role and objectives of the Authority are to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries; all waters in the Province of Québec south of the northern entrance to St. Lambert Lock and all Canadian waters in and around the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba. (Pilotage in the international waters within the boundaries is shared with United States of America Pilot Corporations, which are under the direction of the United States Coast Guard, as agreed under a memorandum of arrangements between Canada and the United States.) Further, the Authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are to be fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

The Authority's head office is located in Cornwall, Ontario. The Eastern District Operations office is located at the headquarters in Cornwall, Ontario and the Western District Operations office is located in St. Catharines, Ontario. All management services (administrative, personnel, financial, procurement) are provided by the head office in Cornwall, Ontario.

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. IMMIGRATION APPEAL BOARD

IMMIGRATION APPEAL BOARD

Background

The Immigration Appeal Board is an independent court established under the Immigration Act, 1976, to hear appeals made under the Act, and to consider the redetermination of claim to United Nations Convention Refugee Status. Under the Act, the Board consists of not less than seven and not more than 18 members who are appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The present Board consists of the Chairman, five vice-chairmen and 11 other members. A quorum of the Board is not less than three members, one of whom must be the Chairman or vice-chairman.

Organization

Headquartered in Ottawa, the Board has permanent regional courts in Ottawa (the National Capital Region), Montréal (Québec and the Maritimes), Toronto (Ontario) and the Vancouver (British Columbia and the Yukon). A permanent registry office is located in Winnipeg and serves the Prairies and Western Canada. The Board travels to other cities in Canada as the volume of cases warrants.

The Board is supported by an Operations Branch (Secretariat) with three regional offices.

The Board hears appeals made by permanent residents of Canada or Convention Refugees who have been ordered deported; persons holding a valid visa who are refused entry into Canada; the Minister of Employment and Immigration when he or she is not satisfied with a decision of an adjudicator which allows a person to remain in or enter Canada; Canadian citizens who have sponsored an application for landing in Canada by a member of the family class which has been refused.

Persons who have made a claim to be a Convention Refugee within the meaning of the UN Convention relating to the Status of Refugees, and whose claim has been refused by the Minister of Employment and Immigration, may apply to the Board for a redetermination of that claim.

The Board is a court of record and appeals; applications and related proceedings are heard in open court except where, at the request of one of the parties to an action, the Board in its discretion directs that the proceedings shall be in camera.

The Minister of Employment and Immigration is a party to all proceedings before the Board.

In making its decisions, the Board is bound by the legislation and the ensemble of Canadian immigration jurisprudence and relevant decisions and interpretations of higher courts; its proceedings are governed by rules of procedure and it has the powers, rights and privileges of a superior court of record.

Hearings are open to the public. The record of any proceeding before the Board is public information and access is provided by the registrar on request (except in the very few cases where the proceedings are in camera).

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

DEPARTMENT OF INDIAN AFFAIRS AND NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT

Chapter 50

DEPARTMENT OF INDIAN AFFAIRS AND NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT

Overall Responsibilities

The Department was established under Section 15 of the Government Organization Act, 1966, now the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development Act (RSC 1970 c. 1-7, as amended). The Department is, in effect, an amalgamation of the responsibilities of the then Department of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources, and the then Department of Citizenship and Immigration pertaining to Indian people in Canada.

The federal government's legislative responsibilities for Indian and Inuit derive from Section 91 (24) of the Constitution Act (1867) which gives the federal government the exclusive authority to pass laws relating to "Indians, and lands reserved for Indians". On the basis of this authority, the Indian Act, which remains the major expression of federal jurisdiction in this area, was passed and a series of treaties was concluded between Canada and various Indian Bands across the country. Federal jurisdiction for Indian people under the B.N.A. Act was subsequently (in 1939) interpreted by the courts to apply to Inuit as well.

The major pieces of legislation for which the Minister is responsible include the Indian Act; the James Bay and Northern Québec Native Claims Settlement Act; the Indian Oil and Gas Act; the Yukon Act; the Northwest Territories Act; the Land Titles Act; the Public Lands Grant Act; the Canada Land Surveys Act Part III; the Territorial Lands Act; the Northern Inland Waters Act; the Northern Flood Agreement; the Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act; the Dominion Water Power Act; the Oil and Gas Production and Conservation Act; the Yukon Placer Mining Act; the Yukon Quartz Mining Act; the Northern Canada Power Commission Act; the Alberta Natural Resources Act; British Columbia Indian Reserves Mineral Resources Act; Canada Oil and Gas Act; the Caughnawaga Indian Reserve Act; the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development Act; Fort Nelson Indian Reserve Minerals Revenue Sharing Act; the Indian Lands (Settlement of Differences) Act; Indian (Soldier Settlement) Act; Lac Seul Conservation Act; the Lake of the Woods Control Board Act; the Manitoba Natural Resources Act; the Manitoba Supplementary Provisions Act; the New Brunswick Indian Reserves Agreement Act; the Nova Scotia Indian Reserves Agreement Act; the Railway Belt Act; the Railway Belt and Peace River Blood Act; the Railway Belt Water Act; the Refunds (Natural Resources) Act; the St. Peters Indian Reserve Act; St. Regis Indian Reservation Act; the Saskatchewan and Alberta Roads Act; the Saskatchewan Natural Resources Act; The Songhees Indian Reserve Act; and various appropriation Acts, such as the Northern Mineral Exploration Assistance Regulations and Prospector's Assistance Terms and Conditions Orders.

Within this legislative framework, the Department has a number of interlocking responsibilities and objectives: to initiate, encourage and support measures that will respond to the needs and aspirations of Indian people and Inuit, and that will improve their social, cultural and economic well-being; to encourage the orderly economic and political development of the Northwest and Yukon Territories, and to co-ordinate all federal activities in the two territories; to ensure that lawful obligations to Indian people are met and to settle native claims relating to traditional native use and occupancy of land in those areas of Canada where this traditional use has not been extinguished by treaty or superseded by law.

Organization

The organizational structure of the Department is divided into five operative program areas, each headed by an assistant deputy minister: Indian and Inuit Affairs; Northern Affairs; Office of Native Claims; Finance and Administration (including Personnel Services); and Corporate Policy.

Access Procedures

The Department encourages requestors to utilize the present lines of communication and to request personal information through informal channels. The intent is to make available as much information as possible through informal channels. Therefore enquiries for personal information should be made directly, where possible, to the departmental office having control of the record(s) concerned. For further information contact the departmental or regional co-ordinator.

If the formal access route is used, requestors should complete a Request for Access to Records Form available at national, regional and district offices. The completed form should be forwarded to the Regional Privacy Co-ordinator for your area for national or regional data banks, and to headquarters for data banks which are only located at headquarters. If you have any problems in identifying the location, the application should be forwarded to the departmental Privacy Co-ordinator.

STANDARD BANKS

INA/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: INA-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

DEPARTMENT OF INDIAN AFFAIRS AND NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 001217

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is

Employee Assistance

Description: This bank contains confidential information relative to an employee's involvement in an Employee Assistance Program (EAP); notice of voluntary or mandatory (supervisory work-performance related) referral; records of reference to, or reports and correspondence from a health professional or rehabilitation agency; and only non-medical interpretations concerning an employee's work capability or limitations. All personal medical data shall be maintained in a medical confidential status under the control of the Medical Services Branch, National Health and Welfare. Records relating to work performance deficiencies, absenteeism and disciplinary matters are to be held in the appropriate institutional personal information bank and not held with EAP files.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary to the administration of the Employee Assistance Program. To determine the need for employee assistance counselling, referrals for medical evaluations and participation in rehabilitation programs.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions regarding employee assistance measures.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years following the date of the most recent reference to employee assistance, after which the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

Chapter 51

DEPARTMENT OF INSURANCE

Overall Responsibilities

The Department of Insurance is responsible for the supervision of federally registered or licensed insurance, trust, loan and investment companies, fraternal benefit societies and co-operative credit societies. It also supervises employer-sponsored pension plans that are subject to the Pension Benefits Standards Act.

The Department is responsible for provision of actuarial advice to other departments of the federal government and performs extensive actuarial services in the valuation of government pension and insurance programs.

The Department is also responsible for administration of the Civil Service Insurance Act and the collection of certain premium taxes pursuant to Part I of the Excise Tax Act.

Classes of Personal Information

Practically all records held by the Department consist of information relating to supervised financial institutions and pension plans. Some personal information may also be accumulated by the Department in the course of conducting its supervisory function, such as information on names and functions of various company officials, information on individuals seeking to incorporate a new company that would be supervised by the Department, or information about a policy holder with a complaint against a supervised company. Such personal information is stored as part of the general subject files where records are not retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the company, the individual, and the particular circumstances involved. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Part I of the Excise Tax Act imposes a tax on certain property and casualty insurance premiums related to insurance, placed by residents of Canada with unauthorized insurers or with authorized insurers through brokers outside Canada. In carrying out administration of Part I of the Act, some personal information may be accumulated which is not part of the specific personal information bank described in this entry. Most of the insured subject to the tax are corporations, but for any given year there may also be some individuals subject to tax. The personal information accumulated with respect to such individuals would be information related to insurance premiums subject to tax, such as policy number, description of risk, net premiums and name of insurer. The information is normally retrievable if the name of the individual and the year involved are provided.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters.

INS/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: INS-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks.

DEPARTMENT OF INSURANCE

The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

INS/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: INS-S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Overall Responsibilities

The Department of Justice was created by the Department of Justice Act, passed at the first session of Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, and assented to on May 22, 1868. This Act outlined the responsibilities of the Minister of Justice and the Attorney General of Canada and, with a few exceptions, these responsibilities have remained substantially unchanged since the Act was first passed.

The work of the Department consists of litigation, provision of legal advice and opinions to the federal government of Canada on a very wide range of matters, and the drafting of legislation, contracts and other legal documents. The Department is also concerned with the legal aspects of developing government policy, and prepares recommendations or reviews recommendations, for reform of the law. To carry out these responsibilities, the Department uses federal Statutes and Regulations.

In addition, contributions are made to provide financial assistance to organizations conducting studies and legal research and to other law-related programs. A limited number of grants is made in connection with legal education, and cost-sharing agreements are entered into with provincial governments in connection with compensation of victims of violent crimes, Legal Aid in criminal cases, unified family court pilot projects, and native courtworker programs.

The role of the Federal Department of Justice does not include the provision of legal services or advice to members of the public.

Access Procedures

Enquiries and requests for access to personal information held in Department of Justice records should be addressed to

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions.

LAB/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: LAB-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks.

This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 000460

LAB/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: LAB-S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employees files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market.

The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

LAURENTIAN PILOTAGE AUTHORITY

Chapter 55

LAURENTIAN PILOTAGE AUTHORITY

Background

As a result of recommendations made by a Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed in force February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four Pilotage Authorities — Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific — are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Laurentian Pilotage Authority, a Crown corporation, was established on June 30, 1971, and became effective as of February 1, 1972, governed by the Pilotage Act and Regulations. For the purpose of the Financial Administration Act, the Authority is a corporation specified in Schedule "C" of that Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The objects of the Authority are to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient pilotage service within the region.

The Chairman is the Authority's chief executive officer. The other permanent member is the vice-chairman. The board is composed of a maximum of seven members, appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The head office is located in Montréal.

LAW REFORM COMMISSION OF CANADA

Chapter 56

LAW REFORM COMMISSION OF CANADA

Background

The Law Reform Commission of Canada was established by an Act of Parliament that came into force on June 1, 1971.

The objectives of the Commission are to study and review, on a continuing and systematic basis, the statutes and other laws comprising the laws of Canada with a view to making recommendations for reform, including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing:

- the removal of anachronisms and anomalies in the law;
- the reflection in and by the law of the distinctive concepts and institutions of both the common law and civil law legal systems in Canada, and the reconciliation of differences and discrepancies in the expression and application of the law arising out of differences in these concepts and institutions;
- the elimination of obsolete laws; and
- the development of new approaches to and new concepts of the law in keeping with the changing needs of modern Canadian society and of individual members of that society.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the Law Reform Commission of Canada research programs on a variety of legal research topics, personal information may be accumulated that is not contained in a specific personal information bank. Such personal information includes suggestions and opinions from the public, which form part of a specific subject file. These records are used for statistical analysis and are not normally retrieved by name of individual. These records can only be retrieved by providing information on specific subjects. This bank contains information on 131 legal research subjects. The retention periods for information in this class of records are covered by retention schedules associated with each subject file.

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

MEDICAL RESEARCH COUNCIL

Chapter 57

Background

The Medical Research Council of Canada is a corporation established by the Medical Research Council Act. Its objective as stated in the Act is to help attain the quality and scale of research in the health sciences essential to the maintenance and improvement of health services. To this end the Council has established a number of types of grants (to support research), awards (to support individuals) and special programs for which individuals may make applications for consideration in peer-reviewed competitions. The personal information in the banks in this chapter consists mainly of assessments of applications obtained by the Council in the peer review process. For grants and special programs, access to this personal information is automatic, that is, copies of all review reports are sent to the applicant along with notification of the Council's decision. For awards, access is available on request, either informally, by letter, or by submission of the Privacy Access Request Form to the Privacy Co-ordinator.

Classes of Personal Information

Administration

The general administrative and correspondence files of the Medical Research Council contain a certain amount of personal information not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. Such personal information includes suggestions and opinions from the general public which form part of a specific subject file. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject are provided. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Reports and Surveys

For purposes of program planning and evaluation, the Council requires a variety of reports concerning aspects of medical research in Canada. The reports themselves, published or unpublished, do not contain personal information about individuals. In the process of preparing such a report, personal information is necessarily obtained. This may include current academic position, professional qualifications of individuals, nature of research being undertaken by individuals and present and past funding of an individual's research. This information is not used for administrative purposes and is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the study or report involved. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

NATIONAL CAPITAL COMMISSION

Chapter 59

Background

The National Capital Commission (NCC) was created in 1959 to succeed the Federal District Commission (1927-1958) and the Ottawa Improvement Commission (1899-1927).

The NCC carries out its mandate under authority of the National Capital Act, 1958, c37, S.1. The objectives and purposes of the NCC are to prepare plans for, and assist in the development, conservation and improvement of the National Capital Region, in order that the nature and character of the seat of the Government of Canada may be in accordance with its national significance.

Classes of Personal Information

The National Capital Commission as a whole is involved in activities which tend to generate public response in one form or another. As a result, personal information may be accumulated which is not contained in specific NCC banks listed in this index.

Such personal information may consist of compliments, complaints, suggestions, opinions, proposals, agreements, permits and permissions and may include name, address, telephone number and, in some cases, marital status, age and employment.

This form of personal information is stored throughout the general subject files and is not normally retrievable by name or other personal identifier. It can be located only if specific and sufficient details are provided concerning the event or activity of interest such as:

- acquisition, development, management, and disposal of properties;
- planning, construction, maintenance and operation of roads, bridges, parks, pathways and other works;
- joint projects with municipalities;

NATIONAL CAPITAL COMMISSION

- construction and operation of concessions;
- grants and subsidies;
- historical sites and buildings;
- plans for federal elements in the National Capital Region;
- public cultural and recreational activities;
- tours and services for visitors;
- promotion of national understanding and awareness of the National Capital of Canada;
- violation of laws and regulations.

STANDARD BANKS

NCC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: NCC-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 000814

NCC/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: NCC-S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed to the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Description: This bank contains personal data including course applications and evaluations; social insurance number; examination results and certificates; records of fee payments; and correspondence related to participation of employees in training and development activities, sponsored both by the government and operated by private organizations. It should be noted that participation and achievement records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record and that information on an employee's needs for individual development related to performance is contained in the Performance Reviews and Employee Appraisals Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of training and development programs within government institutions.

Consistent Uses: To approve and register the participation of employees in training and development activities and to certify the achievements of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after completion of the particular training and development undertaken by an employee. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 000816

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

STANDARD BANKS

DND/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: ND-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of 70, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Classes of Personal Information

Office of the Secretary Files

In the course of its programs and activities the National Energy Board may accumulate personal information which is not contained in the specific personal information banks listed in this entry. Such information may include an individual's name, address, telephone number, or opinion on a specific matter. These data are stored as part of the general subject files and the records are not normally retrievable by the name of the individual or other identifier.

Such personal information is provided by individuals in requesting publications, general information, funds for projects they are conducting, or in providing their comments or opinions on various topics.

To retrieve this type of personal information, the enquirer must state the specific subject matter of the correspondence, the name of the person, and the approximate date on which the correspondence was forwarded to the Board.

The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

NATIONAL ENERGY BOARD

PERSONAL INFORMATION BANKS — FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

The following banks are located at headquarters. Formal requests under the Privacy Act should be directed to the address given above. For informal requests, contact the Director of the Personnel Branch for all banks except NEB/P-SE-913 (Director, Finance Branch) and NEB/P-SE-914 (Assistant Director, Administrative Support Services).

STANDARD BANKS

NEB/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: NEB-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Staffing

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

NEB/P-SE-903 Formerly Identified as: NEB-S-3

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

NEB/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: NEB-S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed to the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Training and Development

Description: This bank contains personal data including course applications and evaluations; social insurance number; examination results and certificates; records of fee payments; and correspondence related to participation of employees in training and development activities, sponsored both by the government and operated by private organizations. It should be noted that participation and achievement records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record and that information on an employee's needs for individual development related to performance is contained in the Performance Reviews and Employee Appraisals Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of training and development programs within government institutions.

Consistent Uses: To approve and register the participation of employees in training and development activities and to certify the achievements of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after completion of the particular training and development undertaken by an employee. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 000756

NEB/P-SE-906 Formerly Identified as: NEB-S-6

Official Languages

Description: This bank contains course enrollment and attendance information; language training applications containing basic personal data, such as first official language, date of birth, and social insurance number for purposes of identification; language knowledge examination scores; training certificates and correspondence about the official languages qualifications of employees. The bank may also contain duplicate input forms for the Official Languages Information System (OLIS) and the Language Training Module (LTM).

Language examination, exemption and training records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Similar data is also held in Particular Banks of the Public Service Commission and Treasury Board Secretariat.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for administration of official languages policies as they pertain to employees of the federal Public Service, to document and support decisions pertaining to official languages qualifications and language testing and to document the language training needs and accomplishments of employees.

Consistent Uses: To support and document decisions concerning individual employees on staffing, entitlement to bilingual bonus, transfers and promotions; and to aid in determining the linguistic status of employees and auditing of the administration of official language programs.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last documentation the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Occupational Health and Safety

Description: The bank contains accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and copies of the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, which are retained by institutions in the appropriate responsibility centre. First Aid Treatment records are also retained by the institution in accordance with Treasury Board policy. Records, including medical documents about individuals; claims for compensation; related correspondence and records of monies paid are held by Labour Canada. Records of occupational health evaluations and all personal medical data are retained by the Medical Services Branch, Health and Welfare Canada under medical confidential status. Records concerning the occurrence, investigation and settlement of vehicle accidents are retained in Standard Bank P-SE-908.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of occupational health and safety programs in government institutions, including accident prevention, health protection and authorization of leave and benefits associated with work-related injury or illness. Safety and health details and causes of accidents/ injuries for accident prevention and health protection purposes are also recorded to support the effective administration of each institution's health and safety program.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions relating to worker's compensation and injury-on-duty leave; to act as a means of preventing injuries and illnesses and subsequent disabilities arising out of, or aggravated by, conditions of work; to establish that individuals subject to certain identified occupational risks are able to continue working without detriment to their health or safety or to that of others; and to establish the conditions under which certain individuals with identified illnesses or disabilities are able to continue to work under controlled conditions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years for first aid treatment records; ten years for accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, after which the records are destroyed. Records held by Labour Canada and Health and Welfare Canada are retained for the periods specified in the relevant bank descriptions. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

NATIONAL FILM BOARD

Chapter 63

Background

The National Film Board (NFB) was established by an Act of Parliament on May 2, 1939, and revised in 1950. The NFB reports to the Minister of Communications. Its mandate is to produce and distribute Canadian film and video, as well as to promote their production and distribution.

Overall Responsibilities

The NFB's purpose is to make films which are distinctively Canadian. These films reflect the bilingual, multi-cultural and regional realities of this country and answer the social and cultural needs of its citizens. NFB productions are distributed on film and videocassette and are available through Canadian theatres, library collections and its own audio-visual centres. Across the country, NFB films are seen on broadcast and specialized television. The NFB also operates an International Commercial Service to sell and market its films abroad. Films are available through NFB offices or Canadian diplomatic spots abroad in 80 countries.

NFB films are produced by distinct English and French program branches which are also responsible for marketing their films to their respective English and French audiences. In the early 1970's NFB production began to decentralize its production studios and the ensuing years have seen production studios developed in Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Moncton, and Halifax, as well as in Montréal. There is a permanent creative staff in Montréal, though a large proportion of NFB films are made by freelance independent filmmakers. The NFB is a totally integrated production house. The average annual production of the NFB is approximately 100 original films and 50 versions and adaptations of existing films. The NFB produces versions of its films in up to 60 different languages for foreign distribution. The Technical Services Division also undertakes advanced technical research and development to further the art and technology of film and video.

The NFB also has a mandate to play an active role in training people in all aspects of filmmaking.

Organization

The board of trustees of the National Film Board is composed of the Canadian Government Film Commissioner — who is both the chairperson and chief executive officer of the NFB — and eight other members appointed by the Governor-in-Council, three of whom are selected from the Public Service of Canada or the Canadian Armed Forces and five from the public at large. The NFB is managed by the commissioner and by the directors of the English Programming Branch; the French Programming Branch; the Services Division; the Administration, Finance and Personnel Division; the Planning Directorate; and Communication Services.

The head office of the NFB is in Ottawa, while its operational headquarters are located in Montréal.

PERSONAL INFORMATION BANKS — FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

STANDARD BANKS

NFB/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: NFB-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

NFB/P-SE-907 Formerly Identified as: NFB-S-7

Occupational Health and Safety

Description: The bank contains accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and copies of the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, which are retained by institutions in the appropriate responsibility centre. First Aid Treatment records are also retained by the institution in accordance with Treasury Board policy. Records, including medical documents about individuals; claims for compensation; related correspondence and records of monies paid are held by Labour Canada. Records of occupational health evaluations and all personal medical data are retained by the Medical Services Branch, Health and Welfare Canada under medical confidential status. Records concerning the occurrence, investigation and settlement of vehicle accidents are retained in Standard Bank P-SE-908.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of occupational health and safety programs in government institutions, including accident prevention, health protection and authorization of leave and benefits associated with work-related injury or illness. Safety and health details and causes of accidents/injuries for accident prevention and health protection purposes are also recorded to support the effective administration of each institution's health and safety program.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions relating to worker's compensation and injury-on-duty leave; to act as a means of preventing injuries and illnesses and subsequent disabilities arising out of, or aggravated by, conditions of work; to establish that individuals subject to certain identified occupational risks are able to continue working without detriment to their health or safety or to that of others; and to establish the conditions under which certain individuals with identified illnesses or disabilities are able to continue to work under controlled conditions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years for first aid treatment records; ten years for accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, after which the records are destroyed. Records held by Labour Canada and Health and Welfare Canada are retained for the periods specified in the relevant bank descriptions. PAC# = 85-001

Security Clearances

Description: This bank contains completed personal histories; summaries of Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) (previously, RCMP Security Service) investigations; fingerprint cards; criminal histories; social insurance number; security briefings and correspondence related to the security clearances of employees. Notation of level of clearance may be attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Details of CSIS investigations are maintained in a CSIS bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information pertinent to the determination of the appropriate level of security clearance for government employees whose position requires a security classification; to determine the level of security clearance and to provide information for the administration of government security measures. In making decisions on levels of clearance, institutions may refer only to the information contained in this bank and not to investigative information contained in the CSIS bank.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfers, promotions, discipline and termination of employment.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after an employee leaves the institution for which the clearance was done, after which the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Technical Support Files

This bank records the levels of various heavy metals in blood, hair, urine, and so on of individuals exposed. Data content includes test results for a wide variety of environmental and occupational hazards such as dust, mercury, cadmium, arsenic and lead. Exposed native populations and federal government employees are identified. The bank is used to monitor the health of and keep records for exposed individuals. Information is retained for ten years. Enquiries from native persons should provide a band number, if applicable; and all enquirers involved in contaminant studies should provide their date of birth, community where resident and community where tested.

Immigration Medical Records

This information bank includes chest X-rays for TB screening; original records of medical examination findings for determining medical admissibility of a prospective immigrant; reports concerning medical examinations, medical history and hospital admissions; cumulative records of totals by month and year of number of persons examined; and a summary of examination results. The bank is used to determine the medical status of immigrants. Otherwise, its use is restricted to providing the person's physician with supportive individual records in the bank, with the person's consent, and to providing information to any level of government in the interest of Canadian public health. Persons who were given the immigration medical outside Canada, or in Saskatchewan, or in the Ottawa-Hull area should address enquiries to the Regional Director, Overseas and National Capital Region; all others to the Regional Director nearest to the place where they were medically examined. The date (as accurate as possible) and place of the immigration medical examination should be provided as well as the location of the Canadian Immigration Office that issued the visa. Records are retained according to the various assessment categories.

Indian Health

NHW/P-PU-015 Formerly Identified as: HWC-P30
Federal Hospital Files

The Department operates several hospitals in Canada to provide direct hospital care for the Indian and Inuit population of Canada as well as for the population in the north. Each hospital maintains a medical records department responsible for the collective records maintained on patients of the hospital. Records may be used, as well, for epidemiological studies. The patient file includes admission and separation records, medical history, lab., X-ray, and other diagnostic services, requisitions and reports, doctor's orders, nursing notes, accounting statements, operating room reports, social services, pharmacy, and other patient treatment and services records. The records are accessible through the hospital administration or superintendent. Records are retained for 25 years after the last entry in the file, provided that before such records are destroyed, a case summary will be made and retained for two years after death. The name and date, and location of the hospital where treatment was given are to be provided on the Record Access Request Form. Information is exchanged with provincial health facilities, provincial medical insurance plans, and municipal and provincial health and welfare agencies.

preventive nursing services to the local Indian and Inuit population and others. Their patient records identify their patients and provide basic reporting on the medical reason for receiving care and the nursing care procedures provided. There are over 200 such facilities in Canada. Records are retained for 25 years after the last entry on the file, provided that before such records are destroyed, a case summary is made and retained for two years after death. Record Access Request Forms should include identification of the nursing station or health centre, and date when treatment was received. Information is exchanged with provincial health facilities, provincial medical insurance plans, and municipal and provincial health and welfare agencies.

Prosthetic Medical Records

The Department operates eight prosthetic services centres in Canada to provide direct prosthetic-orthotic rehabilitation services to the population of Canada. This bank contains the medical records of patients receiving prosthetic-orthotic services from these centres. Each centre maintains a patient's record identifying the patient, notes on patient's medical history, physicians' prescriptions, services and appliances provided, and progress notes on patients. The primary use is to maintain information on the prosthetic-orthotic condition of the patient. Persons seeking access should indicate the location of the departmental centre at which they first received service. The files are kept indefinitely during the patient's lifetime, or until such time as the service is transferred to provincial control.

Environmental and Occupational Chemical Exposures

This bank consists of information on the health effects of exposure to hazardous chemicals and what precautions to take in dealing with them. Records are kept on an individual basis and include personal identifying information and results of appropriate biological tests. The data are collected from populations exposed to or suspected of being exposed to chemicals of a toxic, carcinogenic, or otherwise hazardous nature (e.g., pesticide workers, female workers, pregnant workers in metallurgical industries, urban populations and smokers). Records include returned questionnaires and the results of medical examinations, blood and urine tests, pulmonary function tests and nerve conduction tests. The information in this bank is used to increase individual awareness of exposure risks and precautionary measures, to increase employer awareness of risks and improvements for health and safety programs, and to indicate to the government current exposure risks and needs for future research and standard setting. Information is retained for five years after completion of the study.

NHW/P-PU-050 Formerly Identified as: HWC-P140 Practitioner and Pharmacist Files

This bank contains information concerning the prescription, utilization and distribution of narcotic and controlled drugs by practitioners and pharmacists. It is used in connection with drug control programs to ensure that narcotic and controlled drugs are used for legitimate medical purposes and are not diverted to illicit avenues; and it contains reports prepared by Drugs Directorate inspectors and enforcement agencies concerning the misuse and abuse of drugs by health professionals, and investigations with respect to such diversion. It is also used as a basis to make decisions concerning notifications to pharmacists and licensed narcotic and controlled drug dealers not to supply narcotic and/or controlled drugs on the strength of orders issued by certain pharmacists and orders and prescriptions issued by certain practitioners. It also serves as a basis for decisions concerning prosecution action relating to health professionals. Practitioner files are retained for two years after death; if retired or lapsed registration, for five years with no history of drug-related problems, and for ten years with a history of drug-related problems. Pharmacist files are retained for two years after death; if currently registered, for five years after last correspondence; if retired or lapsed registration, for ten years after last date of correspondence or registration.

NHW/P-PU-055 Formerly Identified as: HWC-P150 Drug Investigation (Users and Distribution) Files

This bank contains information on people investigated under the Narcotic Control Act and Regulations, and the Food and Drugs Act and Regulations. It consists of reports prepared by police departments, the Department of Justice, the Department of the Solicitor General, crown counsel, and lawyers, on investigations concerning persons involved in illicit drug use and distribution. It also consists of information received as a result of the monitoring of drug importation, manufacture, distribution and prescription. It includes the following personal information: name, address, date of birth, fingerprints, sex, occupation, drug involvement, and details of the investigation, arrest and case disposition, details of drugs, things, and assets seized and their disposition. The purpose of this bank is to ensure that the use of narcotic and controlled drugs is limited exclusively to medical and scientific purposes, to prevent diversion of those drugs to other uses and to facilitate administration of asset disposal. The information in the bank is used:

- in making decisions in enforcing the regulations concerning the prescribing and dispensing of narcotic and controlled drugs by practitioners and pharmacists and the receipt and use of such drugs by individuals;
- in making decisions in connection with the disposition of drugs and things (including money, conveyances and other assets) seized under the authority of the Narcotic Control Act and Food and Drugs Act;
- to prepare statistics (drug use and conviction) for health planning purposes, on drug use in Canada and in the preparation of the annual report required by the United Nations Narcotic Commission.

In addition to the requirements indicated on the Record Access Request Form, requestors must provide their full name, date of birth and place of birth. In cases where the information is deemed to be of a sensitive nature, enquirers will be required to provide appropriate identifying information about themselves at the time of access to ensure the personal information relates to them and not to another person of similar name and description. Cannabis cases, where assets or other drugs are seized, are kept five years from date of final disposition or last correspondence, whichever is later. Cannabis cases with international implications which are reported to the United Nations are kept until a final report is submitted to that organization. Such reports are kept for two years after the last action taken.

National Dose Registry for Occupational Exposures

Description: The purpose of the bank is to keep records for individuals whose occupational exposures have been monitored. It currently includes information on occupational exposures to radiation. Records are kept on an individual basis and include, in addition to personal identifying information, cumulative radiation exposures and a record-by-record account of the entries into the Registry. Exposure records are inputted from the National Dosimetry Service and from organizations that have their own radiation monitoring programs. The Registry is designed and used primarily for epidemiological and informational purposes. It is also used to advise the individual, his or her employer and the appropriate regulatory authorities when the record shows that the maximum permissible dose has been exceeded, or is about to be exceeded, as described in relevant provincial Acts, the Canada Labour Safety Code or Treasury Board recommendations for federal employees, and the Atomic Energy Control Act. Records are retrieved by social insurance number (SIN) and are kept for 80 years. Persons requesting records should include their SIN on their request form.

Class of Individuals: Occupationally exposed radiation workers.

Purpose: To keep records for individuals whose occupational radiation exposure has been monitored. The records are used for epidemiological and statistical studies, informational purposes, and in support of the regulatory control of occupational radiation exposures.

Consistent Uses: Information is supplied to federal and provincial authorities responsible for the control of occupational radiation exposure and upon request to the Workers' Compensation Board in relation to a compensation claim. Information may be given to a third party upon authorization from the individual.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Kept for 80 years. PAC# = 72-004

Income Security Programs Branch

The objective of this branch is to maintain and improve the social security of Canadians. Through two directorates — Policy, Liaison, and Development; and Programs Operations — the branch is responsible for the administration of the Canada Pension Plan, the Old Age Security, and the Family Allowances programs.

Policy, Liaison and Development Directorate

This directorate, through four divisions, is responsible for ongoing legislative review, as well as for related policy planning and development. It is also responsible for international negotiations in developing social security agreements with other countries.

Programs Operations Directorate

This directorate, through five divisions and a network of regional offices and client service centres, is responsible for the administration of the Income Security Programs. A brief description of the programs follows:

The Canada Pension Plan: a compulsory, contributory social insurance program that provides members of the Canadian labour force with a basic level of protection for themselves and their families against the loss of income due to retirement, disability or death.

The Old Age Security Program: provides a basic level of income for older Canadians through a pension which is supplemented by the income-tested Guaranteed Income Supplement for pensioners who have little or no other income as well as an income-tested Spouse's Allowance for spouses, aged 60 to 65, of pensioners already in receipt of the Guaranteed Income Supplement.

The Canada Pension Plan and Old Age Security Act also provide, in accordance with international social security agreements, for the payment of benefits under the above-mentioned programs.

The Family Allowances Program: supplements the income of families with dependent children in order to help meet the additional costs associated with raising children. It also provides for the payment of an allowance to welfare and government agencies and other institutions which maintain children.

Personal information collected by the Income Security Programs Branch in the course of the administration of the Canada Pension Plan, the Old Age Security Act and Family Allowances Act is contained and maintained in personal information banks located in the regions, and at headquarters in Ottawa.

WHO Fellowship Program

This bank was created in 1972 to record information provided by applicants for World Health Organization (WHO) fellowships. Only successful applicants are included, either Canadian health professionals undertaking short-term studies abroad or foreign health professionals coming to study in Canada. Studies may be in the fields of environmental health, health care systems, or in medical, paramedical or other health-related fields. Contents include the curriculum vitae of each professional; educational and employment history; study programs and reports prepared by Canadian fellows. The bank is used by the Department to monitor the progress of each fellow during the course of his or her study program and to advise WHO on the degree of success achieved by foreign fellows in Canada. Reports prepared by Canadian fellows are disseminated to various governmental and non-governmental associations and are available on request. In order to place fellows in suitable learning/research environments, information is shared with Canadian or foreign universities, hospitals, professional organizations, or health departments. The names of candidates and the nature and amount of the fellowship awarded may be published. Records are held for five years and then destroyed.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting this Department's activities, items of personal information may be accumulated that are not contained in the personal information banks described above. Such personal information might include routine correspondence, or complaint and enquiry files, or completed survey questionnaires and interviews, which are stored as part of a general subject or project file, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This type of personal information cannot be retrieved without providing details on the dates, subject matter, geographic location or the particular event or activity associated with the individual record being sought. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Access to Information and Privacy

Some of the personal information banks maintained by this Department contain Record Access Request forms, responses to them, and information related to their processing. Requests for access to general information may be maintained in separate files established for this purpose. Such requests for access, to either personal information banks or other departmental files, are held by the Access to Information and Privacy Co-ordinators of each branch or regional office, for administrative and statistical reporting purposes. Access to such records by the individuals concerned may be made through the appropriate branch or regional co-ordinator. The departmental Privacy Co-ordinator maintains a file containing requests for access under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act for the use of the Privacy Commissioner.

Program Evaluation

In the course of conducting evaluations of this Department's programs, some personal information may be accumulated that is not contained in the personal information banks described above. Such personal information might include results of mail, telephone or personal interview surveys and might cover data on program benefits, socio-economic and demographic data, opinions of respondents and other evaluation related data. Files might include beneficiaries, clients, co-sponsors or collaborators of the Departments' programs, members of the professional and scientific community, or special interest groups. The information so accumulated will not be used for administrative purposes related to individuals only for statistical purposes. Such personal information is not normally retrieved by the name of the individual or other personal identifier and it may not be retrieved without providing further details of the time and location of the survey.

Drug Investigation

Some of the records collected as part of drug investigations are not stored in NHW/P-PU-055. Offence reports dealing with cannabis-only offences, where no assets are seized, are kept for only two months, or until the information has been extracted on a depersonalized basis and recorded for statistical purposes. Reports are then destroyed. This information is not used for any administrative purpose, and is not retrievable by the name of the individual.

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits (New)

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Occupational Health and Safety

Description: The bank contains accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and copies of the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, which are retained by institutions in the appropriate responsibility centre. First Aid Treatment records are also retained by the institution in accordance with Treasury Board policy. Records, including medical documents about individuals; claims for compensation; related correspondence and records of monies paid are held by Labour Canada. Records of occupational health evaluations and all personal medical data are retained by the Medical Services Branch, Health and Welfare Canada under medical confidential status. Records concerning the occurrence, investigation and settlement of vehicle accidents are retained in Standard Bank P-SE-908.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of occupational health and safety programs in government institutions, including accident prevention, health protection and authorization of leave and benefits associated with work-related injury or illness. Safety and health details and causes of accidents/ injuries for accident prevention and health protection purposes are also recorded to support the effective administration of each institution's health and safety program.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions relating to worker's compensation and injury-on-duty leave; to act as a means of preventing injuries and illnesses and subsequent disabilities arising out of, or aggravated by, conditions of work; to establish that individuals subject to certain identified occupational risks are able to continue working without detriment to their health or safety or to that of others; and to establish the conditions under which certain individuals with identified illnesses or disabilities are able to continue to work under controlled conditions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years for first aid treatment records; ten years for accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, after which the records are destroyed. Records held by Labour Canada and Health and Welfare Canada are retained for the periods specified in the relevant bank descriptions. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employees files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL HEALTH AND WELFARE

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

NATIONAL LIBRARY

Chapter 65

NATIONAL LIBRARY

Background

The National Library of Canada, created in 1953, operates under the National Library Act (1969) and its amendments, and enforces the Legal Deposit Regulations (1969). It is a branch of government having the rank of a department and reports to Parliament through the Minister of Communications. The National Library serves Canada from Ottawa.

Overall Responsibilities

The National Library ensures that the written heritage of Canadian people is preserved and made accessible to everyone through the country's libraries.

To fulfill its responsibilities the Library collects and promotes the Canadian literary heritage in its broadest sense. This includes listing the nation's publications to facilitate their retrieval, availability, and use; providing reference, information, referral and document delivery services to support similar services provided by other Canadian libraries, with special emphasis on Canadian related subjects; making known the written heritage of the nation through a cultural events program; and facilitating the use of the nation's total library resources by co-ordinating and participating in national and international programs for sharing information on publications and for identifying and supplying needed documents on interlibrary loan.

NATIONAL MUSEUMS OF CANADA

Chapter 66

Background

The National Museums of Canada (NMC), a Crown corporation established in 1968 by the National Museums Act, reports to Parliament through the Minister of Communications. It incorporates in a single administration Canada's four National Museums: the National Gallery of Canada; the National Museum of Man, including the Canadian War Museum; the National Museums of Natural Sciences, and the National Museum of Science and Technology, including the National Aviation Museum. It is administered by its own secretariat under the authority of a Board of Trustees. The Secretary-General is the chief executive officer of NMC. The purposes of NMC as defined in the Act, are "to demonstrate the products of nature and the works of man, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, so as to promote interest therein throughout Canada and to disseminate knowledge thereof."

In 1972, the Government of Canada approved a National Museum Policy designed to acknowledge that the federal government had an interest in all collections which formed the national cultural heritage and therefore to ensure the preservation of Canadian museum collections and to increase public access to them. The result was that the National Programs Branch was established to provide services and assistance to the Canadian museum community to further the objectives of this policy.

The Museum Assistance Programme is the responsible area for the granting of monies for projects that meet specific qualifications and criteria to provincial museums and galleries across Canada. The personal information related to this program will be found under fellowships, internships and training by each of the provincial museums and galleries applying for grants.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and at the affiliated museums.

NMC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: NMC-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New) able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

NATIONAL PAROLE BOARD

Chapter 67

NATIONAL PAROLE BOARD

Overall Responsibilities

The National Parole Board (NPB) is an independent, administrative agency within the federal Department of the Solicitor General. In accordance with the provisions of the Parole Act and other relevant statutes, the Board grants, denies and controls the conditional release of inmates from federal institutions and (with the exception of the granting of temporary absences) from provincial institutions in those provinces without a provincial parole board (the provinces of Québec, Ontario and British Columbia have their own provincial parole boards). The Board also makes recommendations to the Solicitor General of Canada for the exercise of the Royal Prerogative of Mercy and for the granting or revocation of pardons under the Criminal Records Act.

In order to satisfy these responsibilities, the Board creates and maintains individual case files on people who are subject to its decisions. The personal information is collected from individuals themselves and a wide variety of sources: courts, law enforcement agencies, the Correctional Service of Canada, provincial correctional authorities, other federal departments, medical authorities, private after-care agencies, and the general public. This information is contained in the parole case files information bank and/or the clemency case files information bank.

In addition to these two banks and the standard employee information banks, the Board has banks containing correspondence sent by or to individuals requesting access to their files under the Privacy Act or to government records under the Access to Information Act.

PERSONAL INFORMATION BANKS — GENERAL PUBLIC

NPB/P-PU-005 Formerly Identified as: NPB-P-10

Parole Case Files

Description: Criminal histories; police and court reports; social, financial, educational, medical and psychiatric histories; progress reports, appraisals and recommendations from staff of penal institutions and parole offices; records of Board decisions and related documentation; warrants and certificates; memoranda and letters from other agencies, government departments and the general public.

Class of Individuals: Individuals who are serving or who, at one time, were serving a sentence of imprisonment in a federal penitentiary; individuals who are serving or who, at one time, were serving a sentence of imprisonment in a provincial institution and applied for parole to the National Parole Board. These records may also contain personal information on individuals other than the individual for whom a file was created, e.g. the individual's family, friends or representatives.

Purpose: Parole case files are used by the National Parole Board in accordance with the provisions of the Parole Act and other relevant statutes, to determine eligibility and suitability of inmates for full parole, day parole, unescorted temporary absences and, in some cases, escorted temporary absences; to set terms and conditions of all types of conditional releases and to review performance on such releases; to consider modifying or reducing conditions of release; to consider restoration of earned remission, lost as a result of revocation of parole or mandatory supervision.

Consistent Uses: To fulfill its legislative mandate, the National Parole Board gathers a great deal of personal information about offenders under its jurisdiction. To obtain the information, it is necessary for the Board to routinely share, when warranted, its information with other sources, including, the Correctional Service of Canada, the RCMP, provincial and municipal governments, and members of the general public associated in some way with the individual to whom the information pertains. In addition, the significant public education role that the Board has to play and the wish to demonstrate to the public the fairness of its decisions, allows the general public, where legitimate reasons exist, to be informed of decisions concerning offenders currently under its jurisdiction as well as the general reasons supporting these decisions. However, the information shared under these circumstances is either factual and/or publicly available, and is general enough to ensure sufficient protection against any invasion of privacy of the individual to whom the information pertains. This information is also used for research, statistical, program monitoring and evaluation purposes, and for the purpose of presenting a defence when court actions are brought against the National Parole Board.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are kept for 15 years after Warrant Expiry Date or death of the individual and destroyed thereafter; historical records are transferred to the Public Archives. PAC# = 78-021

Clemency Case Files

Description: Criminal histories; police and court reports; social, financial, educational, medical and psychiatric histories; appraisals and recommendations from NPB and/or Correctional Service of Canada staff; records of Board members recommendations and related documentation; warrants and certificates; memoranda and letters of other agencies, government departments and the general public.

Class of Individuals: Individuals who have applied to the National Parole Board for a pardon under the Criminal Records Act or an act of clemency under Section 22(2) of the Parole Act in respect of the Royal Prerogative of Mercy or pursuant to the Letters Patent, Sections 683 and 685 of the Criminal Code of Canada. Those records may also contain personal information on individuals other than the individual for whom a file was opened, e.g. the individual's family, friends or representatives.

Purpose: To determine eligibility and suitability for the granting of a pardon or other act of clemency as well as revocation of a pardon.

Consistent Uses: To fulfill its legislative mandate, the National Parole Board gathers a great deal of personal information about applicants under its jurisdiction. To obtain the information, it is necessary for the Board to routinely share, when warranted, its information with other sources, including the Correctional Service of Canada, the RCMP, provincial and municipal governments, and members of the general public associated in some way with the individual about whom the information pertains. However unless the pardon was subsequently revoked, personal information banks contained in files of individuals who have been granted a pardon are kept separate and the content cannot be disclosed to any person without the prior approval of the Solicitor General who, before granting such approval, has to be satisfied that the disclosure is desirable in the interests of the administration of justice or for any purpose related to the safety or security of Canada. This information is also used for research, statistical, program monitoring and evaluation purposes, and for the purpose of presenting a defence when court actions are brought against the National Parole board.

Retention and Disposal Standards: For premature requests, files are kept for two years; for discontinued requests, files are kept for two years after the last contact with the applicant; for pardon granted, files are kept to age 70 or one year after the death of the subject is confirmed by the RCMP; for pardon revoked or not granted, ten years after a final decision. Once the retention periods are satisfied, clemency case files are either destroyed, or transferred to Public Archives if deemed to be of archival or historical value. PAC# = 77-021

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the National Parole Board, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not included in the personal information banks described in this entry. Such information contains the names, addresses and opinions of individuals corresponding with the Department on general parole matters.

This type of personal information is scattered throughout the general subject files listed in the Access Register and is not used for any administrative purpose which might affect individuals. It is normally retrievable only by identifying the appropriate subject file which may contain documents referencing such personal information.

The retention periods associated with this information are consistent with those associated with the general subject files in which they are stored.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters.

NPB/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: NPB-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

NATIONAL PAROLE BOARD

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Staffing

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

NPB/P-SE-903 Formerly Identified as: NPB-S-3

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 000511

NPB/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: NPB-S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Official Languages

Description: This bank contains course enrollment and attendance information; language training applications containing basic personal data, such as first official language, date of birth, and social insurance number for purposes of identification; language knowledge examination scores; training certificates and correspondence about the official languages qualifications of employees. The bank may also contain duplicate input forms for the Official Languages Information System (OLIS) and the Language Training Module (LTM). Language examination, exemption and training records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Similar data is also held in Particular Banks of the Public Service Commission and Treasury Board Secretariat.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for administration of official languages policies as they pertain to employees of the federal Public Service, to document and support decisions pertaining to official languages qualifications and language testing and to document the language training needs and accomplishments of employees.

Consistent Uses: To support and document decisions concerning individual employees on staffing, entitlement to bilingual bonus, transfers and promotions; and to aid in determining the linguistic status of employees and auditing of the administration of official language programs.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last documentation the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

Classes of Personal Information

The personal information contained in this class is distributed across a wide range of subject files. It is not used for administrative purposes, and is normally neither arranged nor retrieved by personal identifiers. The most common types of personal information contained in this class are name, address, and, in some cases, affiliation, educational background and experience. The information was collected through general enquiries, complaints, requests for assistance, and personal views and opinions directed by the public to the scientific laboratories; to the Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information; to the Industrial Development Office regarding its assistance programs; and to the Council's supporting administrative branches such as Personnel and Administrative Services, Contract Services, Public Relations and Information Services, and External Relations. Individuals wishing to access information relating to themselves should provide specific details regarding

- the division, branch, or individual to whom the correspondence was addressed;
- the approximate date of the correspondence;
- the subject matter;
- the name of the program (if applicable); and
- the file reference number, if available.

The retention periods for this class of personal information vary and are provided in the records schedules of the general subject files in which the information is stored.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and also in the regions where noted.

NRC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: NRC-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the

Description: The bank contains accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and copies of the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, which are retained by institutions in the appropriate responsibility centre. First Aid Treatment records are also retained by the institution in accordance with Treasury Board policy. Records, including medical documents about individuals; claims for compensation; related correspondence and records of monies paid are held by Labour Canada. Records of occupational health evaluations and all personal medical data are retained by the Medical Services Branch, Health and Welfare Canada under medical confidentiality status. Records concerning the occurrence, investigation and settlement of vehicle accidents are retained in Standard Bank P-SE-908.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of occupational health and safety programs in government institutions, including accident prevention, health protection and authorization of leave and benefits associated with work-related injury or illness. Safety and health details and causes of accidents/ injuries for accident prevention and health protection purposes are also recorded to support the effective administration of each institution's health and safety program.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions relating to worker's compensation and injury-on-duty leave; to act as a means of preventing injuries and illnesses and subsequent disabilities arising out of, or aggravated by, conditions of work; to establish that individuals subject to certain identified occupational risks are able to continue working without detriment to their health or safety or to that of others; and to establish the conditions under which certain individuals with identified illnesses or disabilities are able to continue to work under controlled conditions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years for first aid treatment records; ten years for accident and occupational injury or illness investigation reports, related correspondence and the supervisor's Accident Investigation Report, after which the records are destroyed. Records held by Labour Canada and Health and Welfare Canada are retained for the periods specified in the relevant bank descriptions. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

Background

The Department of National Revenue was established under the provisions of the Department of National Revenue Act, R.S.C. 1979, c.5. The Department consists of two components: Taxation, and Customs and Excise. Each component is headed by a deputy minister and operates administratively as an independent department.

The primary objective of the Customs and Excise component is to assess, collect and control duties and taxes on imported and domestically-produced goods. Unless otherwise specified, all information banks listed for the Department are used for these derivative purposes only.

STANDARD BANKS

RCC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: RC-CE-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL REVENUE (CUSTOMS AND EXCISE)

relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, the onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's Affirmative Action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks.

This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances,

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL REVENUE (TAXATION)

by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

NATURAL SCIENCES AND ENGINEERING RESEARCH COUNCIL

Chapter 71

Background

The Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council (NSERC) is a departmental Crown corporation that was established on May 1, 1978. Its purpose is to promote and assist research in the natural sciences and engineering, and to advise the Minister of State for Science and Technology on matters relating to such research as the Minister may refer to the Council for its consideration. NSERC is responsible for the management and administration of the Program of Scholarships and Grants in Aid of Research. These grants and scholarships are intended primarily for university research and graduate students.

Classes of Personal Information

The general subject files of the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council contain a certain amount of personal information not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. Typically, this includes routine requests for information from the public or information about individuals (i.e., name, address, views or opinions) that is stored in subject files as a consequence of the dialogue between NSERC and the research community on program matters.

This kind of personal information is not used for any administrative purpose and is normally retrievable only if specifics are given concerning the date, subject and circumstances under which the information was provided. The retention period for this class of personal information is governed by schedules approved by the Dominion Archivist for the various subject files in which it is stored.

NORTHERN CANADA POWER COMMISSION

Chapter 72

NORTHERN CANADA POWER COMMISSION

Background

The Northern Canada Power Commission (NCPC) is a federal Crown corporation which operates under authority of the Northern Canada Power Commission Act. It is concerned with the planning, construction and management of public utilities, primarily electrical, on a commercial basis. For this purpose, it is empowered to survey utility requirements, construct utility plants in the Northwest Territories, the Yukon Territory, and, subject to the approval of the Governor-in-Council, elsewhere in Canada.

The Commission is the principal producer of electricity north of 60° and operates the main transmission networks in the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Heat, water and sewerage service utilities are operated at Inuvik, Northwest Territories. Wholesale heat supply is provided to the government for distribution in Frobisher Bay. Residual heat recovery systems are operated at several locations.

The Commission's head office is located at Edmonton, Alberta. Regional offices are located in the territorial capitals of Yellowknife, Northwest Territories and Whitehorse, Yukon Territory.

It is a requirement of the Act that operations of the Commission shall be self-sustaining within each rate zone as defined in the Act. Consequently, rates charged for utilities supplied must provide sufficient revenue to cover interest and principal payments on loans made to the Commission, operating, maintenance, administrative and all other expenses, and contingency allowances. A 1975 amendment to the Act enables the Commission to charge rates for utilities on a zone basis. (Such rates to provide revenue sufficient to cover interest on investment, repayment of principal, operating and maintenance expenses, and a contingency reserve.)

NORTHERN PIPELINE AGENCY

Chapter 73

NORTHERN PIPELINE AGENCY

Background

The Northern Pipeline Agency was established with the proclamation of the Northern Pipeline Act on April 13, 1978, for the purpose of overseeing the planning and construction of the Canadian portion of the Alaska Highway gas pipeline, to provide access to the substantial Arctic natural gas reserves of both Canada and the United States.

Overall Responsibilities

The Agency's mandate is twofold: (i) it is required to facilitate the efficient and expeditious planning, construction and initial operation of the system in Canada by Foothills Pipe Lines (Yukon) Ltd. and five of its subsidiary companies; and (ii) it is also required to ensure that the project is carried forward in a way that will yield the maximum economic energy and industrial benefits for Canadians, with the least possible social and environmental disruption.

In particular, the Agency is directed by the Act to take account of the local and regional interests of residents, especially native residents, in areas affected by the undertaking.

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES WATER BOARD

Chapter 74

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES WATER BOARD

Background

The Northwest Territories Water Board was established under Section 7 of the Northern Inland Waters Act, which was proclaimed on February 28, 1972. The Northern Inland Waters Regulations were promulgated on September 14, 1972. Two amendments to the regulations have been made since; one on January 15, 1975, and the other on July 17, 1975.

The Board consists of not less than three and not more than nine members appointed by the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development and is made up of at least one nominee of each department of the Government of Canada that in the opinion of the Governor-in-Council is most directly concerned with the management of the water resources in the Northwest Territories, and at least six persons named by the Commissioner-in-Council of the Northwest Territories. The Board held its founding meeting in Yellowknife, N.W.T. on April 18, 1972.

Overall Responsibilities

The Board provides for the conservation, development and use of the water resources of the Northwest Territories in a manner that will provide the optimum benefit for all Canadians, and for the residents of the Territories in particular. Under the Act an application must be made to the Board and either an authorization or licence issued prior to the use of any waters or disposal of any waterborne waste. The requirement for application applies equally to departments and agencies of the federal government. The only exclusions are the use of water for domestic purposes, for extinguishing a fire or, in an emergency, for controlling or preventing a flood.

PACIFIC PILOTAGE AUTHORITY

Chapter 75

PACIFIC PILOTAGE AUTHORITY

Background

As a result of recommendations made by a Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed in force February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four Pilotage Authorities — Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

Pacific Pilotage Authority, Ltd. was incorporated pursuant to the Pilotage Act on February, 1972 as a Schedule "D" Crown corporation within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

The Pacific Pilotage Authority, Ltd. is in general governed by the following: Canada Shipping Act; Pilotage Act; General Pilotage Regulations; Pacific Pilotage Regulations; Authority by-laws.

Overall Responsibilities

The role of the Authority is to establish, operate, maintain and administer in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries; that being all coastal waters of British Columbia and the Fraser River. As a further goal, the Authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are to be fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

The Pacific Pilotage Authority, Ltd. consists of a chairman, and six members appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

The Authority's head office is located in Vancouver, British Columbia. All management services — administrative, personnel, financial, contracts, purchasing, etc. — are provided by the Vancouver office.

STANDARD BANKS

PPA/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: PPA-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above. Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001 identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. PENSION APPEALS BOARD

PENSION APPEALS BOARD

Background

The Tribunal was constituted by the Parliament of Canada, pursuant to an agreement with the Government of Québec, whereby it is responsible for the hearing of appeals which arise from decisions of the Minister of National Revenue and the Minister of National Health and Welfare under the Canada Pension Plan, and from decisions of the Minister of Revenue of Québec and in some circumstances from decisions of La Commission des Affaires Sociales under the Québec Pension Plan.

This Act does not apply to any material which is held by the Board relating to appeals arising under the Québec Pension Plan. The enquirer in such cases should be directed to the pertinent officials of that province.

All decisions of this Board, with respect to the Canada or Québec Pension Plan, are available to the public from the CCH Canadian Employment Benefits and Pension Guide Reports, Volume II, pages 5951 and following.

Both the document mentioned above and the decisions of the Board are held by the departments involved. Any enquiries should be directed to them.

PRIVY COUNCIL OFFICE

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Privy Council Office, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described in the entry. Such personal information includes opinions from the general public concerning various issues being dealt with by parliamentary committees. This form of information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the date and subject matter. The retention period for these classes of personal information is determined by the duration of the general subject files in which they are kept.

PERSONAL INFORMATION BANKS — FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

The Privy Council Office, the Prime Minister's Office, the Office of the President of the Privy Council, the Office of the Leader of the Government in the Senate, and the Federal-Provincial Relations Office are grouped together in the employee information banks section as they share common personnel and administrative services.

Please forward all requests for formal access to the address given under Access Procedures.

PUBLIC ARCHIVES

Chapter 78

Background

The purpose of Public Archives Canada is the systematic preservation of government and private records of Canadian national significance, in order to facilitate not only the effective and efficient operation of the Government of Canada and historical research in all aspects of the Canadian experience, but also the protection of rights and the enhancement of a sense of national identity based on archives as the collective memory of the nation.

This broad mandate obliges the Public Archives to preserve material from the private sector as well as federal government institutions. The banks and classes of federal government records described in this publication, however, do not include material placed in the Public Archives by persons or organizations other than government institutions. Access conditions to collections acquired from the private sector are normally established by negotiation between the donor and the Public Archives.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Chapter 79

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Background

The Public Service Commission (PSC) is a politically independent agency accountable to Parliament for the administration of the Public Service Employment Act (PSEA).

The jurisdictional powers of the PSC rest with three commissioners — one chairman and two members. They are appointed by the Governor-in-Council for a 10 year term and have the status of deputy head. Together, the commissioners set the overall policy in accordance with the Public Service Employment Act. A majority of the commissioners constitutes a quorum. The chairman is chief executive officer.

The PSC, as it is known today, evolved gradually from the Civil Service Commission (CSC), which was established in 1908 under the Civil Service Amendment Act. This Act introduced the principle of merit as established by competition. However, it did not apply to positions outside of Ottawa. The Civil Service Act of 1918 placed the entire Service under the CSC. The Civil Service Act of 1962 preserved the independence of the Civil Service Commission and maintained the fundamental principles of the merit system.

The Public Service Employment Act of 1967 reaffirmed the merit principle and changed the name of the Civil Service Commission to the Public Service Commission. The PSC's main task became staffing, and the Commission was allowed to delegate staffing authority and power to departments. The PSC retained full responsibility for administering the appeals system. The Commission's responsibility for pay, classification and conditions of employment were transferred to the Treasury Board of Canada.

Overall Responsibilities

The primary responsibility of the Public Service Commission today is to ensure that the merit principle, as determined by the Commission, is upheld in Public Service staffing operations. This is accomplished through

- the appointment or provision for the appointment of qualified persons to or from within the Public Service;
- the development and administration of processes and standards for selection of candidates for positions in the Public Service;
- the operation of an appeals system for appointments and demotions or releases for incompetency or incapacity; and
- the conduct of audits to evaluate the manner in which staffing authority has been exercised.

PSEA also provides for the Public Service Commission to

- promote the participation of women, francophones, native people and other under-represented groups in the Public Service;
- ensure that physically and mentally handicapped persons are given effective equality of opportunity to compete for positions in the Public Service;
- provide professional leadership in facilitating, stimulating and operating programs of development and training, including language training and services, to bring about improvements in the skills and qualifications of Public Service employees;
- maintain an effective appeals mechanism for employees of the Public Service in respect of appointments, releases and demotions;

- investigate complaints of inequity and unfairness in employment under PSEA; and
- make decisions on allegations of political partisanship.

Members of the public seeking information about various PSC programs, services and policies are encouraged to telephone the Information Centre at (613) 996-5010. The Centre is located in Ottawa at 300 Laurier Avenue West (West Tower, L'Esplanade Laurier).

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. PUBLIC SERVICE STAFF RELATIONS BOARD

PUBLIC SERVICE STAFF RELATIONS BOARD

Background

The Public Service Staff Relations Board was established in 1967 by the Public Service Staff Relations Act (now RSC 1970 C. P-35). The Board is designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (O.I.C. 1967-635, April 4, 1967). By Order-in-Council 1968-2032 of October 29, 1968 the Board was declared to be a separate employer under the provisions of the Public Service Staff Relations Act. The Board reports to Parliament, through a Minister of the Crown, other than a member of the Treasury Board, as designated by the Governor-in-Council. At present the responsible Minister is the President of the Privy Council.

Overall Responsibilities

The Board is an independent body, whose members are appointed for specified periods and who hold office during good behaviour. It is responsible for the administration of the Public Service Staff Relations Act which established a system of collective bargaining, a grievance process and an adjudication procedure for the federal public service as defined in the Act. These responsibilities include such matters as determination of bargaining units, certification and decertification of bargaining agents, arbitration of interest disputes, adjudication of rights disputes and generally providing an administrative structure within which the rights and responsibilities of the employers and employees in the federal public service may be exercised and/or enforced.

STANDARD BANKS

SRB/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: PSSRB-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

Background

Public Works Canada was established in 1867 by an Act respecting the Public Works of Canada (SC 1867-68 c.12). Before that time, public works were carried on in the Province of Canada by the Commissioner of Public Works who controlled canals, works in navigable waters, harbours, lighthouses, beacons and buoys, slides and booms, roads and bridges, public buildings and provincial vessels.

Overall Responsibilities

The objective of Public Works Canada is: to manage real property for the Government of Canada, and to provide planning, design, construction and realty services to government institutions, departments and agencies, while contributing to the government's wider social, economic and environmental objectives.

The Department builds, purchases and disposes of land and other real property, rents premises, and maintains, improves and manages properties owned or leased by the Government of Canada. The Department also provides marine facilities, roads, bridges and public utilities as required by other federal government programs.

A significantly revised program/activity structure has been introduced for 1985-1986. The number of programs has been reduced from seven to five, each of which relates directly to the role expected of the Department in relation to the several activities the Department is involved in. These are as follows.

The Services Program fulfills the common service role to provide a wide range of professional, technical, and operational services required by the Government in relation to the acquisition, management, and operation of real property.

The Accommodation Program fulfills the common service role to provide the full range of office and other forms of accommodation required to support the operations of Government.

The Government Realty Assets Support Program provides a central capability for the Government to achieve wider social, economic and environmental objectives related to real property.

The Marine Transportation and Related Engineering Works Program provides specific marine works and related infrastructure to facilitate marine transportation and related economic and social development goals.

The Land Transportation and Other Engineering Works Program provides certain highways, bridges and other engineering works to facilitate land transportation and related economic and social development goals.

Organization

Public Works Canada is a highly decentralized department delivering services to other federal government departments from six regional offices. There are also several district offices located in each region which provide local service to the Department's clients and the public. The regional offices are located in Halifax (Atlantic Region); Montréal (Québec Region); Ottawa (National Capital Region); Toronto (Ontario Region); Edmonton (Western Region); and Vancouver (Pacific Region). They carry out the Department's program delivery responsibilities and services in the area of Planning, Property Administration, Real Estate Services, Contract Policy and Administration, Design and Construction, and Finance and Administration.

Classes of Personal Information

Project Records

In carrying out its mandate, the Department generates and receives a large volume of information and correspondence related to work projects. These projects include property acquisition, disposal, expropriation and management; building, highway and marine construction, repair and demolition; dredging services and fleet management; and the provision of associated research, development and consulting services.

Included in this material are often found the personal views and opinions of individuals; evaluations of contractors' and consultants' performance; financial information relating to the management of projects; and any other correspondence associated with specific projects. The retention periods associated with this class of personal information are controlled by the records schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Project records are organized by location. Consequently, access to personal information in project records requires the individual to provide the location of a specific project as well as the nature of the project.

General Operational Records

The Department maintains, in addition to specific project records, general files associated with its operational activities. Occasionally, personal opinions expressed by individuals are maintained on these general records. Access to these records requires the requestor to identify, in sufficient detail, the subject of the information to which he/she wishes access.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions.

PWC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: PWC-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

DEPARTMENT OF REGIONAL INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

Chapter 82

DEPARTMENT OF REGIONAL INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

Background

The Department of Regional Industrial Expansion (DRIE) was created in December, 1983, through the amalgamation of elements of the former departments of Industry, Trade and Commerce and Regional Economic Expansion. DRIE was established to address the government's key priority of economic renewal, and was given the mandate of increasing the economic prosperity of Canadians in all provinces and stimulating regional industrial expansion. When the Ministry of State for Economic and Regional Development was disbanded in July, 1984, the Regional and Project Co-ordination Branch and the Federal Economic Development Co-ordinators were transferred to DRIE.

The Department's objective is to increase overall industrial, commercial and tourism activity in all parts of Canada in an environment that is stable and responsive to the expressed needs of business. This objective is achieved by working with business and labour, other governments and the academic community; providing financial, marketing and other technical information to businesses; and where necessary, extending direct financial assistance.

The Department acts so as to foster a climate which encourages firms to be more internationally competitive by developing new products, processes, and services; establishing the capacity to produce these goods and services; marketing these goods and services at home and abroad; and restructuring the firms' activities to adjust to changing market conditions.

The major programs administered by DRIE include the Industrial and Regional Development Program, Tourism Canada, the Defence Industry Productivity Program, the Program for Export Market Development (delivered on behalf of the Department of External Affairs), Special Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA), the Native Economic Development Program and Economic and Regional Development Agreements (ERDA) Sub-Agreements.

Access Procedures

Personal information held by DRIE includes information on employees. Information on other persons may also be retained for the purpose of administering the Department's regional and industrial expansion programs. Such information may, for example, assist in determining eligibility for and level of benefits, in auditing and evaluating and in effecting payments.

Persons who wish to formally exercise their rights under the Privacy Act are requested to submit their requests in writing to

Labour Force Tracking Surveys — 1977 and 1978

Description: This database contains information obtained as a result of two special surveys undertaken in the summers of 1977 and 1978. The surveys were designed to collect data on the employment history of individuals experiencing layoffs from declining sectors. The information collected includes data on the respondents' demographic characteristics, income, education and skill levels. The information is arranged by year of survey, with identification by social insurance number.

Class of Individuals: Individuals who experienced layoffs from selected employers, in selected communities across Canada.

Purpose: The Labour Force Tracking Surveys were undertaken as a result of the Department's mandate to examine the labour adjustment problems which workers employed in declining sectors faced. The information gathered from the surveys has only been used for analytical and policy making purposes, the drafting of statistical reports and econometric model development. Because of the historic nature of the data, it is no longer in active use, although there is continued interest in results of analysis.

Consistent Uses: Since the surveys were a joint project with the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission, aggregated data has been shared with that Department for research purposes.

Classes of Personal Information

Enterprise/Industrial Development and Assistance

The Department and its predecessor departments have administered a number of enterprise/industrial development and assistance programs. These programs have been aimed at encouraging enterprise and industrial development in a wide variety of ways. Personal information may be collected in the course of these departmental activities. Programs and activities which may have involved the storage of personal information include the Industrial and Regional Development Program, the Regional Development Incentives Program, the Enterprise Development Program, the Tourism Destination Program, the Tourism Incentives Program, the Industry and Labour Adjustment Program, the Support for Technology Enhanced Productivity Program, the Program for Export Market Development, the Canadian Industrial Renewal Board Program, the Defence Industry Productivity Program, the Pharmaceutical Industrial Development Assistance Program, the Credit Reinsurance Program, the Shipbuilding Industry Assistance Program, the Small Business Loans Act Program, the Advanced Technology Program - Waterloo Centre for Process Development, the Small Business Investments Grants, the Government Procurement Projects, the Industry Energy Research and Development Program, the Major Crown Projects, the Machinery Program, the Native Economic Development Program and the Western Transportation Industrial Development Program.

Personal information may include particulars such as the names, addresses, social insurance numbers, financial interests, management capabilities, employment histories, remuneration, age, health, marital status and educational background of individuals. Such personal information is stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided such as the program area, the corporate/project name, the location of a facility and the approximate date of submission/award.

General Development Agreements, Economic and Regional Development Agreements, Subsidiary Agreements and Related Initiatives

The Department has collected data needed for the administration of subsidiary agreements entered into with the provinces, consistent with the terms and conditions of general development agreements previously signed with all provinces, except Prince Edward Island, and the new economic and regional development agreements entered into with the 10 provinces. The general development agreements, which expired on March 31, 1984, established the framework for development and identified development opportunities for implementation under subsidiary agreements. A number of these subsidiary agreements continue in effect, for instance, the Canada-Alberta Subsidiary Agreement on Nutritive Processing Assistance, the Canada-British Columbia Subsidiary Agreement on Industrial Development and the Canada-Manitoba Subsidiary Agreement on Northern Development. The economic and regional development agreements, which succeed the general development agreements, provide a framework for co-operation and consultation on matters relating to economic development in each province and region. As opportunities are identified, individual subsidiary agreements are formulated. These opportunities are normally unique to a province and, as a result, subsidiary agreements cover a broad range of specific programs. Examples of these agreements are the Canada-Nova Scotia Subsidiary Agreement on the Strait of Canso Area Development, the Canada-Saskatchewan Subsidiary Agreement on Advanced Technology and the Canada-New Brunswick Subsidiary Agreement on Transportation Development.

Personal information may be stored in administering a number of subsidiary agreements. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided such as the name of the project or program that may be related thereto and the approximate date of submission/award.

Other Programs and Agreements

This class reflects other programs and agreements not specifically covered under the other classes. These other programs and agreements are aimed at resolving specific problems of a limited nature or in specifically defined areas of the country. For example, federal-provincial agreements such as those under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA) are concerned with rural problems of unemployment and social disadvantages. Special ARDA agreements have been used as a vehicle to improve the economic circumstances of native people by providing financial and other assistance to create job opportunities. In addition, a $345 million Native Economic Development Program has been created to increase economic self-reliance and development for Canada's native people. A 15-year development agreement, the Prince Edward Island Comprehensive Development Plan, was signed by Canada and P.E.I. in 1969, under the authority of the Fund for Rural Economic Development Act. The plan has allowed for the design and implementation of a broad range of programs to stimulate economic growth, create jobs and raise per capita income. In addition, under the Federal Development Strategy, the Department has been involved in providing further economic development activities on P.E.I. Special areas have been designated in Canada, such as the Magdalen Islands, in order to deal with special problems of economic expansion and social adjustment.

Personal information may be stored in administering programs falling within this class. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individuals or other personal identifier. This form of information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided, such as the name of the program concerned, the name of the specific project and the approximate date of submission/award.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions.

RIE/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: DRIE-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

RIE/P-SE-903 Formerly Identified as: DRIE-S-3

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

RIE/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: DRIE-S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed to the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

RESTRICTIVE TRADE PRACTICES COMMISSION

Chapter 83

RESTRICTIVE TRADE PRACTICES COMMISSION

Background

The Restrictive Trade Practices Commission and the position of Director of Investigation and Research, were established by the Combines Investigation Act for the purpose of carrying on the federal government's anti-combines work. As an administrative tribunal, the Commission's function is to appraise and report on statements of evidence relating to enquiries which may be transmitted to it by the Director of Investigation and Research. Part IV.1 of the Act confers a quasi-judicial function upon the Commission and, for the purposes of that part, makes it a court of record. With the exception of certain duties under the Shipping Conferences Exemption Act, all the present functions of the Commission are specified in the Combines Investigation Act.

ROYAL CANADIAN MINT

ROYAL CANADIAN MINT

Background

In 1931, an Act of Parliament was passed and the Ottawa Mint, originally established in 1908 as a branch of the Royal Mint, London, became the Royal Canadian Mint, established as a branch of the Department of Finance. The Mint was incorporated in 1969 by the Royal Canadian Mint Act.

The Royal Canadian Mint's primary purpose is to produce and arrange for the production and supply of coins of the currency of Canada. A Crown Corporation, the Mint actively competes in the international circulation and numismatic coin markets against other national or private mints to produce coins of countries other than Canada. Additionally, the Mint operates a refinery to melt, assay and refine gold, silver and other metals.

ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE

Chapter 85

ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE

Background

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police was formed in 1873, under an Act of Parliament. In accordance with the present RCMP Act, the Commissioner, under the direction of the Solicitor General of Canada, is responsible for the control and management of the Force.

Overall Responsibilities

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police enforces laws throughout Canada made by or under the authority of Parliament. Administration of justice within the provinces, including enforcement of the Criminal Code, is the responsibility of provincial governments. The RCMP has contract agreements with the two territories and all provinces, except Ontario and Québec, to enforce criminal, territorial and provincial laws, pursuant to Section 20 of the RCMP Act.

The headquarters of the Force is located in Ottawa. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police consists of 16 divisions. Each division is managed by a commanding officer. There are 13 operational divisions, divided into 48 sub-divisions and 709 detachments, located in all provinces and the territories. These divisions are alphabetically designated, with the headquarters for each located in its respective provincial or territorial capital except for "A" which is in Ottawa, and "C" which is in Montréal. Under the Commissioner, functional direction is provided by a deputy commissioner in charge of Administration, a deputy commissioner in charge of Criminal Operations and a deputy commissioner in charge of Canadian Police Services.

Specialized support is offered to the 13 operational divisions by Air, Marine and Laboratory Services. The remaining three divisions are "HQ" and "N" located at Ottawa and Rockcliffe, Ontario respectively, and Depot Division located at Regina, Saskatchewan.

The RCMP Academy (recruit training) is located at Depot Division in Regina. "N" division is comprised of the Canadian Police College, Musical Ride and the Band. "HQ" (Ottawa) consists of the Commissioner's Office and his Secretariat, directorate policy and co-ordinating centres and specialized support services, such as the forensic laboratory, the Canadian Police Information Center (CPIC), and the Foreign Services Directorate which has responsibilities for activities of RCMP members stationed abroad.

The CPIC system is an advanced computerized information storage and retrieval facility, designed for the sole use of participating law enforcement agencies. The CPIC acts as a central repository of operational police data that is contributed to and maintained by participating police forces. Records entered into the system must be supported by documented police reports held by the originator. The originating agency is the only one entitled or enabled to alter records in the system.

Access Procedures

All record access requests under the Privacy Act are processed centrally and should be addressed to

The Commissioner
Royal Canadian Mounted Police
1200 Alta Vista Drive
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 0R2
Attention: Departmental Privacy Co-ordinator

The diversity of operations within the federal, provincial, municipal and territorial jurisdictions results in information storage systems that are decentralized, except for matters of national security where one master system is maintained in Ottawa. For this reason persons submitting access requests must indicate the geographic location they want searched.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions, and cover members of the public service employed by the RCMP.

CMP/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: RCMP-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equally represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

MINISTRY OF STATE FOR SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Chapter 86

MINISTRY OF STATE FOR SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Background

In 1971, the Ministry of State for Science and Technology (MOSST) was established by Order-in-Council for the purpose of formulating and developing policies in relation to the activities of the Government of Canada that affect the development and application of science and technology, and was presided over by a Minister of State and a Secretary reporting to the Minister.

Since July 15, 1983, the Secretary has also been chief science advisor (CSA) to the government, responsible for providing expert and objective advice to Cabinet and its committees on priorities for, and the planning of, Canada's overall science and technology effort.

This change of role necessitated that the Ministry be reorganized in order to give the CSA direct access to Cabinet. The new organization permits the Ministry to perform the central agency function of formulating policies and providing advice on science and technology to the federal government. Its mandate covers the science and technology activities of departments, and includes other activities such as those of industry and universities insofar as they interact with the federal government.

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances,

by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

SCIENCE COUNCIL OF CANADA

Chapter 87

Background

The Science Council of Canada was created by the federal government in 1966 to provide independent advice on science and technology policy in Canada. Its duties are set out in the Science Council of Canada Act and were enlarged by amendments made in 1978. Reporting to Parliament through the Minister of State for Science and Technology, the Council operates at arm's length from government, designing its own programs of research and publishing its findings at its own discretion. The Council is involved in a number of projects in different areas of science and technology policy at any given time. Major studies on topics selected by the Council, are usually carried out under the guidance of a committee, composed either of Council members or of Council members and outside experts. Research and policy analysis are conducted by Science Council research staff and, when necessary, outside consultants. The work may involve conferences or workshops that permit the participation of individuals from across Canada who are concerned with the issue under study. Science Council staff also carry out feasibility studies of proposed research projects, studies of urgent issues identified by the Council executive and studies requested by the Minister of State for Science and Technology.

The Science Council consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and up to 28 members drawn from all regions of Canada and representative of a wide variety of disciplines and interests, with a balance maintained between the academic and industrial communities. With the exception of the chairman and vice-chairman, all serve without remuneration.

Overall Responsibilities

The Council's major responsibilities are to analyze science and technology policy issues; recommend policy direction to government; keep Canadians informed as to the impact of science and technology on their lives; and stimulate discussion of science and technology policy among governments, industry and academic institutions.

Access Procedures

Information on the Council's access and privacy procedures may be obtained from the Director of Finance, Personnel and Administration, who is the Access to Information and Privacy Co-ordinator. All written requests should be addressed to

STANDARD BANKS

SCC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: ScC-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters.

SSC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: SS-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification;

professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Description: This bank contains personal data including course applications and evaluations; social insurance number; examination results and certificates; records of fee payments; and correspondence related to participation of employees in training and development activities, sponsored both by the government and operated by private organizations. It should be noted that participation and achievement records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record and that information on an employee's needs for individual development related to performance is contained in the Performance Reviews and Employee Appraisals Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of training and development programs within government institutions.

Consistent Uses: To approve and register the participation of employees in training and development activities and to certify the achievements of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after completion of the particular training and development undertaken by an employee. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employees files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Chapter 89

SOCIAL SCIENCES AND HUMANITIES RESEARCH COUNCIL

Background

The Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council is a grant-giving body whose funds are voted by Parliament. Its mandate, in the terms of Section 5 of the Government Organization (Scientific Activities) Act, 1976, is "to promote and assist research and scholarship in the social sciences and humanities; and advise the Minister in respect of such matters relating to such research as the Minister may refer to the Council for its consideration." The Council administers programs of fellowships for research training and support, grants for research, international scholarly exchanges, research resources, scholarly publishing, conferences and other research-related activities.

Access Procedures

Files on all applicants for Council grants for the last four years are kept at the Council's office in Ottawa. The Council's policy on the retention/disposal of files is under review. Any enquiries on the following banks should be addressed to

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOLICITOR GENERAL

Chapter 90

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOLICITOR GENERAL

Background

The Department of the Solicitor General was established in 1966 when Parliament enacted the Department of the Solicitor General Act, which assigned to the Solicitor General, responsibility and accountability for the management and direction of reformatories, prisons, penitentiaries, parole, remissions, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

By 1973, evolutionary additions and changes to these responsibilities resulted in the Department's reorganization into a ministry, incorporating the Secretariat, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Correctional Service of Canada, the National Parole Board, and the Office of the Correctional Investigator. On July 16, 1984, the newly established Canadian Security Intelligence Service was also added to the Ministry.

Overall Responsibilities

The Solicitor General discharges certain duties specifically assigned under a number of acts, notably the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act, the Penitentiary Act, the Parole Act, the Prisons and Reformatories Act, the Immigration Act, the Official Secrets Act, the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act, the Criminal Records Act, and the Criminal Code of Canada. In addition, the agencies of the Ministry have an operational responsibility for the discharge of functions under acts such as the Criminal Identification Act, the Diplomatic and Consular Privileges and Immunities Act, the Fugitive Offenders Act and the Migratory Birds Act, among others. Specific mandates of the Ministry's agencies are as follows.

The Ministry Secretariat is responsible for developing and co-ordinating Ministry policy and program roles at the federal and federal-provincial levels, in four major areas: criminal justice, corrections, police, and security.

The RCMP is responsible for the enforcement of federal statutes, the provision of police services under provincial and municipal contracts, and of national police services.

The Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) is responsible for the custody of inmates, their health care, education, training and employment. It also provides inmate counselling and personal development programs and supervises parolees.

The National Parole Board (NPB) is responsible for granting or denying parole, including day parole, to inmates of federal and provincial prisons. It also rules on unescorted temporary absences for inmates of federal penitentiaries and recommends the exercise of the Royal Prerogative of Mercy and the granting of pardons.

The Correctional Investigator's mandate is to investigate complaints from, or on behalf of, incarcerated persons and report upon problems identified; in essence, acting as an ombudsman, endeavouring to resolve complaints by administrative action.

The Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) collects, analyses and retains information and intelligence respecting activities that may on reasonable grounds be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada.

The Office of the Correctional Investigator, the RCMP, the Correctional Service of Canada, the National Parole Board and the Canadian Security Intelligence Service are described in greater detail elsewhere in this Index with a complete listing of the personal information banks they hold. Requests for access to personal information specifically related to these agencies should be directed to the Privacy Co-ordinator of the particular agency.

Classes of Personal Information

Secretariat Records Office

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Ministry Secretariat, personal information may be accumulated which is not contained in any of the specific personal information banks described in this entry, or the standard banks located elsewhere in the index. Such personal information exists in a fragmented form throughout some 45,000 files located in Ottawa and five other cities across Canada. The information relates to criminal justice system policy; police and law enforcement issues; and general administrative matters. Most of the information is generated internally. However, a portion comes from the general public in the form of opinions or inquiries. This information is not intended to be used for any administrative purpose affecting individuals by the Ministry Secretariat. Information may include names, addresses, profession, and is normally only retrievable if specifics are provided, e.g., project titles, dates, events, organization titles and locations.

Police and Security

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Police and Security Branch, personal information may be accumulated which is not contained in any specific personal information bank described in this entry. This information is not intended to be used for any administrative purpose affecting individuals. Such personal information may include names, addresses, and titles of positions which are contained in the general subject files where the records are not normally retrieved by personal identifiers. The personal information is normally retrieved only if specific subjects, events, dates or projects are provided.

Security Intelligence Transitional Group (SITG)

In the course of conducting the activities and programs of this planning group, personal information may be accumulated which is not contained in the specific personal information bank described in this entry, i.e. planning information on the organizational, personnel and administrative structure for the new security agency; public opinions and enquiries. This information is not intended for use in any administrative purpose affecting individuals by the Security Intelligence Transitional Group. The information may contain names, addresses, and position titles and is stored as a part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by personal identifiers. The information is only retrievable if specific subjects, dates, or events are provided.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters.

SGC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: SGC-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOLICITOR GENERAL

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOLICITOR GENERAL

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

STANDARDS COUNCIL OF CANADA

Chapter 91

Background

The Standards Council of Canada (SCC) was established in 1970 by an Act of Parliament to foster and promote voluntary standardization in Canada as a means of advancing the national economy, benefiting the health, safety and welfare of the public, assisting and protecting consumers, facilitating domestic and international trade, and furthering international co-operation in the field of standards.

Overall Responsibilities

The Council carries out its task through the National Standards System (NSS), a federation of accredited independent organizations concerned with standards writing, certification and testing co-ordinated by the SCC. The system was created to provide a medium through which Canadian organizations involved in such activities may operate and co-operate to recognize, establish and improve standardization in Canada. It provides a comprehensive Canadian standardization capability to meet both national and international requirements and responsibilities.

The Council ensures effective Canadian participation in the work of the International Organization for Standardization (ISO), the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC) and any other similar international organizations engaged in the formulation of voluntary standards. Both of these international agencies have as their objective the development of standards, with a view to facilitating international exchange of goods and services. ISO work is concerned with standardization in many disciplines, except for the electrotechnology field which is IEC's responsibility.

STANDARD BANKS

SDC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: STDC-P-P10
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits (New)

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. STATISTICS CANADA

Background

Statistics Canada collects and provides statistical information on the characteristics and behaviour of Canadian households, businesses, institutions and governments for research, policy development, program administration, decision-making and general informational purposes. This is done under the authority of the Statistics Act which prohibits the disclosure of identifiable information to anyone but the individual concerned.

The statistical information banks maintained by Statistics Canada contain some personal information that has been obtained from a variety of sources. Information is collected directly from the individual through the censuses of population and agriculture, from sample surveys such as surveys on income and expenditure, labour force surveys and special surveys. It is also collected through certain formal agreements the agency has entered into with large social institutions and various levels of Canadian governments. These arrangements give Statistics Canada access to administrative records for the purpose of extracting data on the client populations of the institutions of Health, Education and Justice and on the activities of the population as it comes in contact with the state (e.g., the registration of births, deaths and marriages).

One of the most important of these agreements is one Statistics Canada has with Revenue Canada (Taxation) to access taxation returns for statistical purposes, thus allowing the use of an administrative file of the federal government containing a wealth of information on the socioeconomic fabric of the Canadian population. The accessing of taxation records has allowed Statistics Canada to exempt many respondents, particularly small businesses, from the filing of regular questionnaires. Statistics Canada also accesses administrative files of other federal government departments relating to unemployment insurance and divorces.

Information banks maintained by Statistics Canada are largely automated. Since records in these banks are meant to be used for statistical purposes and not for administrative purposes, they are rarely classified by name. In fact, few data banks contain names. Some banks are organized by a unique identifier, be it a number assigned by Statistics Canada, a number assigned by the administrative source, such as a registration number, or the social insurance number. Records in other banks are classified geographically, or by the name of the company. It should be noted that many of the statistical data banks contain only a sample of the population. To locate a statistical record, Statistics Canada will require, in most cases, not only an identifier, but additional information such as the time period in which an individual has responded to a survey, or his/her street address, or his/her industry sector.

Access Procedures

Section 12 of the Privacy Act gives every person the right to obtain information about him/herself contained in a personal information bank or other personal information about him/herself under the control of a government institution. Because some of the information Statistics Canada has was obtained through data-sharing agreements, such information cannot in many cases be disclosed to anyone unless express authorization is obtained from the data source. Consequently, Statistics Canada will redirect a request to the data source which, in many cases, will be more expedient in terms of time and cost savings, since that source has collected the information for administrative purposes and can more readily retrieve the information than Statistics Canada can.

Census and Demographic Statistics Branch — Census Operations

STC/P-PU-005 Formerly Identified as: SC-P10
Census of Population — Microfilmed Records

This bank contains information obtained from the censuses of population taken since 1891. The records are identified by name and contain information on the social and economic characteristics of every person in the country. The records in this bank, which are organized on a geographical basis, are microfilmed copies of the original questionnaire dating back to 1891. To retrieve a record from this data bank, the precise address at the time of the census is required. Please note that only the individual named in the record can have access to information it contains, or the legal representative of a minor, incompetent or deceased person but only to settle the affairs of the estate of that person. This information relates to all individuals in Canada at the time of the census. The Census of Population is a national inventory of Canada's key socioeconomic phenomena, conducted at prescribed intervals by statutory requirement. The data collected, when compiled into statistics, are used for a wide range of purposes including the determination of economic and social policies, planning industrial development, and estimating needs for schools, roads and many other public services. Population figures are used to determine electoral district boundaries, and to calculate per capita grants to provinces and municipalities. A program has been established called the Census Pension Searches to provide proof of age, place of residence, family relationships or length of residence in Canada from historic census records and 1940 National Registration Records. The service is normally provided in support of application for pensions, citizenship, passports and similar situations where other more preferred administration records are required but no longer exist or, as in a number of cases, were never issued. Current policy is to retain these records for 100 years.

STC/P-PU-010 Formerly Identified as: SC-P20
1940 National Registration Records

The records provide social and economic information on individuals as well as information on their skills. This information relates to all persons 16 years of age or older in the period 1940-1946 with the exception of those people who were, at the time of registration, a member of the armed forces or a religious order. The information was originally obtained under the authority of the National Resources Mobilization Act, 1940, and the War Measures Act to permit the mobilization of all of the effective resources of the nation, both human and material, for the purpose of the defence and security of Canada. The National Registration Regulations pursuant to this legislation gave custody of the records to Statistics Canada, then known as the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. A program has been established called the Census Pension Searches to provide proof of age, place of residence, family relationships or length of residence in Canada from historic census records and 1940 National Registration Records. The service is normally provided in support of application for pensions, citizenship, passports and similar situations where other more preferred administration records are required but no longer exist or, as in a number of cases, were never issued. Labour and Household Surveys Branch

Labour Force Survey

The Labour Force Survey is a monthly survey conducted on a sample basis of approximately 53,000 households. The records are identified by name and carry information on the composition activities and characteristics of individuals who constitute the Canadian labour force. Data content includes the demographic profile of the respondent, employment profile, such as name of employer, hours of work, and tenure. For those without work, information is available on work history, job search activities, and type of work sought. Data is also available on the educational pursuits of the respondent. The data is maintained in such a way as to permit the production of statistics at the level of selected census metropolitan areas, economic regions and the provinces, and for selected non-CMA urban areas based on quarterly estimates. It is for this reason that information relating to an individual cannot be retrieved based on name alone. The requestor must provide the month(s) and year he/she was surveyed and the precise address at the time of the survey. There are also a number of special surveys that are conducted as supplements to the Labour Force Survey covering a variety of topics including work patterns, leisure time activities, absence from work, travel to work, etc. To retrieve a record, the requestor must provide the subject of the special survey, the year he/she was surveyed and the precise address at the time of the survey. This information relates to individuals who constitute the Canadian labour force. The main purpose of the bank is to produce unemployment figures. The data also enable a wide variety of additional information to be derived on the characteristics of the Canadian labour force and on the population over age 15 in general. The records are retained for 50 years.

Longitudinal Income Sample (New)

This bank contains sociodemographic data of sample individuals from the 1971 Census, and income components from tax returns. The income components as well as the marital status are updated with annual data from tax returns. Records are identified by a census identifier number. This file has been dormant since 1980. This information relates to individuals randomly sampled from the 1971 Census and where the individual has filed a tax return. This bank is used to produce data used exclusively for statistical research and production of longitudinal income profiles. Retention and bank disposal standards are indeterminate — the life span of the file depends on how long the sample numbers can be linked to the tax returns.

Agriculture Database

This database contains information obtained from the census of agriculture which is a statutory requirement, and farm surveys. The records carry information on the socioeconomic characteristics of farm operators and information relating to crops, livestock and poultry, and machinery. It also contains information on farm operating expenses and agriculture receipts. This information relates to farm operators. This bank provides a basic inventory of Canadian agriculture, provides input to the System of National Accounts and provides information for production, marketing and policy decisions. Statistics Canada may release name and address information to other members of the national agricultural statistical system for statistical purposes. The current policy is to retain the records for 100 years.

Integrated Vital Statistics Database

This database has integrated information obtained from the universal systems of registration of births, marriages, deaths and stillbirths. These are originally recorded and accumulated by registrars of vital statistics in each province and territory. The information on births relates to place of birth, particulars on parents (name, birthdate, marital status of mother) and particulars of the child (surname and name). The information on stillbirths relate to particulars of the child, (place of birth, sex, weight) and particulars of parents (name, birthdate, ethnic group). The marriage component of the database contains information on the bride and bridegroom (name, marital status, birthdate, mother tongue), particulars of parents (name, birthdate, birthplace) and on the date and place of marriage. Information on deaths relates to name of deceased; date, place and cause of death. The information has been obtained through formal arrangements with the provinces and is to be used for statistical purposes only. Statistics Canada, therefore, is unable to respond to requests for information contained in this bank, pursuant to section 19(1)(c) of the Privacy Act. Any individual wishing to obtain information relating to the registration of births marriages or deaths should contact the appropriate provincial registrar. This information, collected annually, relates to all individuals who were born in Canada or the United States and are Canadian residents; married or died in Canada; or a Canadian resident who died in the United States. The purpose of the bank is to provide input into the production of estimates of births, marriages and deaths for Canada and the provinces. These data are also used in special studies relating to, for example, mortality, fertility and life expectancy. Vital statistics are the prime components used in intercensal population estimates. The Mortality Database which forms part of the Integrated Vital Statistics Database is used as one of the input files in long-term medical follow-up studies. It provides information on date, cause and place of death for individuals in a particular study group (see Personal Information Bank STC/P-PU-076). The files are retained for 100 years.

Divorce Statistics Database

The bank contains place of residence, place of birth, date of birth, particulars on the marriages of both spouses, the alleged grounds for divorce and award of custody of dependant children. These records are obtained from the Central Divorce Registry of the Department of Justice, for statistical purposes. All requests for information relating to an individual's divorce should be directed to the Central Divorce Registry of the Department of Justice. Any requests received by Statistics Canada will be transferred to that department. This information, collected annually, relates to all spouses in Canada for whom a decree absolute has been issued. The purpose of this bank is to produce data on divorce in Canada, including characteristics of the parties, number of dependants involved, alleged grounds for divorce and comparative rates for selected countries. The files are retained for 100 years.

Long Term Medical Follow-up Study Files (New)

The Long-Term Medical Study Files are comprised of information from two sources: input study files from groups outside of Statistics Canada, and the Mortality Database which is part of the Integrated Vital Statistics Database STC/P-PU-035 maintained by Health Division. The input files contain records of individuals which have been supplied by employers, unions, health surveys or other research groups. These input files are then matched to the Mortality Database to provide information on date, cause and place of death. The input study files may contain from several hundred to many hundreds of thousand of records depending on the size of the study group. Individual identifying information includes names, birthdate, birthplace and place of residence. The name of the individual's parents or spouse may also be included where this information is required to confirm the validity of a linkage. After the linkage is complete and the statistical data file has been produced, the linked file is then destroyed. The input study file and the file containing the death records to which the study file records were linked are kept separately. An identification number is present on both files which can bring corresponding records together if necessary. The files are stored on password d tapes in the Statistics Canada tape library. This database contains records of individuals who form part of population cohorts identified by employers, unions health surveys, or other research groups. Health statistics, in general are used to describe the state of health of the Canadian people and the occurrence of illnesses. In particular, these files are primarily used to provide researchers with data they need to compare the rates and causes of death in groups exposed to different levels or types of chemicals, diet medical treatment, x-rays, disease, etc. This in turn gives information needed by policy makers to set appropriate levels of exposure to toxic agents in occupational, environmental and medical settings. The files are retained for a minimum of five years.

Post-secondary Student Survey (New)

The survey population for the 1984 Post-secondary Student Survey (approximately 944,000 individuals) was provided by the registrars of post-secondary institutions and included the name, address, telephone number and registration characteristics of all students registered in a regular credit course during the fall term of the 1983-84 school year. A sample of 64,000 individuals was selected for the survey from this population. A total of 45,000 responses were received. The survey sought information relating to the current education, other education and employment of the respondent, as well as background characteristics. It also collected information with respect to how the respondents financed their education. This information relates to all students registered for credit courses in Canadian universities and community colleges or equivalent institutions at the time of the survey. The purpose of the Post-Secondary Student Survey is to provide comprehensive data on those who attend post-secondary institutions in Canada, their fields and levels of study, and how they finance their post-secondary education. The data will provide a basis for the analysis of such issues as accessibility to post-secondary education in Canada. The retention standards have not been established.

National Graduates Survey (New)

The sample for the 1984 National Graduates Survey was selected from lists of 1982 graduates obtained from colleges, universities and vocational schools in Canada. These lists contained information relating to approximately 220,000 individuals and included the name, address, telephone number and student identification number of each individual. Approximately 50,000 persons were selected to be surveyed and, of these, approximately 36,000 responded. The survey collected information relating to the post-secondary studies, work and other experiences before post-secondary studies and general information relating to the respondent (e.g., age, marital status and language). At the same time, information was collected concerning salary levels two years after graduation, the amount of employment and unemployment experienced during the first two years, the occupation and industry of employment, the relationship between field of study and occupation, and the geographical destination of graduates. This information relates to graduates from vocational, college and university programs in calendar year 1982. The purpose of this bank is to produce statistical information which is used to monitor the experiences of vocational, college and university graduates in the transition from school to work, and to provide general information to students, educational planners, labour analysts and the general public on this transition; to provide information required by analysts developing occupational supply and demand projections models, conducting related studies of supply/demand imbalances in the labour market; to provide a subjective assessment of graduates' level of satisfaction in a number of areas; where appropriate, to determine to what extent employment is related, partially related or unrelated to the field of graduation; to compare the employment experiences of 1976 graduates in 1978 with those of 1982 graduates in 1984; to determine to what extent the retraining of persons with considerable work experience has become a major activity, particularly in vocational schools and colleges and to assess if the retraining results in a career change and related employment; and to determine the amount and direction of inter-provincial movement of graduates of various types. Retention standards have not been established.

Classes of Personal Information

Business Statistics

The business database contains information which relates to the major industrial and services sectors of the economy. The information is obtained from establishments within companies through surveys and from administrative records. It is used to describe the whole range of business activity in Canada, the goods and services produced, the cost structure of each industry and the location of industrial activity. It measures the kind and quality of goods produced, the costs of materials, labour and capital employed and the prices of both material and final products. The information is also a vital input to the System of National Accounts.

As some of the businesses surveyed are unincorporated, there is personal information in this data base relating to owners of unincorporated businesses who can be identified by a social insurance number. The following components of the business data bank may contain personal information in respect of unincorporated businesses:

Industry: This component contains cost structure information, material input and commodity output data for manufacturing and logging industries and for the forestry, mining, energy, resource and manufacturing sectors. It also contains organizational, operational, financial, labour and capital expenditure information for general and trade contractors. As well, information is held on the activities of retail businesses and wholesale trade including the sales, inventories and operating data. Transportation: These files contain financial, operational and traffic information relating to air carriers, passenger buses, and for-hire and private trucking. Labour: The files contain information on the employment of labour by small businesses. They also contain information on personal characteristics of the population benefiting from unemployment insurance, and on individuals starting and terminating benefit periods.

Informatics and Methodology

The mandate of the Administrative Data Development Division is to study and develop methods and approaches to explore the statistical potential of administrative data files from other federal or provincial institutions for small area social statistics and as an alternative or complement to direct data collection through censuses or surveys. The division maintains a number of databases containing personal information which has been obtained from administrative sources. However, whereas the Department that originally collected the data maintains the files in a manner which permits retrieval by name or other identifier. Statistics Canada classifies the data on a geographical basis which permits the production of data for very small areas, within the constraints of confidentiality.

Following is a description of the classes of personal information maintained by the division:

Unemployment Insurance Monthly Beneficiary Database: This database contains information on every person who qualified for at least $1.00 of benefits in the third week of the month. The number of records per month varies between 500,000 and 1 million over the course of a year. Persons who collect special benefits such as sickness and maternity benefits are included in the database. The contents include the social insurance number, demographic information and information on occupation. The records are retained for 20 years.

Personal Income Tax Database: This is an annual database of all persons who file income tax returns for each tax (calendar) year. The information is obtained from Revenue Canada. Coverage is about 80% of the Canadian population 16 years of age and over. It is lower for the young, the elderly and females and is close to 93% for males in the prime working ages (20-64). The contents of the file include the following: social insurance number, demographic information and information on income. The records are retained for 20 years.

Old Age Security Master File: This is a file received once a year containing information on all persons receiving Old Age Security (including guaranteed income supplement) payments. The contents include social insurance number, demographic information, geographic information and limited income information. The records are retained for 20 years.

Labour and Household Surveys

The Household Surveys Division is responsible for a number of household surveys including surveys on family expenditures, household facilities and equipment, and incomes of Canadian families and individuals. In some cases, the name of an individual respondent is collected. In other cases, the respondent may be a household unit or a spending unit. In all cases, however, the information is maintained geographically and is not intended to be retrieved by name or other personal identifier.

Following is a description of the classes of personal information maintained by the division:

Survey of Consumer Finance: This is an annual survey of households, conducted on a sample basis, designed to measure the distribution of income and to provide other yardsticks of the economic wellbeing of Canadian families and individuals. The records carry information on wages and salaries and other income, selected family and personal characteristics. To retrieve a record from this class of personal information, the requestor must provide the year he/she was surveyed and the precise address at the time of the survey. For those years when the survey is carried out in conjunction with the Labour Force Survey, it may be possible to locate records relating to an individual. However for those years when it is conducted independent of the Labour Force Survey, after the processing cycle is complete and the questionnaires are destroyed (usually after one year), it would be necessary to provide certain personal characteristics such as age and sex to permit the identification of an individual in a household group.

Family Expenditure Survey: The survey collects information, obtained by a sample survey of households, on expenditures by families and singles living in private households, covering their complete budgets. A primary use of the information is for reviewing and updating the weights for the Consumer Price Index. As with the other classes of personal information maintained by the agency, this information is not intended to be retrieved by name or other personal identifier. To retrieve a record from this class of personal information, the requestor must provide the year he/she was surveyed and the precise address at the time of the survey. This may permit the retrieval of the survey response, but in those cases where the spending unit represented in the response is a group rather than an individual person, it would be necessary to provide certain specific details of the individual requesting the record to permit the identification of that individual. This would include such personal characteristics as age, sex, and marital status.

Routine Correspondence and Other Subject Files

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of Statistics Canada, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in specific information banks described in this entry.

Such information includes enquiries, complaints and general correspondence which are stored as part of the general subject files and are not retrievable by any personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable by means of specific information such as subject and/or date of communication.

The retention periods associated with this information are consistent with those associated with the general subject files wherein they are stored.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions.

STC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: SC-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

OFFICE OF THE CO-ORDINATOR, STATUS OF WOMEN

Background

In 1971, the position of Co-ordinator, Status of Women was set up within the Privy Council Office. In 1976, the Office became a department of the federal government by Order-in-Council.

The primary functions of the Status of Women Canada are to advise the Minister in carrying out his or her responsibilities; to monitor policy and program development in the federal government for its impact on women; and to liaise with provincial governments, non-government organizations and international organizations, in order to maintain an awareness of their activities.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting its activities, Status of Women Canada accumulates categories of personal information which are stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. Such personal information may have been accumulated in the process of handling such complaints and enquiries as are made to the Minister and the Department. Due to the special nature of the Department's activities, these personal complaints and enquiries are usually forwarded to the appropriate department for individual assistance. The Department handles policy and program issues, but not personal program delivery matters. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the issue of complaint, and the date and name of complainant. All issues dealing with federal government legislation, policies and programs as they impact on women are included.

The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

STANDARD BANKS

OSW/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: SW-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

OFFICE OF THE CO-ORDINATOR, STATUS OF WOMEN

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Staffing

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY AUTHORITY

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY AUTHORITY

Background

The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority was established in 1954 by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority Act, and is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule C, Part I) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The Authority was incorporated for the purpose of

- acquiring lands for and constructing, maintaining and operating all such works as may be necessary to provide and maintain, in Canada or in conjunction with works undertaken by an appropriate authority in the United States, a deep waterway between the Port of Montréal and Lake Erie;
- constructing, maintaining, and operating all such works in connection with such a deep waterway as the Governor-in-Council may deem necessary to fulfil any obligation undertaken pursuant to any present or future agreement;
- acquiring lands for, and constructing, maintaining and operating, alone, or jointly, or in conjunction with an appropriate authority in the United States, bridges connecting Canada with the United States as authorized by the incorporating Act, and in connection therewith, or as incidental thereto, acquiring with the approval of the Governor-in-Council, shares or property of any bridge company, and operating and managing bridges; and
- acquiring lands for, and constructing or otherwise acquiring, maintaining and operating such works or other property as the Governor-in-Council may deem to be necessarily incidental to works undertaken pursuant to the incorporating Act.

In support of the basic objective of the Canadian Marine Transportation Administration to provide safe and efficient facilities and services for waterborne commerce and marine operations, the objectives of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority are

- to provide, operate, and maintain an efficient deep waterway, assuring through navigation to the head of the lakes;
- to recover the costs to the Authority of operating the deep waterway;
- to develop and enforce regulations and standards to ensure safe and efficient movement of marine traffic, proper supervision and control of vessel operations and protection of the environment;
- to assess on a continuous basis the need for improvements to the Seaway.

The incorporating Act confers powers upon the Authority commensurate with these purposes, including the power to borrow money and to produce revenue by levying tolls for the use of the deep waterway.

The Authority has operating responsibility for thirteen locks in two canal sections, and operates numerous tunnels, bridges and ancillary structures. For operational and management purposes, the deep waterway is divided into two sections.

The Montréal — Lake Ontario section includes seven locks and raises marine traffic a total of 68 meters. Five of the locks are located in Canada while two are in the United States. The latter are operated and maintained by the United States Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

The Welland Canal section includes eight locks between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie, three of which are twinned, and which raises marine traffic a total of 99 meters. This section was transferred from the Department of Transport to the Authority in 1959 and deemed to be part of the deep waterway system.

The three members of the Authority as well as its legal services, corporate planning, and planning and development, are located in Ottawa. Central services, located in Cornwall, Ontario, include operations and maintenance, personnel and administration, as well as finance. The headquarters of the eastern section, which extends from Montréal to Lake Ontario, is in St. Lambert, Québec. The Engineering Services Branch is also located there. The Western Section, which operates the Canadian-owned Welland Canal, is at St. Catharines, Ontario.

Classes of Personal Information

Purchasing Section

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Purchasing Section, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described in this entry. Such personal information includes surplus assets files containing information on the disposal of surplus materiel and equipment, including the declaring of surplus assets, the location of assets, the names and addresses of purchasers and pertinent sales documentation, stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This class is maintained on a regional basis. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the surplus declaration number and a description of the surplus assets.

The retention period for surplus assets files is one year after disposal of items valued at under $1,000, and two years after disposal for items valued at over $1,000.

Headquarters and Regional Operations

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Headquarters and Regional Operations Sections, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described in this entry. Such personal information includes reports completed by ships' captains or pilots as required, and reports by Authority employees making reference to ships' captains or pilots. Such reports are included on ship history files containing accident, incident, violation, inspection and delay reports on specific ships, stored as part of the general files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. The files are used for reference purposes and the personal information contained therein could be used to assess liability. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the name of the ship and date of occurrence of the event.

The retention period for these classes of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

THE JACQUES CARTIER AND CHAMPLAIN BRIDGES INCORPORATED

Background

The Jacques Cartier and Champlain Bridges Incorporated was created for the purpose of managing, controlling, operating and maintaining the Jacques Cartier and Champlain bridges, including a portion of the Bonaventure Autoroute in Montréal.

The Jacques Cartier and Champlain Bridges Incorporated received its Certificate of Incorporation under the Canada Business Corporations Act on November 3, 1978. The administration and control of the Jacques Cartier Bridge, the Champlain Bridge and a portion of the Bonaventure Autoroute in the Montréal area was transferred to this corporation from the National Harbours Board (Ports Canada) by virtue of Order-in-Council P.C. 1978-3139 dated October 12, 1978, as amended, effective December 1, 1978. The corporation's head office is located in Ottawa, Ontario and its chief place of business is at Longueuil, Québec.

The corporation was established to provide the public with a safe and efficient transit over the Jacques Cartier Bridge, the Champlain Bridge and a portion of the Bonaventure Autoroute; and to provide this service while making every effort possible to make the bridges completely self-financing.

Specific objectives of the corporation are

- to continue the implementation of a program to maintain the bridges and autoroute at an acceptable standard;
- to ensure operational safety and efficient flow of traffic;

- to assess the need for improvements to the system and plan for their implementation;
- to develop a long-term financial plan and recommend to Cabinet a toll structure which will enable the Jacques Cartier and Champlain Bridges Incorporated to achieve financial self-sufficiency;
- to rationalize the capital structure of the corporation by seeking the deletion of its $111 million debt to the Crown; and
- to examine its personnel requirements on a continuing basis to assure the optimum utilization of human resources.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions.

SLS/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: SLSA-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY AUTHORITY

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or of archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

DEPARTMENT OF SUPPLY AND SERVICES

Chapter 95

DEPARTMENT OF SUPPLY AND SERVICES

Overall Responsibilities

The Department of Supply and Services is the supply and accounting arm of the government and operates under two major programs. As a common service agency, the Department, through the Supply Program, acquires and provides goods and services in support of the operational programs of other federal government departments and agencies. Its activities include requirements definition; the acquisition of goods and services of a scientific, engineering and commercial nature; maintenance and repair; printing and publishing; traffic management; advertising management; security services; expositions; warehousing and distribution; assets managements; and disposal services.

The Services Program provides a broad range of administrative, management and advisory services to the government, including the administration of the Consolidated Revenue Fund and making payments from it; maintaining the accounts of Canada; operating the public service payroll and superannuation systems; and providing optional auditing, management consulting and certain accounting services to departments and agencies. The office of the custodian is administered within this program.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions.

DSS/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: SSC/SUP-S-1
SSC/SER-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

TARIFF BOARD

Chapter 96

TARIFF BOARD

Background

The Tariff Board, made up of a chairman and six members, carries out one program consisting of two functions: to act as an independent commission of enquiry into matters on tariffs and trade, and to act as a quasi-judicial court of appeal.

In its role as a commission of enquiry, the Board undertakes specific trade and tariff studies at the request of the Minister of Finance. In conducting an enquiry, the Board invites the submission of briefs and holds public hearings at which the views of importers, manufacturers and consumers can be heard. Based upon those hearings and the work of its own research staff, the Board makes such recommendations on these matters as it deems appropriate.

In its role as a court, the Board hears appeals resulting from rulings by National Revenue, Customs and Excise on tariff classification, valuation of goods for customs purposes, and the federal sales tax. The Board's powers also include the hearing of appeals on charges levied on petroleum and petroleum products and on the exportation of any oils. Its rulings are appealable to the Federal Court and the Supreme Court.

The Tariff Board was established in 1931. Its authority to carry out enquiries and to hear appeals is provided for under the Tariff Board Act. Its role as a quasi-judicial court of appeal is further specified in the Customs Act, the Excise Tax Act, the Anti-dumping Act and the Petroleum Administration Act.

The statutory responsibility of the Board is to adjudicate upon appeals from rulings by the Department of National Revenue, Customs and Excise and to conduct enquiries referred by the Minister of Finance or the Governor-in-Council into matters affecting Canada's international trade.

PERSONAL INFORMATION BANKS — FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

Please direct enquiries concerning the following banks to the address given above.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters.

TBD/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: TAR-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001 and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave (New)

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBD/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: NO REFERENCE

Pay and Benefits (New)

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Official Languages (New)

Description: This bank contains course enrollment and attendance information; language training applications containing basic personal data, such as first official language, date of birth, and social insurance number for purposes of identification; language knowledge examination scores; training certificates and correspondence about the official languages qualifications of employees. The bank may also contain duplicate input forms for the Official Languages Information System (OLIS) and the Language Training Module (LTM). Language examination, exemption and training records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Similar data is also held in Particular Banks of the Public Service Commission and Treasury Board Secretariat.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for administration of official languages policies as they pertain to employees of the federal Public Service, to document and support decisions pertaining to official languages qualifications and language testing and to document the language training needs and accomplishments of employees.

Consistent Uses: To support and document decisions concerning individual employees on staffing, entitlement to bilingual bonus, transfers and promotions; and to aid in determining the linguistic status of employees and auditing of the administration of official language programs.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last documentation the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

DOT/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: TC-S-1

Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion,

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORT

including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed to the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances,

by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

TREASURY BOARD (SECRETARIAT)

Chapter 100

TREASURY BOARD (SECRETARIAT)

Background

The Treasury Board is a committee of the federal Cabinet. The President of the Treasury Board is the chairman of the committee, and its members include the Minister of Finance and four other ministers who are appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The Board was created by Order-in-Council in 1867 and received statutory approval in 1869. Its secretariat was part of the Department of Finance until 1966, when it became a separate Department.

Overall Responsibilities

The Treasury Board's responsibilities, as set out in the Financial Administration Act, include financial management, personnel management and central administration of the Public Service of Canada. It is also responsible for the application of the Official Languages Act within the Public Service and serves as the employer for negotiating federal Public Service collective agreements under the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

The Treasury Board is served in these functions principally by the Treasury Board of Canada Secretariat, which is divided into five branches: Program, Personnel Policy, Staff Relations, Administrative Policy, and Official Languages. In addition, there are three offices — the Office of the Secretary, the Communications Division and the Submission Control Unit.

The secretary is the deputy minister, who directs the work of the Department and advises the President and the Board on all areas concerning the organization and management of the Public Service under the jurisdiction of the Treasury Board. The Office of the Secretary is also responsible for the co-ordination of requests received under the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act for information held by the Treasury Board Secretariat.

The Communications Division provides the President, the secretary and the five branches with the services, advice and expertise they require in the area of public relations, communications and publishing.

The Submission Control Unit acts as a central clearing point for all submissions received by the Treasury Board. Submissions are departmental requests for program expenditure or administrative, personnel or other authorities that the Treasury Board is empowered to grant. The unit maintains files on past decisions of the Treasury Board.

Official Languages Information System (OLIS)

OLIS is a central bank containing information on all established positions and incumbents appointed for indeterminate periods or terms of more than six months in departments and federal agencies. The bank includes information on language requirements of positions, levels of language knowledge, linguistic profile, position classification, language requirements, and the effective date. The information relates to employees listed in Schedule 1, Part I of the PSSRA as well as for some other government organizations under a special agreement. This bank has been compiled to provide timely and accurate information for the implementation, control and evaluation of the Official Languages Program in the Public Service. Information is also disclosed for statistical purposes to the Special Groups Identification Survey in order to implement and evaluate government policies relating to affirmative action. There is an interface between the OLIS and the LTM systems of the Official Languages Branch, sharing event- and incumbent-related data. The information is used for reference and statistical purposes to monitor the Official Languages Program. Records are retained for 15 years and then destroyed.

Language Training Module (LTM)

LTM is a central bank containing information on language training provided to public servants at government expense. Primarily, the bank includes information such as proficiency levels trained to, hours used for language training, employee training entitlement, and type of language training received (whether given by the PSC, a department or private enterprise). The information relates to employees, current and previous, of departments and agencies listed in Schedule 1, Part I of the PSSRA as well as some other government organizations under a special agreement. The purpose of this bank is to provide accurate, timely and reliable information to support the implementation and control of that segment of the Official Languages Program that pertains to language training provided to public servants. There is an interface between the Language Training System (LTS) of the Public Service Commission (PSC) and the LTM, (e.g. the PSC updates the LTM with the final training results and status, and the PSC is provided with a training history). An interface also exists between OLIS and the LTM of the Treasury Board. The information is used for reference and statistical purposes to monitor the Official Languages Program. Records are retained for 15 years and then destroyed.

and benefits, exclusions, training and development, official languages and performance appraisals. This information relates to all federal employees for whom the Treasury Board is classed as the employer under the Public Service Staff Relations Act. The bank was compiled to provide employer/management with personnel management statistical data in support of Treasury Board's role in collective bargaining with the Public Service unions; and to provide a record of employment for individual employees including a verification of employees by location within government institutions, for the use of both departments and central agencies. Statistical data is also disclosed to the Special Groups Identification Survey in order to implement and evaluate government policies relating to affirmative action. Records are retained for 10 years and then destroyed.

TBS/P-CE-706 Formerly Identified as: TB-C-P110 Special Groups Identification Survey

This survey of the federal Public Service (PSSRA Schedule 1, Part 1 population) permits those individuals who are Métis, Inuit or Indian, disabled persons and/or members of visible minorities, to identify themselves as such. A service-wide census was conducted in April 1985 in order to initialize this central data bank (TBS/P-CE-706). Various methods for keeping the data bank up to date are being considered, such as voluntary self-identification of newly-hired personnel, mandatory self-identification of personnel who access special programs and services for the above-mentioned groups, and small-scale surveys which would ensure that all public servants are resurveyed every four or five years. This information relates to employees of that portion of the federal Public Service covered by the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Schedule 1, Part 1. The bank will be used to identify those members of the Public Service who are Métis, Inuit or Indian, disabled persons, and/or members of visible minorities for analysis purposes. The bank facilitates comparison of their representation in the Public Service to their presence in the population. The bank will also be used to analyze and monitor the situation and progress of the survey target populations, as compared to the rest of the Public Service, in terms of regional and occupational distribution, training, mobility, etc. These comparisons will be made on a regular basis in order to determine the effectiveness of affirmative action and special programs and to identify areas of possible improvement. Self-identification status and personal identification from the survey are matched, using the provided personal identification, to other files, such as the Incumbent File, other appropriate files of the Personnel Management Information System (PMIS), the Training and Development System (TDIS), the Official Languages System (OLIS) (all from the Treasury Board Secretariat), and the Quarterly Statistics File and the Appointment Information Management System, both from the Public Service Commission. The bank contains data extracted from the survey form, such as the social insurance number and status of the particular individual. The bank will be matched by common identifier (the social insurance number) to the above-mentioned files in order to obtain information relating to age, sex, occupational group, subgroup and level, years of service, salary, etc., so that tabulations can be produced in support of analysis as described above. If a respondent has not reported his/her social insurance number, it is entered for statistical purposes only. The bank acquires information from other banks, but no disclosure of personal information is made from this bank that could reasonably be expected to identify the individual to whom it relates. An individual attempting to access his/her registered special groups identification status should provide the social insurance number in order to guarantee response to the request. Retention period for this information are to be established.

STANDARD BANKS

TBS/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: NO REFERENCE
Employee Personnel Record (New)

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Pay and Benefits (New)

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. PAC# = 85-001

Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS

Chapter 101

DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS

Background

More than 600,000 Canadian men and women served in the First World War. Of these, 66,655 gave their lives and approximately 173,000 were wounded. In addition, 1,649 Newfoundlanders died in that war. In the Second World War, more than one million Canadians served their country. Of these, over 44,000 were killed and approximately 55,000 wounded. There were 714 fatalities from Newfoundland forces. During the Korean conflict, more than 26,000 Canadians served with the United Nations Peacekeeping Force: 516 died, 1,200 were wounded. In 1985, the Canadian veteran population is approximately 675,700 male and 32,300 female veterans.

Names of Canadians who were killed in these wars and also the Boer War are recorded in the Books of Remembrance. The original volumes, including the Newfoundland Book of Remembrance, are open to public view in the Peace Tower on Parliament Hill in Ottawa. Copies are retained in every province.

Overall Responsibilities

The Portfolio's mission is to manage special programs for veterans and other specified persons to compensate for deaths suffered and disabilities incurred in the service of Canada, or enable them to be self-sufficient and participative members of the community, and to otherwise perpetuate recognition of wartime sacrifice and its contribution to Canada.

The purpose of some of the original rehabilitation programs, such as re-establishment credits, was successfully fulfilled and they were phased out. Portfolio responsibilities continue to include the administration of pensions and war veterans' allowances, medical treatment, counselling, advocacy, and educational assistance to children of the war dead, as well as commemoration of those who served their country during wartime.

Today, most veterans are approaching the end of their working life, and programs are being tailored to meet their needs as they approach old age.

Organization

The Veterans Affairs Portfolio consists of the Department of Veterans Affairs and four associated agencies, namely: the Canadian Pension Commission, the Pension Review Board, the Bureau of Pensions Advocates, and the War Veterans Allowance Board, which all report to Parliament through the Minister of Veterans Affairs.

The Department of Veterans Affairs has two operational branches, Veterans Services and Veterans Land Administration.

The Department of Veterans Affairs was created by an Act of Parliament in 1944. Previously the care of veterans had been the responsibility of the Military Hospitals Commission, the Department of Soldiers Civil Re-Establishment (created during the First World War), and then the Department of Pensions and National Health, established in 1928.

Towards the end of the Second World War, the Department of Veterans Affairs was formed to oversee expanded rehabilitation programs. The Canadian Pension Commission was formed in 1933 as the successor to the Board of Pension Commissioners that had been in operation since 1919. The War Veterans Allowances Board was established in 1936, when it replaced the War Veterans Allowance Committee. The Pension Review Board and the Bureau of Pensions Advocates were both created in 1971 as a result of amendments to the Pension Act.

Personal information contained in the Department of Veterans Affairs personal information banks is used by all components of the Portfolio.

Veterans Services Branch

The Veterans Services Branch administers a broad range of economic, medical and social services benefits to qualified veterans and special categories of civilians, and their families. War Veterans Allowance and Civilian War Allowance are income support benefits intended to ensure that family incomes do not fall below a level provided for under legislation. Assistance Fund grants are available to allowance recipients to meet emergency needs. Pensioned orphans of veterans or members of the armed forces are eligible for financial assistance to pursue post secondary education.

Medical, surgical and dental treatment, including special equipment and long-term care, are provided to eligible veterans and other qualified persons. Miscellaneous allowance benefits are payable in certain circumstances under the Veterans Treatment Regulations.

Veterans Land Administration

P.O. Box 7700
Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island
C1A 8M9

The Veterans Land Administration (VLA) manages property purchase agreements between the director, VLA, and veterans and their heirs. More than 140,000 veterans have been settled under the Veterans Land Act since its inception nearly 35 years ago. The final lending deadline was March 31, 1977.

Canadian Pension Commission

P.O. Box 9900
Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island
C1A 8V6

The Canadian Pension Commission is charged, under the Pension Act, with responsibility to administer the legislation in such a way as to recognize the obligation of the Government of Canada to provide compensation to those members of the armed forces who have been disabled or have died as a result of military service. This Act also provides for the payment of pensions for surviving dependants, and allowances for exceptional incapacity, attendance and clothing. The Commission also administers Parts I to X of the Civilian War Pensions and Allowances Act, which provides for similar awards for disability or death, attributable to service during the Second World War in certain organizations or types of employment which were closely associated with the armed forces, such as Merchant Seamen or Auxiliary Services personnel; the Compensation for Former Prisoners of War Act, which provides for the payment of compensation for former prisoners of war, evaders and escapees and their dependents; and the Halifax Relief Commission Pension Continuation Act which authorizes pension payments to certain persons injured in the Halifax explosion of 1917. As well, the Commission adjudicates on pension claims under various other Acts, orders and regulations, such as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act and the Flying Accidents Compensation Regulations.

Pension Review Board

P.O. Box 7700
Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island
C1A 8M9

This agency acts as an appeal tribunal for applicants who are dissatisfied with decisions of the Canadian Pension Commission. It is the final authority on matters of pension entitlement, the amount of money to be awarded, and the interpretation of pension legislation and regulations.

Bureau of Pensions Advocates

P.O. Box 7700
Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island
C1A 8M9

The Bureau of Pensions Advocates provides a free legal service to applicants and pensioners under the Pension Act. It assists veterans in preparing applications for pensions and in applying for changes in the amount of pension previously awarded. Bureau lawyers also represent veterans at hearings held under the Pension Act and the War Veterans Allowance Act.

War Veterans Allowance Board

P.O. Box 7700
Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island
C1A 8M9

The War Veterans Allowance Board acts as a court of appeal for dissatisfied War Veterans Allowance and Civilian War Allowance applicants and recipients. It reviews decisions of departmental adjudicators to ensure that adjudication is consistent with the intent of the legislation and is uniformly applied throughout Canada. The board adjudicates pursuant to specific sections of the legislation where it has sole jurisdiction, provides interpretation of the Acts and regulations, and advises the Minister on the regulations.

STANDARD BANKS

The following banks are located at headquarters and in the regions.

VAC/P-SE-901 Formerly Identified as: VAC-S-1
Employee Personnel Record

Description: This bank provides a summary record of an individual's employment with government institutions. It is maintained for the purpose of facilitating personnel administration. Information about an individual may be used in decisions relating to the areas of: staffing, attendance and leave, pay and benefits, training and development, occupational health and safety, official languages, discipline, and level of security, where information in one area may affect a decision in another area. In the above cases, the information in this bank summarizes and refers to more detailed information in other banks. This information may be used, provided such use is consistent with the main uses of the information, to ensure that personnel actions within government institutions are co-ordinated in the interests of both the individual and the employer. The Employee Personnel Record relating to an employee is under the control of his/her current employing institution and contains information concerning personal characteristics, including age and sex; social insurance number; home address; citizenship; education, including transcripts, certificates and diplomas; non-government employment history; career résumés and references; geographical and organization location; appointments, transfers, promotions and demotions; periods of employment, including probationary periods, lay-offs and tenure; classification including position numbers, groups, levels, titles and salaries; superannuation and insurance, including names of beneficiaries. Also included, where applicable, is information concerning military service, including periods and areas of service; collective bargaining exclusion, including designation status and bargaining agent identification; professional achievements, including publications, patents and awards; passports and firearm permits related to employment; and termination of employment, including certificates and reasons for termination. The Employee Personnel Record contains summary records of decisions relating to staffing; attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; decisions concerning compensation and fitness for work; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance. The major series of information concerning these topics is, however, found in the various other Standard Banks. The Employee Personnel Record may not include the personal information actually used to make decisions in the areas noted above.

DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: To provide documentation and authorization of appointments, transfers, promotions, demotions, termination of employment and superannuation.

Consistent Uses: To authenticate decisions on staffing, attendance and leave; pay and benefits; training and development; occupational health and safety; official languages; discipline; and level of security clearance, as well as verifying employment references. Information is also provided to Supply and Services Canada to facilitate payment of salaries; to various provincial health insurance plans; to group insurers, where applicable; to unions for dues check-off purposes and to National Health and Welfare for pension purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained by the current employing institution for the duration of employment plus one year and then transferred to the control of Public Archives. The information is destroyed when the individual reaches the age of seventy, or two years after the death of the individual, provided two years have elapsed since the last administrative action concerning the information. For records relating to disciplinary action, the time limit for disposal is that specified in applicable collective agreements or three years following the date of disciplinary action, provided no further disciplinary action has been recorded in the meantime. In cases where a disciplinary action has been rescinded, onus is on the institution to ensure that the documentation of the action concerned is immediately destroyed. Records of individuals, if judged by the Dominion Archivist to be of historical interest or archival value, are retained permanently by the Public Archives of Canada. PAC# = 85-001

Description: The bank contains staffing requests; position descriptions; salary ranges; selection profiles; competition posters; transfer requests; layoff lists; human resources inventory print-outs; candidates' applications; lists of candidates; rating board assessments, including evaluation notes from staffing boards; examination papers and test results; eligibility lists; offers of employment; notices to candidates; notices of right of appeal and appeal documents; and correspondence concerning staffing by various processes, including competitions and human resources inventory searches. Records in the bank contain a variety of personal information which may include age, sex, education levels and social insurance number. (N.B. Notations of staffing decisions may also appear in the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The bank provides a record of the information used in staffing positions in a government institution.

Consistent Uses: To select candidates, staff positions and process appeals for appointments and promotions. Access procedures: Competition number, where applicable, should be quoted.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or two years after any other administrative action, at which time the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 001561

VAC/P-SE-903 Formerly Identified as: VAC-S-3

Attendance and Leave

Description: This bank contains absence reports and leave applications, as well as physician's certificates associated with sick leave, all of which include the individual's social insurance number and correspondence about attendance and leave. While the social insurance number is included on these forms to verify the correct identity of individuals, provision of the SIN by data subjects is not mandatory. The annual record of attendance and leave is attached to the Employee Personnel Record. Some attendance and leave information exists in automated form in institutional personnel databases, especially in time/attendance, leave control and absenteeism systems.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support administration of employee attendance and leave within government departments and agencies.

Consistent Uses: To record attendance and authorize leave. To support decisions on pay and benefits, such as those concerning leave and termination of employment, and to evaluate use of leave and rates of absenteeism.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after expiry of fiscal year, after which period the records are destroyed. PAC# = 85-001

TBS Registration Number: 001562

VAC/P-SE-904 Formerly Identified as: VAC-S-4

Pay and Benefits

Description: This bank contains certificates for pay, allowances and deductions, which set out pay and benefit information for each employee, and include the social insurance number as well as correspondence related to the administration of pay and benefits. The bank may also include orders for garnishment, attachment, and diversion of funds. (N.B. Earning and superannuation records are attached to the Employee Personnel Record.)

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide documentation for the administration of pay and benefits within government institutions and to approve disbursement of salaries and allowances and retention of deductions. The social insurance number is used for purposes of identification and to ensure consistency in administration of pay and benefits. Provision of the SIN is mandatory for this bank, subject to exemption of some individuals under special circumstances.

Consistent Uses: To enable audit and reconciliation of payroll accounts (e.g. employee remuneration and entitlements), to support the recovery of overpayments and debts owed to the Crown and, where applicable, to enable execution of orders of garnishment, attachment, or diversion of funds in accordance with the Garnishment, Attachment and Pension Diversion Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after expiry of fiscal year, for general pay and deduction documentation and for correspondence, except in instances where there is a need to settle overpayments, to collect debts owed the Crown or to enforce orders of garnishment, attachment or diversion of funds, in which case records are retained until the overpayment is settled, the debt collected or the garnishment, attachment or diversion order is no longer in force. Affirmative Action Program (New)

Description: The bank contains personal information on employees such as education, work history and career aspirations, training and development, which is collected by means of questionnaires and/or interviews or compiled from employee files or automated data systems. Respondents are asked to identify whether they are male or female; whether they are a native person, if they have a continuing or permanent physical disability, or form part of a visible minority. The social insurance number or an employee number may be used to identify employees in instances where government institutions are not able to employ an anonymous questionnaire as well as when these identifiers are required to locate employee records.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: This bank provides documentation for the implementation of the affirmative action policy in government institutions falling under the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Part 1, Schedule 1. Data is collected to provide a comprehensive picture of employees by sex and by target group status (e.g. women, indigenous peoples and physically or mentally handicapped persons), and, in some instances, by visible minority. This information is used to compile a personnel profile of employees and to compare the situation of target group members with non-target group members within a government institution and with their counterparts in the general labour market. The social insurance number or employee number may be used to link information in this bank with that in another bank containing employee information (e.g. the Personnel Management Information System) in order to obtain statistical information, where the securing of such information would be consistent with the uses for which the personal information was collected.

Consistent Uses: The information gathered will be used for institutional purposes in the government's affirmative action program to identify and eliminate systemic discrimination in employment and to introduce temporary special measures to ensure that target groups participate in and are equitably represented in the federal Public Service. It may also be used for policy and planning purposes related to affirmative action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. PAC# = 85-001

Personal Harassment (New)

Description: This bank contains letters of complaint regarding incidents of harassment; records of interviews both with complainants and alleged harassers; records of interviews with witnesses to incidents; summations of management investigations and analyses of events and records of decisions taken about particular incidents. Such information must be retained as a separate record and not placed on the complainant's Employee Personnel Record. When a disciplinary action results from an investigation, information may be transferred to the Discipline Bank.

Class of Individuals: Departmental employees.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information necessary for dealing with complaints of personal harassment at the workplace, to make decisions in specific instances on whether or not personal harassment is occurring, and when this is the case to determine the appropriate action, including disciplinary action, to be taken to end a harassment situation.

Consistent Uses: To support decisions on transfer and discipline of employees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity in relation to an individual case. PAC# = 85-001

YUKON TERRITORY WATER BOARD

Chapter 102

YUKON TERRITORY WATER BOARD

Overall Responsibilities

The Yukon Territory Water Board is a nine member quasi-judicial body appointed by and responsible to the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. Its responsibility is to manage and protect the Yukon's surface and sub-surface water resources.

Water Use Licences are issued for hard rock mining, hydropower generation, municipal use in some cases, placer gold mining and other industrial purposes. A licence application received by the Board is reviewed at a public hearing which is advertised in the Canada Gazette and the local newspapers. At the hearing, the applicant presents his case before the Board; in addition, members of the public who have submitted a written Notice of Intention to Intervene before the hearing, may present arguments for or against the issuance of a licence to the applicant.

If no intervenors come forward before the date set for the public hearing, it may be cancelled. The Board considers the application without public input, and a licence is either issued or denied. A licence drafted by the Board generally contains terms and conditions which reflect a balance between protection of the water resources and their exploitation as proposed by the applicant. The licence is then sent to the Minister whose signature renders it legally effective.

The Regional Manager Water Resources, Yukon Region, Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development enforces the terms and conditions of Water Use Licences. The manager and his staff also serve as technical advisors to the Board.
